CROWD COLLECTOR'S OFFICE

Men and women in a continuous line filed into the county delinquent tax collector's office yesterday to pay their taxes and receive the receipts necessary for registration. Voters may register today for the primaries of September 20 and the election of November 8.

Roof Fall Traps 7

Seven men were caught by the fall of a roof of a building being torn down at 2912 Penn avenue, shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon. Six were rescued injured and taken to a hospital.

A seventh is still under the debris, while efforts are being made to rescue him.

THERE is deep anxiety concerning the fate of Payne, Bertaud and Hill, who began on Tuesday a flight to Rome. Hope has not been abandoned, however, and, whatever may happen, the country will be proud of the fact that it possesses so many men of daring, willing to risk life in a good cause.

NO great thing is achieved without sacrifice. Those distressed by loss of life in flying may remember that the total number of deaths in transatlantic flying is smaller than the number killed by automobiling on any fine Sunday. The thing is to keep on and conquer.

DETROIT'S around the world fliers, Brock and Schlee, landed at Rangoon, Burmah, yesterday afternoon, flying from Calcutta, India, part of the way through a dangerous monsoon. Kipling would write a poem about that, and a good one, if he were 30 years younger, and the fliers were British.

LEVINE, again compelled to postpone his flight westward because of bad weather, is determined to make the flight. Advice cannot move him. On the train from London to Plymouth, last Wednesday, this writer advised Levine, then taking his wife to the steamship Isle de France, to give up the dangerous westward flight and turn his money and energy toward airplane development. Having bought the rights to a small low-priced airplane manufactured in France, and made plans for a big "weather-proof" air machine, Levine might do something more useful than risk his life on a return trip, especially after flying across the ocean once. But he is determined to make the flight, ap-

Kidnaped? No Eloped? Maybe

When Ella Marie Eicher, 18-year-old high school girl of 3009 Atcheson avenue, McKeesport, disappeared Tuesday it was believed she had been kidnapped. But that theory was discounted today when it became known that Arthur Rippel, 15, of Versailles township, a classmate, had disappeared at the same time.

Mr. Hearst Offers $25,000 Reward To Ship Which Finds Old Glory

"I know that no reward is necessary to stimulate the search for Old Glory and its occupants, but I will gladly give $25,000 to the captain and crew of the ship which finds them, merely as an expression of my gratitude."

Grim Silence of Atlantic Stretches Out to Engulf Plane

BELFAST, Ireland, Sept. 8.—(AP.)—At 6 o'clock this evening, British summer time, which was understood here to be the limit of the time that the Sir John Carling's gas supply would last, no word whatever had been received concerning the whereabouts of the airplane. Reports from various points in Ireland said that in view of weather conditions there were grave fears for the safety of the plane.

Transatlantic Liners Fail in Long Search for Lost Fliers

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The mysterious silence of the sea today shrouded the fate of the Fokker monoplane Old Glory, which is feared to have crashed into the Atlantic ocean 500 miles east of Newfoundland.

No further word had been heard early today which might indicate what tragedy caused Lloyd Bertaud, James D. Hill and Philip A. Payne, pilot,

RIOT WARD ARMED CAMP

NEW RIOTS FEARED IN 2ND WARD

The Second Ward is an armed camp today, following the gun battle in front of the Nixon Theater last night.

Additional policemen and detectives have been assigned to the district to guard against a fresh outbreak, as the rival political factions in the ward sparred for advantage on the first registration day.

Two men, one from each faction, who were beaten unconscious with blackjacks and revolver butts during the riot last night, are in Mercy Hospital. Five others are being held at Central Police Station until physicians determine the seriousness of their injuries.

CLIMAXES STREET BRAWLS

The riot was the climax of a series of street brawls punctuating the political fight between James J. McManus and Bernard Kenna, rival candidates for constable in the ward.

John DeBasi, 28, better known as "Babe" Kelly, one of the leaders of the Kenna-Anderson faction, and John Sykes, 24, a supporter of the O'Malley-McManus faction, are the casualties at Mercy Hospital. DeBasi's address was given as 1241 Penn avenue and Sykes' as 2621 Penn avenue.

Those held by the police are James

WOUNDED BY DOOR; DEAD

Severing an artery near her right shoulder as her arm went through a glass door of a hallway at the West View Junior High School, Chalfont avenue, at the noon recess today, Mary Richardson, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Richardson, 310 Columbia avenue, West View, bled to death within 15 minutes.

The girl, a junior high student, had just finished her lunch and was darting down the first-floor corridor, bound for the playground. She put up her hand to open the door. She was above medium height and her arm shattered the glass above the wood panels, the jagged edges severely lacerating her. She cried for help and Miss Lulu Miller, a teacher, was first at her side.

Teachers and schoolmates carried the girl to the library and summoned Dr. D. A. Atkinson, 122 Oakwood avenue, West View. He said she had lost enough blood within a few seconds to make medical aid of no avail. He bound the wound, but death ensued in a few moments.

Principal H. N. Hennon, and the girl's mother arrived soon after the accident.

4 Youths Hold Up Store

Four youths held up Mrs. Margaret Sokinsh in her husband's confectionery store, 2909 Carson street, at 7 o'clock this morning and escaped with $20 and two small slot machines.

Mrs. Sokinsh was alone when the youthful bandits entered. While two covered her with revolvers, two took the money from a cash drawer. Ordering her to keep quiet, they then took two slot machines from a counter and fled.

After their escape, Mrs. Sokinsh summoned her husband, who notified the police.

Policemen Accused In Ward Fight

That city police were preventing supporters of Thomas A. Flannigan, candidate for alderman in the First Ward against A. M. Maloney, present alderman, from registering, was charged this afternoon by friends of Flannigan.

Evidence of a battle this morning at the registration place in the third district of the ward was shown when Attorney John E. Laughlin appeared in Common Pleas Court with two men whose faces were swollen from a recent beating. Attorney Laughlin asked that the court restrain police from interfering with the registration boart

"MISS AMERICA, 1926"

While the 74 bathing beauties who hope to be chosen "Miss America of 1927" were parading at Atlantic City today before judges who decide that sort of thing, the "Miss America of 1926" had become peevish. The suspicion grew that Miss Norma Smallwood of Tulsa, Okla., who won the annual contest last year, had walked out on the show, although pageant officials still insisted she would return in time for the coronation of the new "Miss America" tomorrow night.

GEO. B. GORDON, NOTED ATTORNEY HERE, DIES

George B. Gordon, senior member of the firm of Gordon, Smith, Buchanan & Scott, Union Trust Building, and one of Pittsburgh's most prominent attorneys, died in his home, 5250 Wilkins avenue, at 2 o'clock this morning after a short illness.

County courts were adjourned at noon by President Judge J. J. Miller, out of respect for the dead attorney.

Mr. Gordon had bronchial trouble, but had apparently recovered. Saturday afternoon he worked in the garden of his home, but became ill Saturday night of pneumonia.

Mr. Gordon was born in Edgewood on August 1, 1860, a son of Alexander and Catherine Edwards Gordon. After completing his elementary education he enrolled in the Western University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh, and took his degree of bachelor of laws at Columbia in 1883.

He was admitted to the bar in Allegheny county the same year and had practiced in Pittsburgh since that time. In December, 1887, the legal firm of Dalzell, Scott and Gordon was organized and he remained with that organization until it was dissolved in 1906.

Mr. Gordon then formed the partnership of Gordon & Smith, in association with William Watson Smith and Ralph Longnecker, and it was from this partnership that the present firm, of which Mr. Gordon was senior member, had grown.

On January 4, 1889, Mr. Gordon was married to Mary Edwards Boorem who survives him.

He was a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, a past president of navigator and passenger in Old Glory on its apparently ill-fated attempted flight to Rome to startle the world early yesterday morning with a frantic SOS call sent crackling through the ether from the plane's radio.

DROP OLD GLORY HUNT; NO WORD OF CANADIANS

HOPE FADES FOR ROME FLIERS

Two of the transatlantic liners which rushed to the assistance of Old Glory when the distress signal was heard abandoned the search for the plane after a hunt of many hours. The vessels were the Transylvania and the Carmania, which were the first to reach the spot where the plane broadcast its message of distress before it is believed to have fallen into the sea.

Capt. Davis Bone of the Transylvania late last night sent the following message to the Radio Corporation in New York.

"Area from which it is presumed airplane WRHP (call letters of Old Glory) sent SOS has been searched by us without anything being found. Fear little hope survival in view of rough sea at time casualty."

Shortly after this message was received, the captain of the S. S. Carmania radioed as follows:

"22:20 (10:20 p. m.) Greenwich Meridian time, latitude 49:15 north; 40:25 west. Now nightfall and quite dark. Regret search for missing plane without results. Weather conditions fresh westerly winds, quite squally and rough breaking seas. Proceeding great circle to Cape Race and then New York.

HOPE STILL LINGERS

In spite of the futile search of the seas for the missing plane, there were many who still believed today that Bertaud, Hill and Payne are safe, and that the passage of a few hours may bring word that the daring venture has not ended so tragically as present reports indicate.

A number of explanations are offered for the belief that the fliers may still be alive.

First, it is believed possible that Old Glory met with some temporary trouble and was forced to swoop down close to the surface of the ocean. As the plane neared the water, according to this belief, the first SOS message was sent out. The trouble which threatened disaster then, perhaps, was repaired, and the airship again gained altitude, six minutes later sending another message that she was 300 miles east of Newfoundland. No further word was heard, but it is believed possible that the radio antenna damaged by contact with the water then snapped, making it impossible for the fliers to send further word. Proponents of this theory believe that Old Glory proceeded on its trip, perhaps too high to be sighted by other vessels, and may be seen over the French coast sometime today.

Secondly, the fact that six minutes elapsed between the two messages from the plane indicates that the fliers may have had time to inflate their collapsible lifeboat and empty the plane's tanks of their gasoline. The fliers, according to this theory, may now be floating in the lifeboat or in the fuselage of Old Glory, with rations at hand which would keep them alive for 20 days.

STORMS DISCOUNT HOPE

But even these optimistic opinions could not veil the general belief and fear that the great transatlantic venture, like so many of its predecessors, had ended in stark tragedy. The messages from the captains of the Transylvania and the Carmania, stating that the seas in the area where Old Glory sent out its distress signal were rough, afforded little hope that the three men could survive even if they had been able to float the tiny collapsible rubber lifeboat upon the turbulent waves. Early this morning, with no word of cheer from the ocean liners, which swerved from their courses to obey the immutable law of the sea and answer the signal of distress, it appeared that Old Glory had met with a tragic end beneath the waters of the Atlantic.

Old Glory's apparent disaster brought to mind the messages written on a wreath and stowed in the plane's fuselage to be dropped into the sea in memory to Capts. Nungesser and Coli, the French fliers whose attempt to bridge the ocean from France to America, ended in tragedy. On the wreath was written:

"Nungesser and Coli: You showed the way. We followed.

"BERTAUD AND PAYNE AND HILL."

With the hours slipping by and no word coming, which might indicate that a stroke of fortune had spared the fliers' lives, the ironic truth of this message stood out clearly. Nungesser and Coli had shown the way, but they had disappeared, never to be heard from again, and the gravest fears were felt that Bertaud and Hill and Payne had indeed followed them into oblivion.

Bergdoll Seeks to Fly Back to U. S. in Levine's Plane

CROYDON AIRPORT, England, Sept. 8.—(U.P.)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, best-known American draft dodger, has applied to Charles A. Levine, the latter told the United Press today, for passage to the United States in the Bellanca monoplane Columbia.

Levine said Bergdoll's application was one among thousands received by him. Bergdoll wrote from a small town in Germany, offering to permit Levine to name his own price.

Weather conditions were such today that there was no immediate prospect of the Columbia starting for the United States.

AUTO THEFT SUSPECT

MRS. GROSBY G. EVANS

Mrs. Grosby G. Evans, 21, 2208 Straus street, North Side, detained by Magistrate E. M. Hough, Morals Court, after detectives testified they found automobile accessories valued at $1,600 and a machine without serial number. Her husband and Alfred Atkins, 21, 511 Merchant street, are also held.

NEW RIOTS ARE FEARED

Kelly, aged 23, of 1741 Penn avenue; Earl Long, 22, of 2321 Penn avenue; John Mazza, 21, 1231 Penn avenue; Frank Menegini, 21, 1145 Penn avenue; Frank Mazik, 21, 1710 Liberty avenue.

The trouble last night began when an automobile filled with Kenna supporters, who were returning from a picnic held by the Amerita Club, a Third Ward organization, stopped at the McManus headquarters in Penn avenue, near Twenty-sixth street.

Each faction accuses the adherents of the other of being armed with revolvers and automatics.

The men left the machine and entered the headquarters. Words led to blows, and a general fight developed, which was stopped when a squad of police from the Penn Avenue Station burst in and arrested five men, locking them up on a charge of inciting a riot.

YOUNGER KELLY FINED

This morning Carl Kelly, younger brother of "Babe" who is in Mercy Hospital, was fined $100. Police say he led the invading party. W. J. Shine, a Kenna-Anderson adherent, forfeited a bond of $10. Three others, Max Shine, William McGregor and Charles Blue, said to be O'Mally-McManus followers, were discharged.

When the police arrived at the headquarters, the invading party, with the exception of Shine and Kelly, leaped into their machine, which raced downtown along Penn avenue. They were pursued by a number of the other faction in a second machine.

The second machine overtook the first in front of the Nixon Theater just as the audience was pouring out at the conclusion of the show. Occupants of both vehicles leaped to the curb and a fist fight began, the battlers milling in the midst of the after-theater crowd, while women screamed. Blackjacks and clubs were brought into play.

WOMEN FAINT

Shots rang out. Several women fainted as the theater patrons, finding themselves in real drama instead of make-believe, rushed for shelter. A riot call was sent.

Just when the first gun was drawn none of the contestants seems to know. Most of them agree that the "rods," as they call them, came into play when one of the battlers, finding himself hard pressed, drew his revolver and struck Jack Burke, former pugilist, on the head with the butt. The gun went off. Others appeared and several shots were fired, apparently at random, for no one was hit.

MACHINE HITS POLE

The rioters scattered as the police arrived. "Babe" Kelly, unconscious, was picked up in Sixth avenue and rushed to the hospital. Sykes, clubbed, was found at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, bleeding.

One machine sped down Sixth avenue pursued by the other. At high speed both cars skidded around the turn into Wood street, making another turn at Oliver, pursued by Motorcycle Patrolmen John Flemming and W. H. Oliver.

When they reached Grant street the first machine swerved, forcing the second to the sidewalk. It crashed into an iron pole. The occupants started to run but were arrested by the two officers.

Sykes, first taken to the hospital and then to the police station, was returned to the hospital today.

Four Indicted In Arson Plots

Four members of an alleged nation-wide arson ring were indicted yesterday by a grand jury on seven counts of conspiracy, and one count of arson and an attempt to burn a building to defraud an insurance company.

They are: Samuel Friedman, Beechwood boulevard; Harry Frank, Webster avenue; Meyer Letwin, Harvard street, and Simon Rosenthal, Beacon street, accused of conspiring and attempting to burn the dwelling and millinery shop of Mrs. Carrie M. Deverts, 415 East Ohio street, North Side, and conspiring with Mable Yocum, 311 Pressley street, North Side, to burn her dwelling.

The four were arrested August 1, when Frank and Letwin were preparing to burn the shop, police stated, after Mrs. Deverts had notified the police and a trap was laid.

Marcus Nach, a merchant of Hollidays Cove, W. Va., was indicted on 16 counts of false pretense and misdemeanor, charging him with passing worthless checks to produce dealers of the Penn avenue district during July. The grand jury returned 16 true bills.

Detroiters Flying to Bangkok

By International News Service.

RANGOON, Burma, Sept. 8.—The Pride of Detroit, bearing Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock on a record-breaking airplane flight around the world, hopped off at 6:10 o'clock this morning for Bangkok, Siam.

Bangkok is 375 miles from Rangoon. Because of the comparatively short distance to Bangkok the fliers said before leaving here that they might continue straight on to Hanoi, French Indo-China, if weather conditions were such they could safely fly on without making the expected stop. Hanoi is 625 miles from Bangkok.

"I was very apprehensive of the trip, on account of the recent disasters, and I did my best to prevent the plane from going. I had no idea that Mr. Payne was going under any circumstances. I earnestly hope that all on board Old Glory will be saved."

The telegrams which passed between Mr. Hearst and Mr. Payne were:

"E. D. Coblentz, New York American, New York. (Copy to Phil Payne.)

"I do not think Old Glory should start except under the auspices and with the full approval of the government. In view of the recent disasters, I will not assume responsibility, but will proceed only if the government will assume authority and responsibility.

"The flight is not undertaken for promotion purposes, but to advance aviation, and it is doubtful whether in the light of recent events these flights do advance aviation.

"These numerous disasters may retard it. Therefore I await the sanction of the government.

McGovern Says Debt Figures Disagree

A difference of $350,000 exists between a county debt statement given County Controller Charles C. McGovern by county commissioners and a purported photostatic copy of the statement, subpened from the Union Trust Company, McGovern stated this afternoon.

The debt shown in the statement from the commissioners, supposed to be the original, is $350,000 greater than that given on the copy obtained from the trust company, he charged. He was given the statement from the commissioners two weeks ago, and the copy yesterday.

McGovern, in his public audit proceedings yesterday, notified the County Commissioners they would have an opportunity tomorrow morning to show cause why they should not be surcharged with $146,211.02. The amount includes four improvements which cost that much above the original contract price.

The announcement followed a grilling about contract price increases, of which County Commissioner E. V. Babcock bore the brunt. Babcock did not take kindly to the line of questioning and said so in no uncertain terms. When McGovern read off a list of 10 contracts with a total increase of $936,123.61, Babcock charged him with picking out contracts with the highest increases to further the interests of the audit. McGovern told him there were many more with increases.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was quizzed about why the commissioners showed a credit increase of $4,700,000 in their 1927 debt statement over the 1926 statement, when only an increase of $850,000 was possible. Armstrong said they were the bookkeepers' figures, about which he was ignorant.

Ralph S. Euler, vice president of the Union Trust Company, was questioned about the deal in which the county parks were acquired. Euler was not familiar with the entire transaction.

Elmer Robinson, father-in-law of William Parrish, whose name was carried on the payroll three months after his death, admitted that he had received Parrish's salary. He said, however, that he had signed his own name to the payroll. Examination of the payroll showed that this testimony was erroneous, only Parrish's name appearing.

UNCONSCIOUS FOUR DAYS

BETTY McMASTER

At Homeopathic Hospital today Miss Betty McMaster, 833 Jackman avenue, Avalon, is still unconscious following injuries suffered early Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another car at Melwood street and Baum boulevard. She has a compound fracture of the skull.

Girl 'Kidnaping' Seen Romance; Boy Gone

A kidnaping theory, advanced with the sudden disappearance of Ella Marie Eicher, McKeesport High School girl, on Tuesday, mellowed today into one of romance. Arthur Rippel, a classmate of the girl's, also has been missing since Tuesday.

Rippel, 15, of Long Run road, Versailles township, left home Tuesday morning to go to the McKeesport Technical High School and his parents have seen or heard nothing of him since. They appealed to the Missing Persons Bureau today.

Miss Eicher, 18, who had been living with an uncle, Matthew Eicher, 2009 Atcheson avenue, McKeesport, went to the school with Myra Hopkins, who lives next door. She went to her report room in the building, but left a few minutes later. She was reported seen later that morning getting off a McKeesport street car at Third avenue and Smithfield street. A girl friend said today she had ridden with Miss Eicher from McKeesport to Pittsburgh Tuesday.

The missing pair were seniors in the school. Both took active part in school affairs, the girl being a member of several debating and dramatic societies.

Miss Eicher's mother is dead. Her father lives at Connellsville.

Rippel lived with his parents on a farm. They told police he had apparently lost desire to attend school this year and at times had spoken of joining the Navy.

HITS BACKING OF JUDGES

Judge Richard W. Martin, independent candidate to succeed himself, called the Republican organization to account for not adhering to what he termed the "time-honored custom" of re-electing sitting judges whose records are good, in an address at noon in his headquarters, 328 Fourth avenue.

"Why that custom has been departed from is not for me to say," he said. "Is it because men are sought who will be more amenable to political influence in the various appointments which this court is called upon to make?"

Announcement of Mr. Gordon's death was made in Common Pleas Court before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen by Attorney Edwin W. Smith who recalled that Mr. Gordon had been practicing at the Allegheny county bar for 40 years. Judge Swearingen granted a motion that when court adjourned today it to do so out of respect for the memory of Mr. Gordon.

FIND STILL AS HOUSE BURNS

Two stills were found on the third floor of a burning house at 201 Renova street this afternoon, police say, when firemen entered the building, Michael Wahtitch, occupant, was arrested.

The blaze started on the third floor, where police say they believe the stills were in operation. Nicholas Wahtitch, 21, a son of Michael, asleep on the second floor, was aroused by smoke and ran out and sounded an alarm.

The stills, of five- and fifteen-gallon capacity, were confiscated. Police say a barrel of whisky was burned. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

GRIM SILENCE ENGULFS PLANE

Old Glory disaster fresh in mind, anxiety began to rise this afternoon as the hours slipped by and no word was received regarding the Canadian transatlantic plane, Sir John Carling.

At 3 o'clock the airdrome officials estimated that the plane was three hours overdue. It should have been sighted off the coast at noon, according to the schedule it was expected to maintain. The airplane carried no wireless.

HOPE NOT ABANDONED

Officials pointed out that no serious fears should yet be entertained, as bad weather might have cut down the plane's speed.

A small crowd had gathered here by noon to welcome the plane.

No report has been received from ships in the plane's course, but the machine, it is hoped, was winging toward its goal, which the fliers, Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James C. Metcalf, had hoped to reach before noon today.

Lighthouses and coastguard stations on the English coast were keeping a sharp lookout for the plane.

Weather conditions over the Irish coast are most unfavorable. A heavy rain fell all night long and showed no signs of abating today. The sky is overcast and misty and visibility is low. The winds are moderate and westerly.

M'KEESPORT POLICEMAN CLEARED IN GRAFT CASE

Motorcycle Patrolman Leo Vennebush, of the McKeesport police department, was reinstated by Mayor George H. Lysle who dismissed charges of graft preferred against the officer by Sigmund Bergstein, McKeesport business man. Bergstein, according to Mayor Lysle, said Vennebush had accepted $60 from him in payment for protection of unlawful practices. Bergstein did not appear at the hearing.

DIES AFTER TAKING POISON FOR MEDICINE

Joseph Ingicomo, 42, of Vandergrift Heights, died in the New Kensington Hospital last night after he had taken bichloride of mercury tablets in mistake for medicine.

CRIES FOR DEAD BABY

MRS. WINNIE HOWARD

"No matter what becomes of me—whether I'm jailed or set free—it won't bring my baby back," sobs Mrs. Winnie Howard, held in the psychopathic ward, Los Angeles county hospital, for the child's death. The least mention of the year-old-boy, smothered in a hotel room, brings tears from the mother.

POLICE RAID SHOP SEEKING JAWORSKI

MISTER CHARLES LEVINE AND HIS FLYIN' MACHINE

LEVINE AND CAPT. HINCHCLIFFE

NO TRACE OF SLAYER FOUND

A thorough search of the grocery store and home of J. Walkowski, Hancock and Dobson streets, this morning by a dozen detectives, failed to substantiate a tip that Paul Jaworski, escaped murderer, was in the building.

Detectives swarmed all over the place and for 15 minutes made a search from cellar to garret, only to leave empty handed.

While the search was in progress, no person was permitted to enter or leave the building, and Mrs. Walkowski, Margaret Rudski, her daughter, the latter's daughter, Monica, 2, and two women customers were kept under surveillance.

J. Walkowski, proprietor, was absent when three autos stopped in front of the establishment and the detectives piled out. Some took up vantage points outside while several armed with shot guns and tear gas bombs entered the store.

Mrs. Walkowski could not account for the report that Jaworski was in her house. She said her husband had been in business at the same stand for years. Diagonally across the street is the meat shop of A. Jaworski, who says he is unrelated to the escaped murderer.

One Hurt In Stampede On Runaway Street Car

FIREMAN CRUSHED IN M'KEESPORT TROLLEY

A panic among passengers on an Evans avenue street car, McKeesport, this morning resulted in the serious injury of Louis Rosenberg, a McKeesport fireman, when the frightened riders jumped from the car. The motorman lost control as the car was descending a steep grade near Evans and Versailles avenue, and the passengers rushed to the center door and leaped off.

Rosenberg, the last to leave the car, suffered a compound fracture of the pelvis. He was taken to the McKeesport Hospital. The car did not leave the rails and was brought to a stop by the motorman without damage.

WILL RETURN SWINDLE SUSPECT TO BALTIMORE

Wanted in at least a dozen cities for alleged bond swindling, Carl A. Roth, alias Charles Roth, 32, Fort Pitt Hotel, who has admitted to city detectives that the bonds, stocks and other securities seized Tuesday when they arrested him, were worth in excess of $100,000, will be returned tomorrow to Baltimore, Md., where he is wanted for forging a $1,600 check on Peter Whitney in exchange for part of the bonds.

DISMISSES RUM SUIT AGAINST ENGELSBERGS

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, upon motion by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer, today nolle prossed an indictment charging Joseph Engelsberg, Samuel Engelsberg, Jake Sigel and J. Branch with conspiring to violate the national prohibition law, the government attorney setting forth there is insufficient evidence to convict.

Dismissal of the suit was approved by the Attorney General. The suit, involving alleged unlawful possession and transportation of 14 cases of whisky, was tried in November, 1923, and resulted in a disagreement by the jury.

FAMILY INHERITS WAR FORTUNE

By his will, probated today, Daniel MacMaster, who made much money during the war in stripping coal, left an estate valued at approximately $200,000.

MacMaster, who lived at Monroeville, first disposed of about $50,000, which he gave to various relatives, the remainder being left to four brothers. They are Watson and Charles MacMaster, who also live at Monroeville, and Angus MacMaster of Denver and J. D. MacMaster of Churchill, N. Y.

INCREASE IN TAX COLLECTIONS

Collections of current city, school and water taxes exceeds the 1926 record, according to a statement submitted to Mayor Charles H. Kline by City Treasurer Wallace Borland. Delinquent tax collections also took an upward swing for the first eight months of the year. Current tax collections for the first seven months total $24,922,712, as against $24,375,757 last year.

PEACEFUL MOMENT

Miss Uldine Utley, 15-year-old evangelist conducting a campaign at Memorial Hall, caught in a peaceful moment at her hotel. She is meditating over her Bible.

MISS ULDINE UTLEY

4 Ask Help; Hit Trail Of Child Evangelist

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Two young girls of an old orthodox faith went to hear Uldine Utley at Memorial Hall last night. Curiosity perhaps.

But they liked her story so well and were so swayed by her impassioned plea that they ended up in the little prayer room on their knees, praying with the little evangelist.

Before that they had bravely marched up the sawdust trail, tearfully, and asked her to help them. A mother in great trouble also turned to the child parson and asked her advice and prayers. And from her 15 years of life she told how she would handle her problem and to whom she would turn for solace and comfort.

Then there was a man who had sworn he would never go to church again. He dropped in just from curiosity and ended upon his knees. It is amazing the different types of people with so widely different problems to solve who call upon the little girl to help them.

There was a much better crowd last night. And Uldine is not so discouraged as before. She feels:

"There will be a great revival in Pittsburgh, after all. I felt down in my heart we could not fail. We have never failed before, and I didn't see why we should here."

Uldine is outlining an interesting program of meetings. Soon there will be grandfathers' night, grandmothers' night, uncles' night, nurses' night—nights for everybody.

Her sermon last night was taken from the story of Peter walking on the water. Again Uldine used no notes. The words seem to flow from her magically.

parently because he said he would do so.

THE British were amazed when Levine, who is not a pilot, suddenly landed at Croydon from Paris, nearly killing himself as he came down. Lord Beaverbrook, who owns the London Express, told this writer in London last week that Levine, leaving Paris alone and landing in England without breaking his neck, had, in the opinion of British fliers, accomplished a most extraordinary feat of daring.

PAUL BLOCK who owns newspapers in many cities, including Pittsburgh, Toledo and Newark, has bought for $500,000, Newark's baseball club, called "the Bears." Under Block's ownership those "Bears" will be real bears, Block being a conspicuous member of the "Bear" family.

Paul Block's theory is that baseball club profits are really a by-product of the newspaper business, and would drop if the newspapers dropped baseball. "Therefore," says practical Mr. Block, "since newspaper owners must create baseball profits, they should also be baseball club owners."

SIR OLIVER LODGE made solemn members of the British Scientific Association "gasp" by describing the universe as a "space filled with a substantial entity, in a violent state of spinning, the seat of an immensity of energy such as never has been imagined." A higher power guides the world, according to Lodge.

LONG ago one scientist said: "I have swept the skies with my telescope and found no sign of a divine ruler."

A hoptoad might sweep an express train with its inquiring eye and find no sign of an engineer—to say nothing of a chairman of the board of directors, far away.

NEAR Tallahassee, Henry Ridley, sentenced to four years on the chain gang, was sick "and given medical attention." So says the keeper. But Ridley didn't seem to work, so they put him in the "sweat box," a narrow wooden box, just big enough to hold a convict standing upright.

Taking him out dead, they admitted that he was probably "sicker than we thought." There seems to be room for improvement there.

STOCKS up again yesterday. "Another long series of new high records" is the sad news for the bears. Stock exchange seats up also. One sold for $235,000. Don't sell this country or anything in it SHORT—you might lose.

CHARLES A. LEVINE

MISS MABEL BOLL

WHO'LL FLY GIRL?

Charles A. Levine, owner of "Columbia," which carried him to Europe as the first transatlantic air passenger, lost his first battle with an aviator. Miss Mabel Boll, wealthy American, is anxious to fly back; Levine agreed to carry her, but his newly-retained pilot, Capt. W. G. R. Hinchcliffe, Englishman, refused to fly a woman. Hinchcliffe won. Now Maurice Drouhin, French pilot whose contract with Levine was paid off by Mrs. Levine, may fly her, if she buys a plane. What Mrs. Levine thinks of her husband's plan to fly Miss Boll, the girl for whom he fought in Paris, is not known, but when she arrived from Paris she said: "When he (Levine) comes home, I am going to put my foot down and be boss." Clarence Chamberlin, who piloted the "Columbia" to Europe, quit Levine in Paris; Lloyd Bertaud, pilot of "Old Glory," once was signed as Levine's navigator; and Bert Acosta had to drop his position as pilot because of his weight. They all lost.

CORRECT WARD BOUNDARY

The people of the Third district of the Fifth ward hereafter will vote in their own ward instead of in the Third ward. An order was signed in Quarter Sessions Court today by Judge James R. Macfarlane relocating the boundary of the two wards, on petition of Attorney Ben L. Steinberg. It transfers the McKelvey School and the Bedford reservoir property on Bedford avenue to the Fifth ward from the Fourteenth district of the Third ward. The error was recently discovered after the school had been used for years as the polling place of the Third district of the Fifth ward.

Etna Must Enlarge Engine House for Its New Truck

TO PAVE RIVER ROAD SOON

After almost 30 years of effort, councilmen of McKees Rocks have realized their objective, and the River road, connecting Chartiers avenue at the borough line with Robb street, is to be paved. It is probable that the contract will be awarded at the first fall meeting of the borough Council, Monday night, when the bids will be opened, although work will not be started until O'Donovan's Bridge, connecting Island avenue with George street, is completed, borough officials said. The improvement will include a road 22 feet wide, about 2,200 feet long, and will cost about $35,000.

SOON TO DECIDE WOODSIDE STATUS

Judge Ambrose B. Reid is expected to hand down an early decision on the question of the eligibility of Robert G. Woodside's candidacy for the office of controller on the Republican ticket.

Attorney Frank C. McGirr, representing those opposing Woodside, claims that under the law two years must elapse from January 4, 1926, before he can become controller, if elected.

George E. Alter, who represents Woodside, claims that the equity proceeding brought in Common Pleas Court, to prevent Woodside's name from going on the ballot has no standing in that court and has asked that the petition be dismissed.

In the meantime all the printed ballots are being held in the county commissioners' office or at the printers, representing an expenditure of $12,000. Should the court rule Woodside off the ballots would have to be reprinted. There are 15,000 names on the ballots representing candidates for offices in the cities, boroughs and townships of the county, although only one name, that of Woodside, is involved.

POLICE FRIGHTEN PAIR BREAKING INTO OFFICE

Two men who broke open a door at the offices of the Steel City Tin and Plate Company, South Tenth and Freyburg streets, early today, fled when police arrived.

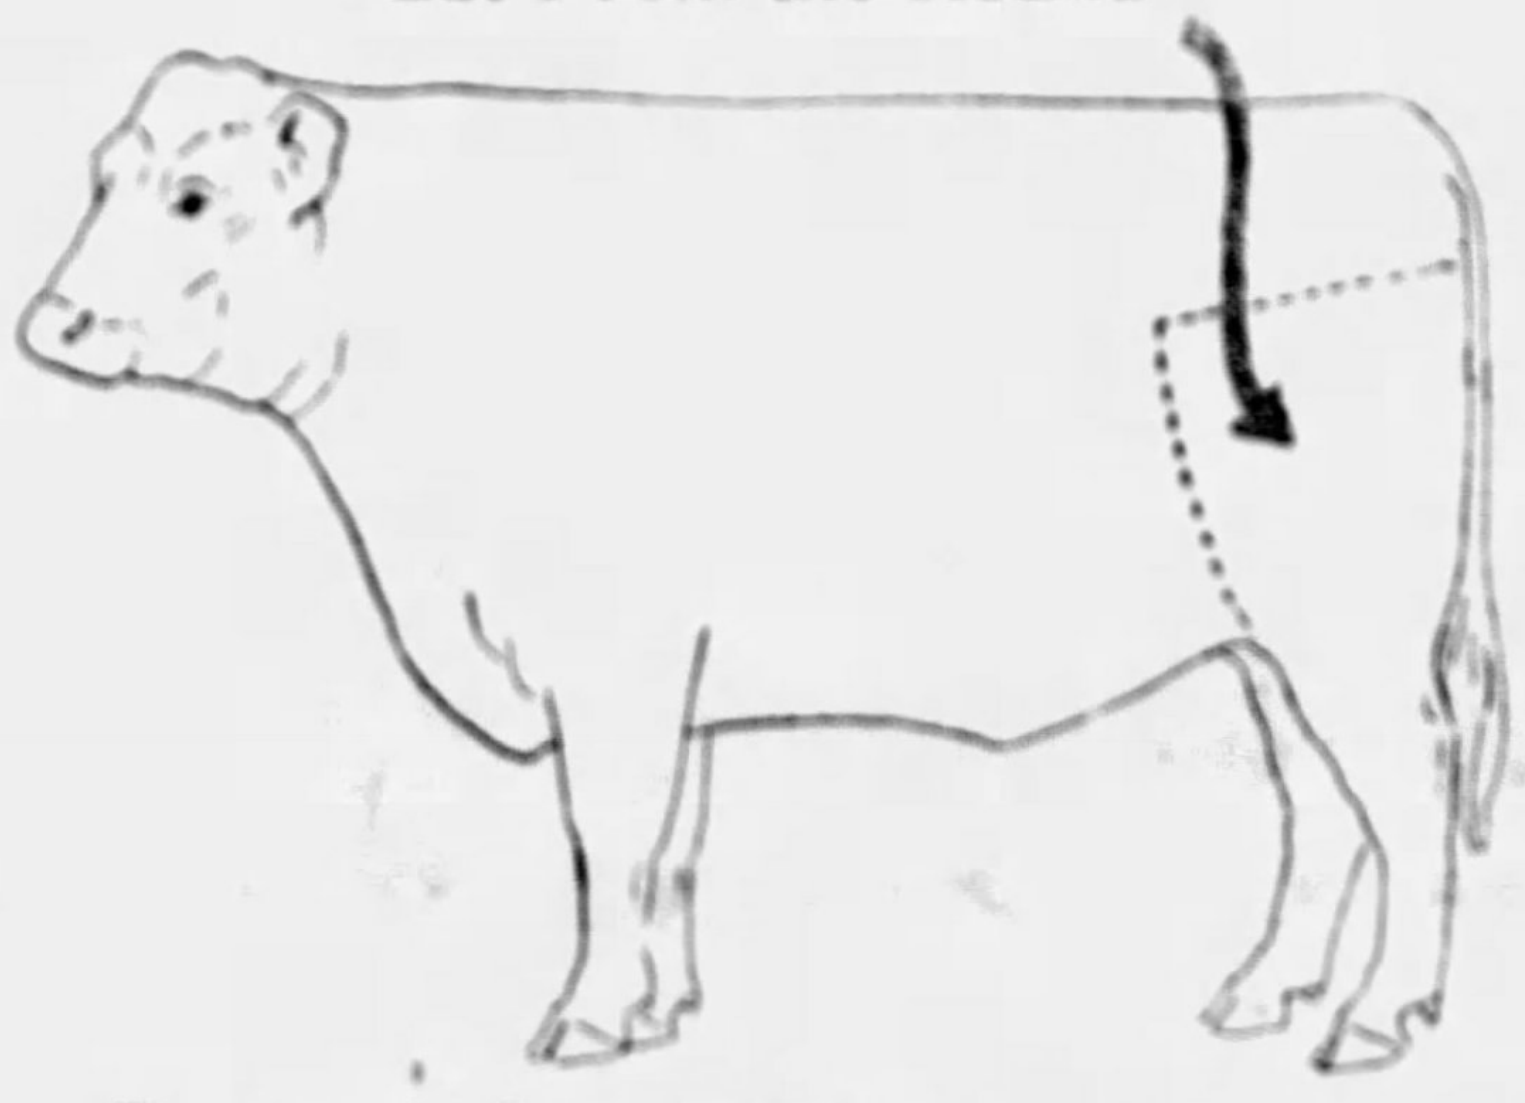
Serve a Round Roast Of Beef---28c lb.

Cut From the Round



It Looks Like This

Economical—solid pieces of meat cut from "Blue Ribbon" Beef—only one small round bone and little fat. Identically the same cut that brings 40c a pound when sliced thin and sold as Round Steak.

Convenient—by roasting the vegetables with the meat you may have a delicious dinner with one operation. The left-over meat will make "cold cuts" for the next day.

McCann's Fresh Eggs 48c

A Duckling for Dinner!
Long Island Ducks, lb. 38c
Crisp, cool days make this tempting dish doubly interesting. Scientific feeding brings them to a weight of five or six pounds before they are three months old. Freshly dressed.

Dutchy Limburger Cheese, lb 37c
There are many limburgers but only one "Dutchy"—the best we were able to find in our search for quality. You'll agree that it's delicious—as mellow as butter, excellent with crackers for a bedtime lunch.

Cocoanut Layer Cake, ea. 58c
Hungry for a piece of real cake? Visit McCann's bakery. Cocoanut Layer Cake is being featured—two layers of rich cake thickly covered with marshmallow icing and sprinkled with long thread cocoanut.

Park and Shop at McCann's

Fresh Tile Steak, lb. 33c
Fresh salt water fish with fine textured meat of a delicate flavor. A steak fish with only a single bone to each steak. Easy to prepare—easy to eat. You'll enjoy it!

Note This Feature! Fried Soft Shell Crabs, 3 for 68c
The lowest price on Soft Shells for years. Nice big ones—5 inches and over across the back. Fresh from the kitchen, ready to eat. A seasonable delicacy!

New Crop Tomato Butter, 2 lb. jar 39c
Fresh from the kettle comes this old-fashioned favorite brought up-to-date. Its honey sweetness makes bread and butter taste a heap better to the youngsters after school.

Other Varieties of Fruit Preserves at this same price.

Thompson Seedless Grapes, Carrier, 33c
There's a lot of good eating in a carrier of these grapes—they will fill the fruit basket to the brim. Luscious seedless grapes—the same variety that are dried and sold as raisins! Carriers contain 5 lbs. or over.

Prune Plums, 8-qt. chip, 89c

McCann's "Favorite" Coffee, 3 lbs. $1
The "favorite" blend of thousands of McCann's patrons! Price never indicates quality at McCann's. We try to reach the "peak" of quality and sell it at the "valley" of price. That's why you receive such excellent coffee at the rate of less than 35c a pound.

PAINTS AND VARN
DEVOE MIRROLAC

Drop in and let us prove it to your satisfaction...

The Color Test: Fifty experts chose Mirrolac as the line of colors that reproduced most closely their conception of the true hardwood tones.

The Application Test: Under an actual brushing test you will find that Mirrolac flows freely, and shows no laps or brush marks.

The Durability Test: Apply varnish stain to a metal panel. Bend it over a straight edge. Then straighten and examine it. An inefficient varnish stain will be badly cracked. The surface of Devoe Mirrolac will remain an unbroken film. This bending test proves the elasticity and durability of the product.

Do you wonder that we guarantee it to give satisfaction when applied according to directions.

25 LOST IN TRANSOCEAN FLIGHTS

LIST OF MISSING INCLUDES TWO WOMEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The death toll of trans-oceanic flights since the [illegible] of 1926 will have mounted to [illegible] if the Old Glory and her crew of three are not found.

Eighteen persons, including two women, have been lost at sea. Seven were killed in preparation for overseas flights.

The missing are:

Capt. Charles Nungesser and Maj. Francois Coli, who left Paris [illegible] May 9 for New York.

John A. [illegible], Miss Mildred Doran [illegible] and Jack Frost and Gordon Scott in the Golden Eagle, who left [illegible] August 16 [illegible] Honolulu.

William P. Erwin and Alvin H. Eichwaldt, who left Oakland in the Dallas Spirit August 19 [illegible] search of the Miss Doran and the Golden Eagle.

Paul Redfern, who in the Brunswick Spirit left Brunswick, Ga., August 25 for Rio de Janeiro.

Capt. Leslie Hamilton, Col. Frederick F. Minchin and the Princess Anne Lowenstein Wertheim, who left Upavon, England, August 31 in the St. Raphael for Ottawa, Canada.

Lloyd W. Bertaud, James DeWitt Hill and Philip Payne, who left Old Orchard, Me., September 6 in the Old Glory for Rome.

Those killed in overseas flight preparation:

Charles W. Clavier and Jacob Islamoff, burned to death September 21, 1926, when Capt. Rene Fonck's plane attempted to take off at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., for Paris.

Lieut. Commander Noel Davis, U. S. N., and Lieut. Stanton Wooster, U. S. N., killed May 26 when the American Legion crashed at Langley Field, Va., on a test flight before leaving for Paris.

Lieut. George W. Covell, U. S. N., and Lieut. R. S. Waggener, U. S. N., killed August 10 at Point Loma, when their plane crashed en route to participate in Dole derby.

Capt. Arthur V. Rogers, British war ace, was killed August 11 at Los Angeles during a test flight in preparation for [illegible] derby.

FATHER'S FAITH IS SHAKEN

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—(AP)—For the first time, Dr. H. C. Hill, of Streator, Ill., today failed to express conviction that his 22-year-old son Harry was innocent of the matricide with which he has been formally charged.

"I can't make any statement," the wealthy physician declared after a third conference with his son, who has been held in the city jail here since his arrest Saturday night.

"No, I can't say whether I affirm Harry's innocence," said the father, who was grieved visibly.

Ground work for two attempts to prevent extradition of the young fugitive to Streator for trial on a charge of murdering his mother had been laid by defense attorneys.

The attorneys would not say whether they would go through with the announced fight against the youth's return to Illinois.

Pittsburgh Youth Is Marines Best Shot

From a Pittsburgh family of three boys and a girl comes the champion rifle shot of the United States Marine Corps, Pvt. Russell Seitzinger, who sent 15 rounds into the dead center of the bull's-eye to win the Leech cup at Camp Perry, O., recently.

And is the father, Winfield T. Seitzinger, of Perrysville avenue, North Side, proud? He thinks there is no one like his son as a marksman and would rather see him in action on the range than Gene Tunney boxing the [illegible]. The other two boys also have distinguished themselves in Uncle Sam's service.

The father went over to Ohio for the contest and is spending a couple of days with the champion and his brother, Thomas, who is in the same outfit as Russell. Russell is 24 and Thomas [illegible]. The former has won innumerable medals and cups in shooting contests and was a member of last year's international rifle team which competed for honors at Rome. Thomas, on the other hand, won a cup for aquatic prowess in the Marine Corps and has distinguished himself in other athletics.

The third son, Charles, the oldest of the family, lives in Alaska, having settled there after being sent out as a government mining inspector.

Mrs. Bertha Best, the daughter, lives in Overbrook. She is as proud of her brothers as is her father, but the one who is probably proudest of all is the grandfather, Charles Seitzinger, who is making his home with Mrs. Best.

"How about these boys of yours—do they inherit these he-man talents?" he was asked.

"Well, I don't know," he replied. "I guess they just practiced a lot."

"Well, don't you remember anything your father might have said about the pioneer days when he might have gone out hunting Indians?"

"No, I guess not. We're pretty peaceful people. I came from up Schuylkill county way, and the only thing I ever shot was a deer or two," he concluded mildly.

BOY STEPS IN AUTO'S PATH AT MUSE AND IS KILLED

Boys' Model Planes On Exhibit Today

Boy airplane builders of Western Pennsylvania will exhibit their planes, entered in the National Aircraft Model Contest, in the foyer of the City-County Building today. And after three days showing, one of the exhibitors will bring his plane away with a big silver trophy, the gift of the Sun-Telegraph.

That's the way the contest, conducted here by the Bureau of Recreation and the Sun-Telegraph, will end Saturday. And in addition to the trophy a number of gold and silver medals will be given.

The trophy will go to the plane builders who, the judges decide, has made the plane they think best in the show. Medals have already been given for the various specialties, gliding, distance flying, duration and other sub-divisions. Medals will be awarded Saturday to those who made the best exhibit plane models—and the trophy also goes.

The exhibit will be there for the public to view today, Friday and Saturday.

RIVAL POLITICAL FACTIONS LAY BARRAGES

Republican organization candidates pictured Controller C. C. McGovern as an obstructionist who is holding up needed public improvements in addresses at three meetings last night.

"Don't send Commissioner Armstrong and myself back if you are going to couple us with a controller who will scold for the next four years," said Commissioner E. V. Babcock at a meeting in Vorwaerts Hall, Tenth Ward, where the Donahoe faction has indorsed McGovern.

"If you want men who won't do anything but sign payrolls and draw their salaries don't send Babcock and myself back to office," said Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong at the Greenfield School, Fifteenth Ward, "but if you want new roads, new tunnels and new bridges I believe our record will appeal to you."

40 P. C. WASTE—M'GOVERN

The taxpayers of Allegheny county are receiving less than 60 per cent on the dollar for the money being expended by the County Commissioners, Controller C. C. McGovern told an audience in the Langley High School last night.

"The deficiency in county funds must be made up this year," he said. "When this is done the taxes will be forced up to 10 mills, the complete legal limit, and the commissioners will still be without sufficient county income to continue their mushroom department of county works."

Other speakers were E. B. Brenner and John J. Ford, candidates for council; George B. Shields, candidate for clerk of courts; Josiah Speer, candidate for county commissioner and Judge Frank I. Gollmar.

HOULAHEN ENDORSED

The candidacies of James Houlahen and his running mate, P. F. Brennan, were endorsed last night at a meeting of Democrats in the municipal building, South Second street, Duquesne.

The campaign for Houlahen and Brennan will center tonight in the Turtle Creek valley, with meetings in the municipal buildings of Forest Hills and East Pittsburgh.

GRAY ASSAILS "BOSSES"

The effort "of a small group of bosses to use the Republican party label for the promotion of their private interests" is being resented, Judge James H. Gray told his hearers at Allegheny county's first political breakfast held at 8:30 o'clock this morning in Elliott's restaurant. Defeat of some of the organization candidates, he said, will "stimulate other men fitted for office to offer their candidacies without waiting for the approving nod of machine leaders."

TODAY IS FIRST TO REGISTER

Today is the first of three registration days for Pittsburgh voters, and civic leaders are working with the aim of having 150,000 eligibles cast ballots on election days. This morning registration boards could not determine how heavy the registration would be, but the belief was expressed that at the end of the day the total number registered would be much greater than last year.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

A Leading Fall Fabric—

Transparent Velvet

A new fabric of unusual beauty . . . so soft and gossamer-sheer that it is transparent . . . with all the deep richness of a pile fabric, and all the lustrous highlights of gleaming silk. Presented at Horne's in a wide variety of colors, in dark, bright and pastel shades, and two-tone colorings. 39 inches wide. There is an exceptionally complete variety of the finest transparent velvets at $7.95, $12.00 and $13.50 yard.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

200 Umbrellas, Special

$3.95

These are utility umbrellas which combine attractive style qualities. All have 16 ribs and some have wood shanks, while others are made with steel rods.

Some are of silk and some are of gloria, and all have smart composition handles and tips. In the wanted fall shades of brown, purple, blue, green, and red.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

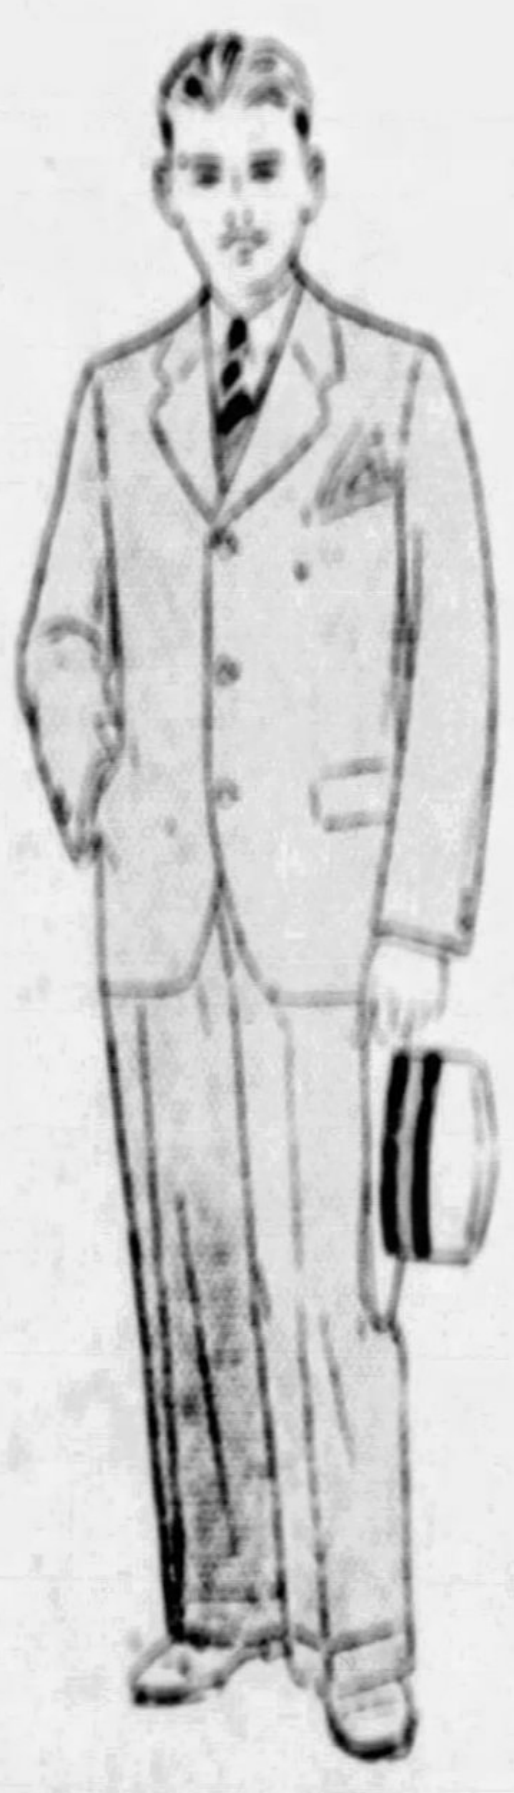
Popularity of Pearls Carries Into Fall

Their vogue does not waver. Rather, it increases as those valuable allies for pearl effectiveness — the color, black, and the material, velvet — continue in favor.

Lustrous simulated pearls — our own French imports —are found here—

60-inch strands, lariat throw style, 30-inch graduated strings, or chokers of large beads—All attractively priced at $4.95.

—Horne's, Main Floor—



Long Trouser Suits

For Youths of High and Prep School Age

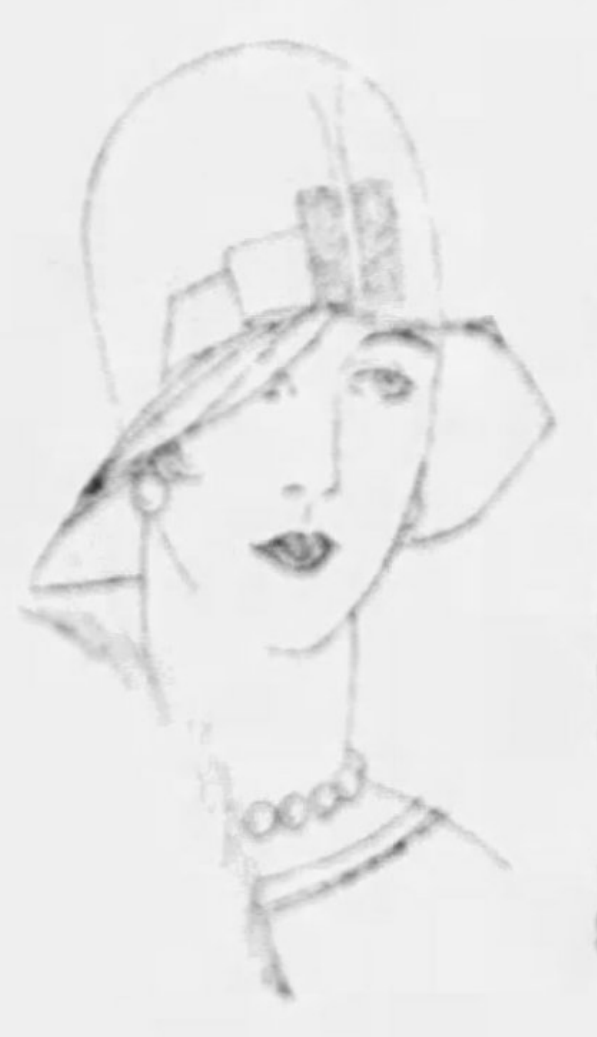
They're cut in the approved collegiate types — three-button, high lapeled, single-breasted coats, and high-cut vests. Mostly in prominent patterns, herringbones and other novelty weaves in light and medium dark browns and tans. Each suit has two pairs of trousers. Sizes 32 to 37 chest measure. $25.00.

For large boys, long-trouser suits may be had with coats cut in the same style as the knicker suits, so they'll fit the boy's form properly. Fancy-mixed fabrics. Sizes 12 to 18 years. Each suit has two pairs of trousers. $17.50 to $35.00.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

The "Eye-brow" Hat

—from Agnes



"One eyebrow at a time," is the rule set by this hat, a copy of a model by Agnes, designed to promote the season's vogue of hats to reveal one or both brows.

It is of Franciscan brown velours, priced $25.00. It can be copied in our workrooms in any desired color, the price depending upon the fabric used.

Hats showing the same influence, in our various autumn lines, at $10.00 upward.

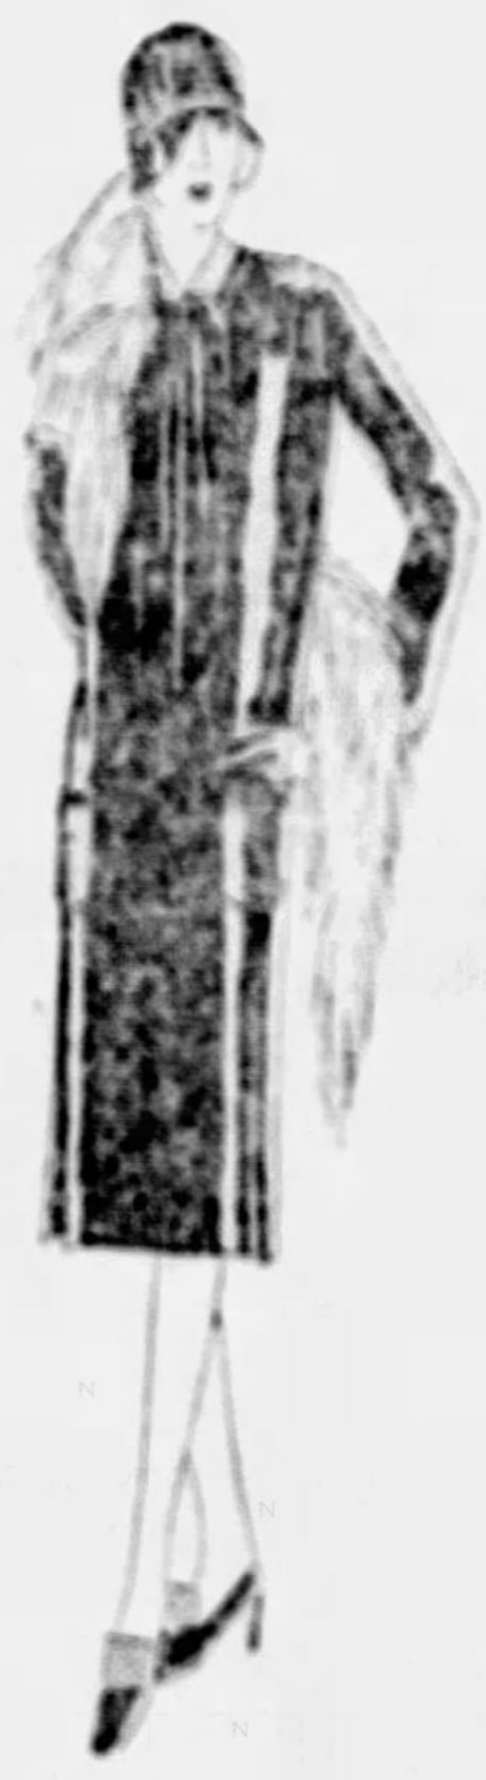
—Horne's, Fourth Floor—

"Hand in Glove" with Fashion

Two new slip-ons, one of suede and one of doeskin—both hand-sewn and washable, have just arrived to authenticate the fashion-notes which foretold their coming.

Slip-ons are smart and close-fitting. Hands encased in them could not but be well-groomed and comfortable. These are obtainable in soft, creamy shades of beige, some of which have a hint of rose in them, in grays, in black and in white. $5.50 pair.

—Horne's, Main Floor—



Fashion-Thrift Satin Dresses

$16.50

Here is a new Fashion-Thrift model of satin, for women and misses, to be shown tomorrow.

In black, balsam green, autumn oakleaf, or Newport blue.

The pleated inserts in the skirt, the vestee and collar, are of lighter-contrasting silk crepe.

This dress is to be had in all sizes, from misses' 14 to women's size 44.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

The Test of a "Home Movie" Outfit

—is in the seeing! The clearness of the pictures it is possible to take with a small moving picture camera, the simplicity of operation of the projector, the pleasure of sitting at home and watching a "movie"—these are best appreciated after seeing a demonstration of the machine.

If you will stop in the department, or call Court 3000, we will be glad to conduct a demonstration in your own home.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

PNEUMONIA ATTACKS WEAKENED SYSTEMS

ONE of the most fatal of all the diseases used to be called "lung fever." It is now known as pneumonia.

The dreadful thing about pneumonia is that it attacks persons in the prime of life. It appears to be just as fatal among the huskiest as among the frail and those believed to be the ready victims of disease.

DR COPELAND

During the influenza epidemic of 1918 it was observed by all of us that the secondary pneumonia which was responsible for the deaths was more common among men between the ages of 20 and 40 than in any other age group. At the time of life when men are thought to be most vigorous is the very time when this disease claims most of its victims.

In general it may be said there are two forms of pneumonia. One is "broncho-pneumonia," which is an extension downward into the lungs of a trouble which may start as a bronchitis.

Lobar pneumonia is the disease we have in mind at the present moment. Of this there are four types. In the future perhaps we will distinguish between the different types of pneumonia as we understand the disease at present. But regardless of the type, all these forms are passed on through the sputum.

It is a pity that more attention is not paid to the fact that pneumonia is an infectious disease. It is important to guard against the danger of passing it from one person to another. Just as scarlet fever and measles patients are cautioned to keep the sputum from other persons, so it is necessary to keep from coming in contact with the sputum of a pneumonia patient.

Coming in contact with the germs of a disease does not mean necessarily that the ailment will be taken. We have more or less powers of resistance and do not fall ready victims to every disease germ coming along. Usually pneumonia attacks a person who has lowered his vitality in some way. The common cold is a great offender which prepares the way for all sorts of more serious diseases, including pneumonia.

The familiar onset of pneumonia is shown by a chill. Almost immediately after this there is pain in the side and then the cough begins. Bloody matter is coughed up almost immediately after the pneumonia appears.

Much progress has been made in the study of pneumonia. The form which is known as "Type 1" has been thoroughly studied. A serum has been prepared for the treatment of this type of pneumonia.

Of course, such a serum would be of no value in any other type, so it is necessary to find out through the laboratory whether the type of pneumonia is Type 1.

Do not neglect the beginning symptoms of a cold. Do not look lightly upon the cold. Keep yourself fit and then you are not likely to have pneumonia or any other disease.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

R. B. G.—Q: What causes steady dizziness and shooting pains in the head and black spots before the eyes?

A: This is probably due to biliousness. Correct your diet and avoid constipation. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Q: How long does it take for a complete recovery from tuberculosis? 2—Is it necessary to burn all bed clothing belonging to a tubercular patient?

A: This depends on the condition of the lungs. 2—No, boil all the bed clothing thoroughly and allow them to dry in the sun and fresh air.

FAILS TO REPORT MATE'S DEATH

Covered with a carpet, towels and a shawl, the body of Martin Yocum, 71, of 2216 Wilson avenue, was found late yesterday in the kitchen of his home. Mrs. Anna Yocum, his wife, is said to have covered the body and failed to report the death. Deputy Coroner John T. McQuaid, investigating, said that death had occurred from natural causes and ordered the body taken to an undertaker's.

HELD FOR USING WRONG AUTO PLATES

Robert R. Zeek, a motorcycle patrolman reporting to the Squirrel Hill Police Station, yesterday waived a hearing and was held for court before Justice of the Peace Philip Hillen of Heidelberg on a charge of driving an automobile with license plates other than those issued for it. Zeek was arrested while on duty yesterday morning by Constable C. P. Altmeyer of Heidelberg.

The information against Zeek charging him with misdemeanor was made by Mrs. Myrtle E. Holland, 830 Lillian street, who said that on two occasions during August Zeek had used plates which did not belong to him.

2,000,000 FEET A DAY IN NEW W. VA. GAS WELL

A gas well yielding 2,000,000 cubic feet a day was drilled in yesterday by C. L. Williams, J. Frank Murray and others on their 1,100-acre lease in Tyler county, West Virginia. The strike was made in the Maxon sand. Several other wells are being drilled in the same territory.

WANTA' JOIN A BAND, BOY$?

PLAY A MOUTH-ORGAN

Then fill in this little blank at the end of the story about Borrah Minevitch, harmonica demon, who is coming next week to the Loew's Penn Theater. It may mean an opportunity for you to be chosen by him to represent your city in the band. That's he, Borrah, up there in the picture. He's hearing the mouth-organists do their stuff. He has a good band with him, all harmonica boys, but wants one fellow out of Pittsburgh. If he can find one good enough the contract is there, he says.

Boys, Here's Chance To Go on Stage

Boys, here's good news!

First of all let us explain the nature of our story and advise all flappers and others that this is for boys only. The girls have had their chance in opportunity contests—bathing beauty contests while the boys did the cheering—but this contest is for the poor down-trodden boy.

Here is the idea! Borah Minevitch, world's greatest harmonica player, comes to the New Loew's Penn Theater next week with his harmonica band. He has asked the Sun-Telegraph to find a boy not over 20 to join his band, so that Pittsburgh will be represented along with the boys of the various cities of the country in which this band has played. All that Borrah will do is measure the merits of the city's best harmonica players and if the winner shows Borah that he has the talent he will offer some young man in this city a chance to gain fame and fortune as he did. Borah rose from a poor newsboy on the streets of Boston to that of a leading light on Broadway in a few years, through the playing of the humble harmonica. Also, he has caused the music world to recognize the mouth-organ as a genuine musical instrument.

NO RED TAPE

There is no red tape to this contest and all that is required is that the winner, if he proves satisfactory, will have his parents' or guardians' consent to sign a contract that will make him a member of the most talked of musical organization of the past decade.

All that is necessary for you to receive your chance is to fill in the accompanying entry blank and mail it to the Harmonica Contest Editor and then watch the paper daily for further developments.

Please enter me in the Borrah Minevitch Sun-Telegraph Harmonica Contest to be held at Loew's New Penn Theater.

HEIRESS-RIDING MASTER MARRIAGE ANNULLED

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis., Sept. 8.—The marriage of Miss Emily Forster, daughter of Charles Forster, Milwaukee millionaire, and Jack Bradley, riding master, was annulled by Judge C. M. Davison. The young bride, widely known in Milwaukee society, married Bradley after a whirlwind courtship and elopement. Bradley's alienation suit against his bride's father for $250,000 damages was recently thrown out of court.

PITTSBURGHER HEADS ALPHA PI DELTA FRAT

The annual convention of the Alpha Pi Delta fraternity closed last night with a reception in the Hotel Schenley. Officers for the 1927-29 term were elected in the afternoon at a business session. They are Dr. Charles J. Barone, Pittsburgh, grand counsel; Vincent Madeleina, Cleveland, vice grand counsel; Peter San Martino, Long Island, N. Y., grand quaestor tribune, and Henry Coppola, grand historian. The officers will assume their duties October 1.

CONSTIPATION STEALS STRENGTH

Get prompt, permanent relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Don't let this curse undermine your health. Heed the warning signs. Headaches, sleeplessness, spots before the eyes—are all symptoms. Follow Mrs. Jansen's way to sure relief.

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to relieve constipation. I have been using this over two years, and it helped me so much, that I couldn't help writing you. I eat a half a cup every day and I don't need any medicine. My health is much better than it has been. You can tell others about it if you want to."

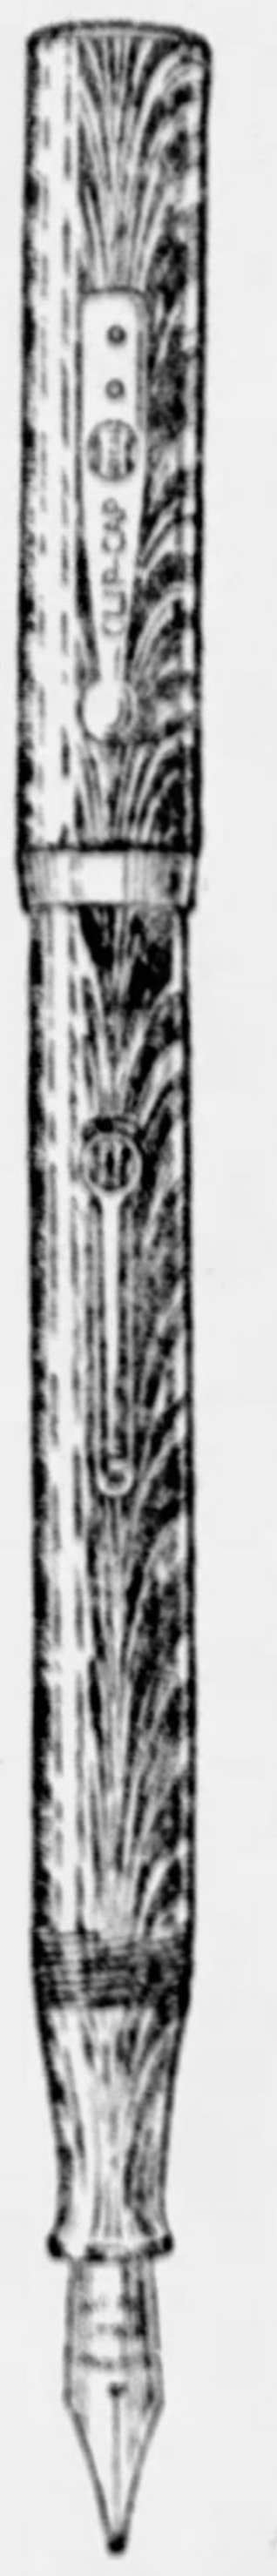
MRS. JANSEN
Holland, Michigan

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Simply eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Delicious with milk or cream and add fruits or honey if desired. Comes ready to eat. Use in cooking. Sold and served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

One hundred college men tried this fountain pen and ninety said it was the best fountain pen they ever saw



They liked the size; they liked the feel of the hard rubber holder; they liked the color; they liked being able to get a pen point that exactly suited their handwriting; they liked the big ink capacity; they liked the surety with which the ink flowed the instant the pen touched paper.

Try it. You will find that all those little interruptions to thought caused by inferior pens have been eliminated.

Why not call on your dealer today and try Waterman's ripple stainless rubber No. 01854? You will like it because it will end all pen annoyances.

ALLEGED DRIVER OF AUTO HELD IN DEATH

Philip Allen, Jr., of 807 Manhattan street, alleged hit-and-run automobile driver, was ordered held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter this morning by the coroner at an inquest into the death of A. J. McCarthy, of 209 Suismon street.

McCarthy, struck by an automobile at Ridge and Irwin avenues a week ago, died in the Presbyterian Hospital a few minutes later. Allen was arrested when he reported that his automobile had been stolen and gave a description which fitted the car which struck McCarthy.

GIRL IS HELD AS RING HEAD

A comely blonde is behind the bars at Central police station while detectives search for support of their theory that she is the leader of a ring of auto-parts thieves.

Mrs. Bessie Evans, 21, of 2205 Straus street, is the woman. Arrested with her were her husband, Grosby G. Evans, and Albert Atkin, 21, of 511 Merchant street. Magistrate E. M. Hough held them for further investigation in Central police court today after police had testified that the trio had $1,000 in auto parts in their garage and two automobiles whose registration numbers had been defaced.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Jacob Sedar

Mrs. Bessie Sarah Sachs Sedar, 46, wife of Jacob Sedar, died this morning in her home at 5712 Wellesly avenue, after a short illness. She was born in Russia and came to the United States when a child. She has lived in Pittsburgh virtually all her life. She was a member of the Montefiore Hospital Association, the Sisterhood of the Adath Jeshurun Congregation. She leaves her husband; two sons, Alvin and Leonard Sedar; a daughter, Miss [illegible] Sedar; her father, Jacob Sachs, all of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Mrs. S. Goldberg, of Maynard, O.

Daniel Hergenreder

Daniel Hergenreder died Wednesday in his home at 711 Middle street, Sharpsburg. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Sharpsburg and leaves his wife, Barbara Kerl Hergenreder; three sons, George W., Edward and Albert A. Hergenreder; one daughter, Mrs. Martha Weingettle; two brothers, Jacob and Henry Hergenreder; two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Hartman and Mrs. Lena Hepperling; 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

True Stories of Real Romance

As long as men and women go adventuring in the land of wishes and dreams—as long as the human heart contains a spark of tenderness—just so long will the imagination yield to the spirit of Romance.

The real epics of romance, however, are not born of fancy, but are the stories of real people who have been at grips with life and who are writing from experience.

These are the stories that really stir the imagination—true stories of love and marriage, of temptation and struggle, of success and failure, of laughter and tears. True Story Magazine for October contains seventeen such narratives which will fascinate and thrill you as fiction can never do. Your newsdealer now has the October issue. Buy it today!

SOCIETY DAILY HAPPENINGS CLUBS

Betrothal of Miss Mildred Henderson To Roy C. Fullerton Is Announced

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES S. HENDSON, of East Hutchinson street, Edgewood, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Patterson Henderson, to Roy C. Fullerton, of Sterling, Kan., and Pittsburgh.

Miss Alice H. Cost, of Dearborn street, will entertain with a bridge party and linen shower tonight in her home in honor of Miss Marian Emery, whose marriage to John Fierrst will be solemnized Wednesday in St. Lawrence's Catholic church; and Miss Mary Wehrli, who will become the bride of William McDonough at a wedding Tuesday in St. Joseph's Catholic church. Six tables will be in play and the appointments will be in pink and white.

* * *

Miss Virginia Perry, of Norwich avenue, Brookline, entertained at dinner in her home recently to announce the engagement of Miss Mildred Mohr, daughter of Mrs. P. J. Mohr, of Salem, Ore., formerly of Pittsburgh, to Percy Malcolm Hammond, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. Hammond, of Salem. Covers were laid for 14. Miss Mohr is a graduate of Folts Training School and Mr. Hammond was graduated from Willamette University.

Benjamin Cohen, of Beacon street, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Pearl Cohen, and Bernard Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Goodman, of Beacon street, which was solemnized Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the chapel of the Tree of Life synagogue by the Rev. Herman Hailperin. Mr. and Mrs. Goodman have sailed for Europe and after November 1 will be at home in Beacon street. The bride is a graduate of St. Xavier's Academy and Mr. Goodman is a University of Pittsburgh man.

Miss Mary Margaret Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin N. Ballard, of Morewood avenue, became the bride of Theodore N. Goddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Goddard, of Thetford, Vt., and Ann Arbor, Mich., at a wedding last night at 8 o'clock in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, with Rev. George Vincent officiating. The bride wore white velvet embroidered with pearls and rhinestones, with a full court train, and her tulle veil was secured with a coronet of old point Venise lace. She carried a shower of orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley. Mrs. John Ballard, her sister-in-law, as matron of honor, and Miss Jane Irwin, of Bellevue, as maid of honor, appeared in pink orchid lace threaded with gold, and they carried cactus dahlias and delphinium. John M. Gaston, Jr., was best man, and the ushers included John Ballard, brother of the bride, and Dorrance Goddard, of Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard have left for an eastern motor trip and after November 1 will be at home in Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cohen, of Amber street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Cohen, to Jack Steinbach, of this city.

The usual features of music, the presentation of the gavel, the president's address and greetings from other clubs will mark president's day to be held by the Swissvale Woman's Club October 10. Among the more significant topics which the club will discuss or hear discussed during the season are "Civic Improvements for Swissvale," "Characteristics of the Present Order" (on which Dr. M. K. McKay will speak), "Historical Highways Leading into Pittsburgh," "Food and Its Adulteration," "Greatest Need of the Home Today," "Things We Could Do Without," and "Birds" (a talk which Graham Netting of Carnegie Museum will give). The Christmas program will be given December 12 and will have as its outstanding feature a reading of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" by Mrs. Henry B. Lupton. Mrs. F. F. Homer's playlet, "Early Days in Pittsburgh," will be presented by the club at the February meeting and at every session there will be musical numbers.

Mrs. Teresa M. Mclamphy, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, will be hostess at a petch card party and tea at the Council House, Penn avenue, Monday afternoon from 2 to 5. The proceeds will be given to the "burn the mortgage fund." The board of directors of the council will open the fall season with an innovation, a dinner at 6:30 o'clock and social session with speakers and music Tuesday at Council House. They will have as guests their husbands and men friends.

* * *

There will be a meeting for organization of the current events class of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women at Council House, Tuesday evening. Miss Mary L. Breen of Peabody High School will direct the class.

ENGAGED TO ST. LOUIS MAN

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Georgiana Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Lane, Lane's Mills, Pa., to Leon B. Schumaker, St. Louis.

MISS GEORGIANA LANE

CARRICK MOTHERS OPEN 1927-28 CLUB SEASON

The club season is open! The Mothers' Club of Carrick gave the wheel a twirl yesterday that will keep it going for the next eight or nine months in unceasing activity. The majority of clubs open with president's day, but the Carrick mothers choose to have a business meeting and to talk over their summer journeys in the privacy of the club family before opening their doors to visiting club neighbors. So yesterday afternoon there was all sorts of merriment and interest over the various comings and goings of the different members. Under Mrs. William Rossiter's chairmanship, a letter was read from Mrs. W. H. McCombs, last year's president, who is in Europe, and another from Mrs. George Gearing, who is touring the West. Other members told of a motor trip made by four of them to Lake Erie, Chautauqua and Niagara Falls and to an ice mine near Coudersport, another of meeting an Inca prince from Peru and of a trip to Put-in-Bay, while others described short trips in various directions. The hostesses for the day served tea at the conclusion of the program.

The auditorium of the clubhouse presents a changed appearance with the chairs faced about to the rear, a much more convenient arrangement than the previous one. Mrs. J. T. Anderson, the club's alert publicity chairman, is keeping a clipping bulletin up to date. This hangs on the clubhouse wall and is always a matter of interest to the members.

Representatives from Butler, Sharon, New Castle and Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's clubs will attend the first open fall meeting of the local Business and Professional Women's Club tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Miss Margaret Louise Kirschner, delegate of the Pittsburgh Club to the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs at Oakland, Cal., in July will give her report. Mrs. Nora White, also of the Pittsburgh Club, who was a visitor at the convention, will tell of the trip on the president's special, the first train composed entirely of women to cross the country from coast to coast.

The department of education of the Congress of Clubs and the Better Magazine Council of Allegheny County will hold a joint luncheon at the Congress Clubhouse next Wednesday at 12 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Claudy, director board of Christian education of the Presbyterian Church in America, will speak.

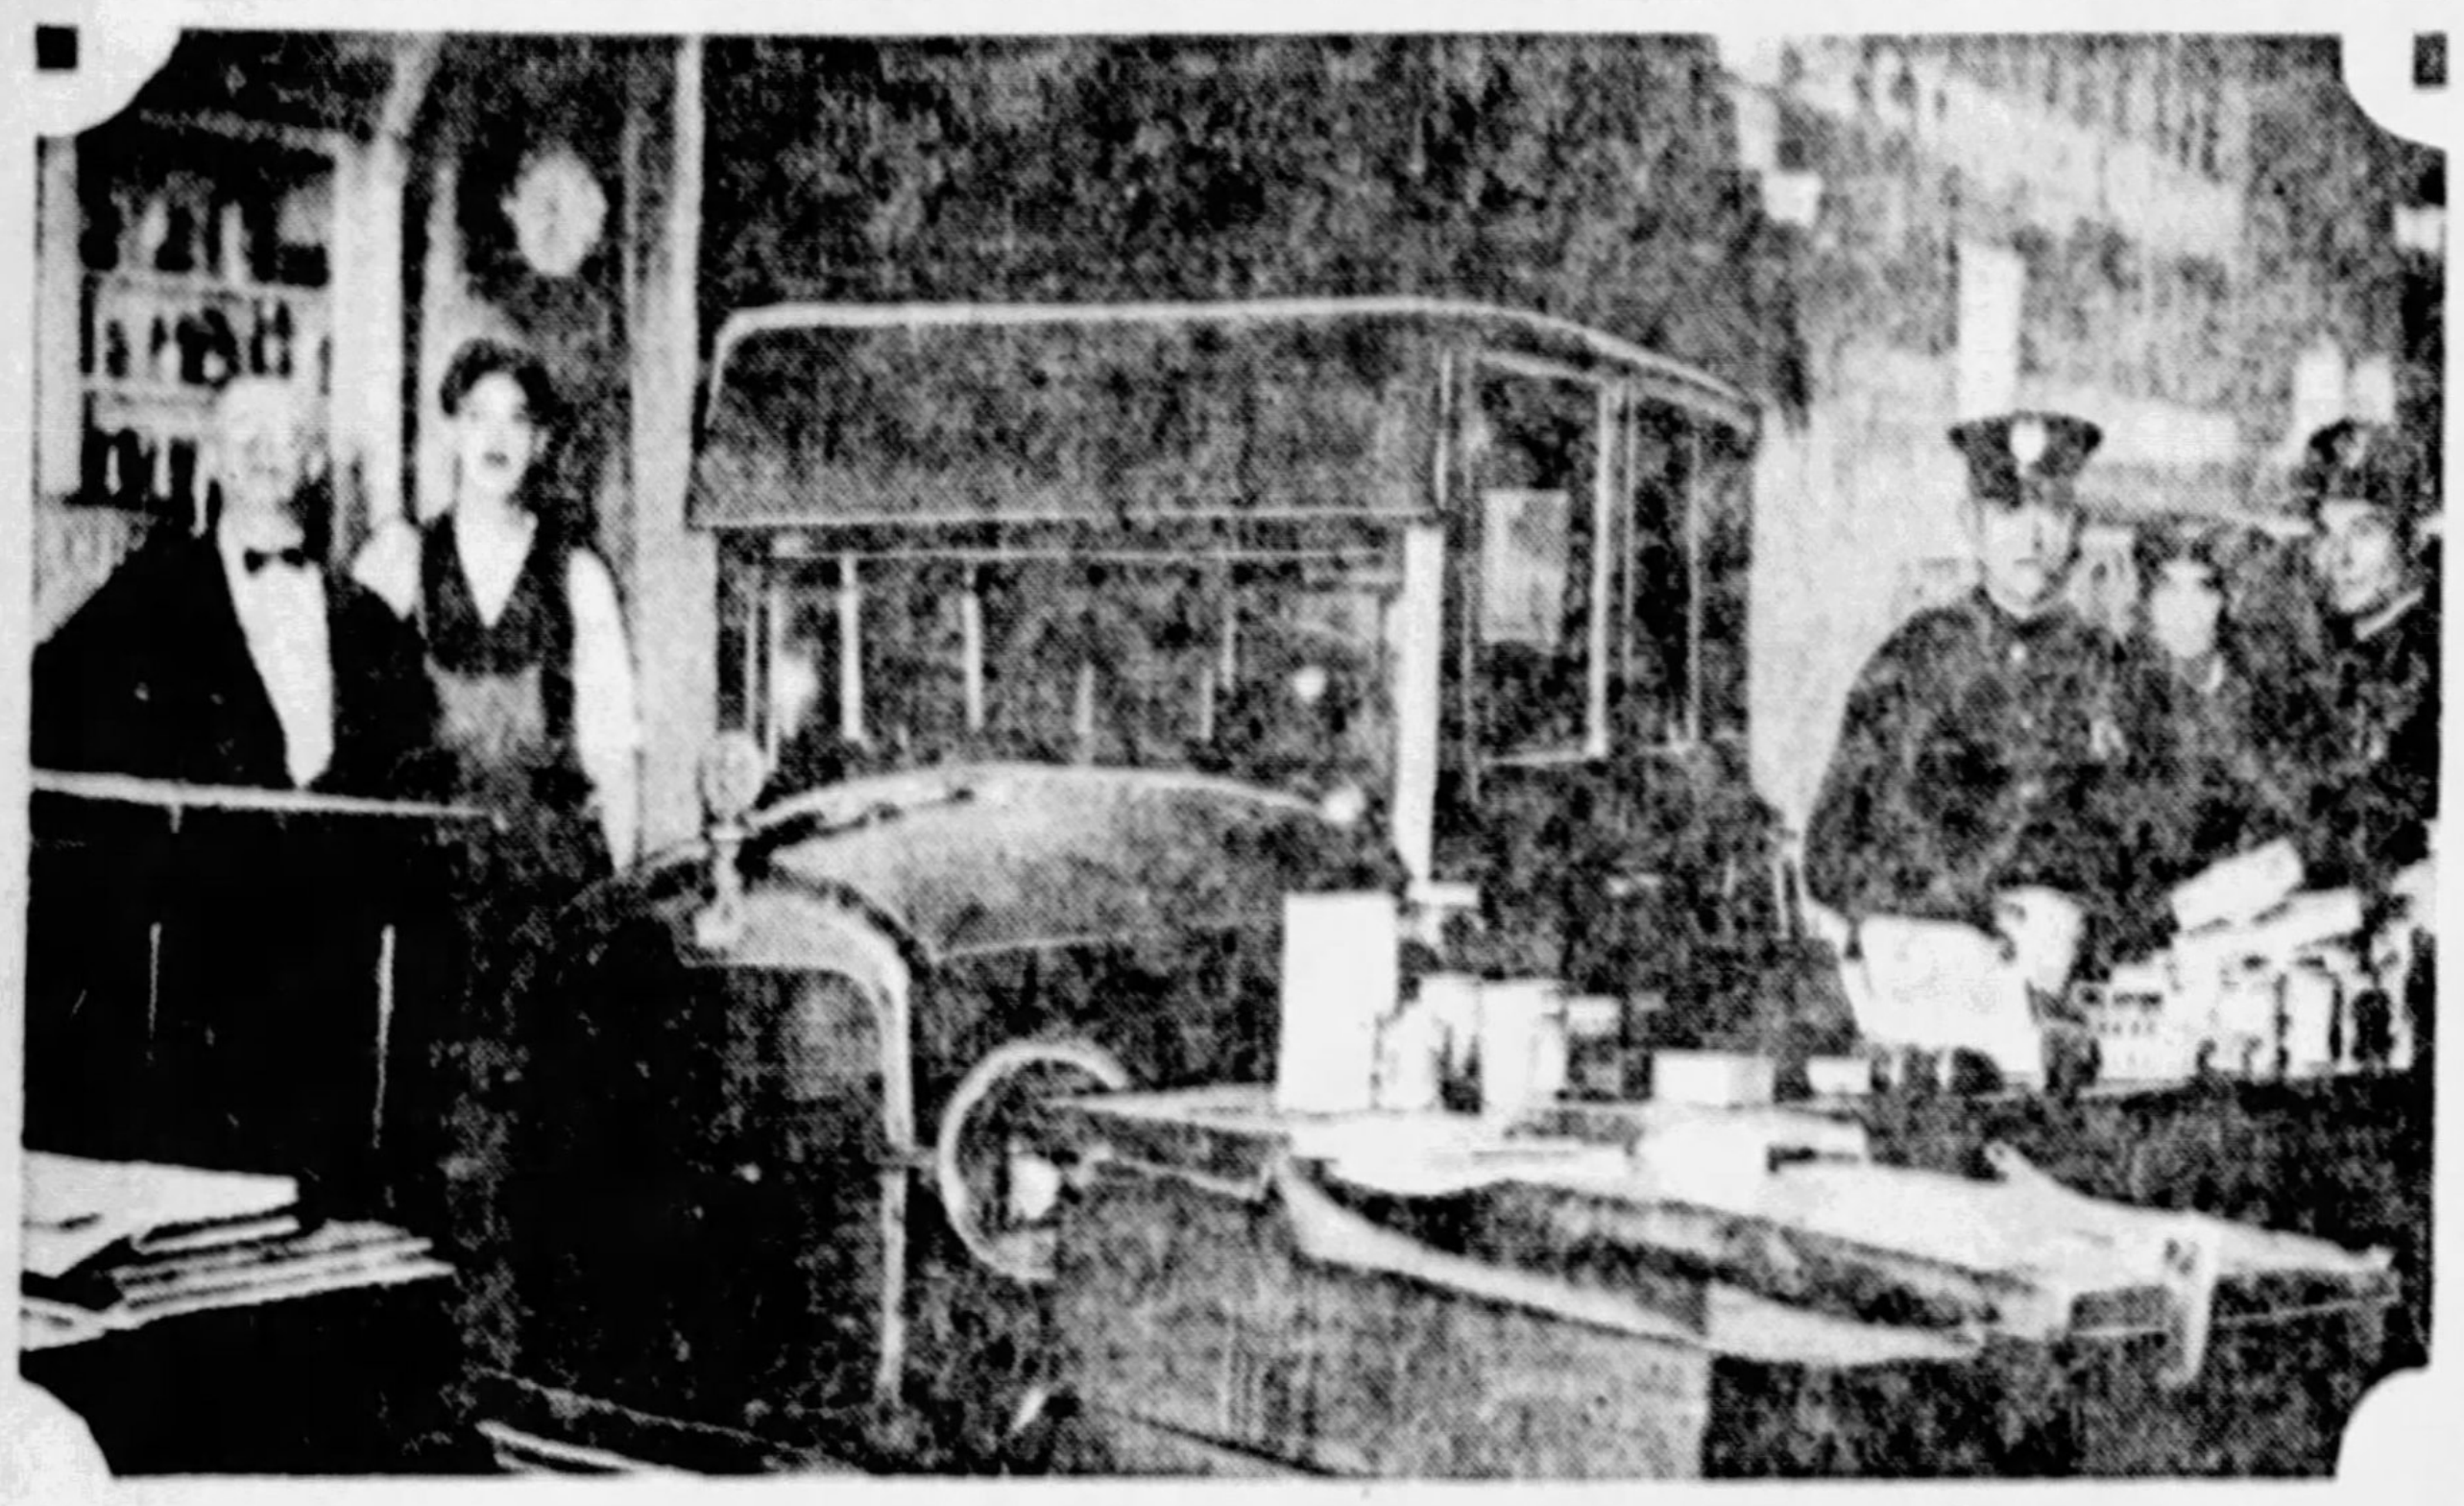
WHEN AUTO MEETS WINDOW



THEN COMES THE CRASH OF GLASS

Failing to turn his automobile slightly at the Boulevard of the Allies and Ferry street, early Monday, William Scott, aged 25, of 630 Brighton road, Avalon, drove his machine through the large plate glass window of the Robert Weisbrode Company, wholesale groceries, and there brought it to a stop. In addition to breaking the window Scott's machine broke off a steam radiator. Scott told police that he was blinded by the lights of a machine coming under the building viaduct at that point. Dr. J. W. Clark pronounced Scott drunk. He was arrested on a charge of violating the automobile laws for driving while intoxicated.

DOUBLE DUPLEX IS SOLD

A double duplex at 7228-7230 Kelly street has been sold for Sarah Hostas to L. M. Levinson for a consideration of $40,000. The lot has a frontage of 50 feet on Kelly street. F. E. Shaughnessy, of the Homewood Realty Company, closed the deal.

The same broker sold for Robert and Frank H. Wimer to Rose May Howard a lot fronting 145 feet on Washington boulevard for $6,000. The buyer will improve the property with six modern homes. The same company sold for H. J. Hush to Dominick Lemmon a frame dwelling at 7619 Mulford street for $7,000.

A double duplex dwelling at 587 South Braddock avenue, Fourteenth ward, lot 47x127 feet, has been sold by Hugh J. A. Dowling to W. F. Kelly at private terms.

A four-story brick building at 801 Wylie avenue, on a lot 19.67x60 feet, has been sold by D. Nerone to T. G. Sassa at a valuation of $45,000. Mr. Sassa deeded in return a brick dwelling at 368 South Atlantic avenue, lot 30x100 feet, for $22,000. S. L. Catanzaro, of the Real Estate Company of Pittsburgh, made the sale.

A permit for the foundation of the Koppers Building at 701-709 Seventh avenue, southwest corner Grant street, was applied for today at the bureau of building inspection. The foundation will cover the entire lot and will support 33 stories. No estimate of the cost was made.

"G-By, Mom!"

The daily rallying cry of the battle of books—

It will ring through thousands of Pittsburgh homes five mornings a week for the next ten months—

From little tads wrestling with the mysteries of three times seven; from dignified big brother and sister struggling with indirect discourse and the tripartite division of ancient Gaul—

"G-By, Mom!"

And now, "Mom," help them. See that their fast growing little bodies are fortified with plenty of the food that Nature, herself, prepared for that very purpose—Fresh Milk.

Fresh milk with the delicious natural fresh milk flavor—protected against danger by Nature's own giant Electricity—milk with its original natural structure intact and with all the natural food values exactly as Nature made them. For every child a quart a day of

GRAND OPERA STAR, WIFE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 8.—Leon Rothier, famed Metropolitan Opera star, and his wife, were injured at Monipelier, near here, in an automobile collision. Kazimier Wylesynski, Rothier's valet, and Kazimier's wife, Mrs. Rothier's maid, also suffered injuries. The valet is believed to have had his skull fractured.

SEEK TO EJECT 25 MINERS AT NANT-Y-GLO

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—Proceedings to eject 25 striking miners and their families from company houses at Nant-y-Glo were instituted by the Springfield Coal Corporation and the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation, both of which are now operating on a non-union basis.

BULLET NEAR BRAIN, TREATED FOR "NERVES"

Treated at the Allegheny General Hospital since August 30 for a nervous breakdown, Lewis Geibel, 64, of 1303 Federal street, was found yesterday to be suffering from a bullet lodged near the brain. City detectives, investigating, said they believed the man had shot himself. The bullet made only a slight wound in the cheek, which was overlooked by physicians.

CLEANING SHOP RAIDED BY THIEVES

Three thousand dollars' worth of men's suits and coats, cleaned and pressed ready for delivery today, were stolen from the Peabody Cleaning Company, 435 North Highland avenue, last night, it was reported to police by William Goldberg, proprietor.

Among the garments taken were the winter uniform and traffic dress coat of Patrolman Fred Phipps, of 504 North Highland avenue, reporting at the Frankstown Avenue Station. He had sent them to the place to be cleaned and repaired in readiness for police inspection on September 15.

A rear window of the shop was forced by the robbers. The clothes were hanging on two racks near the front.

'DEAD' VETERAN WRITES HOME

By Universal Service.

MARINE, Ill., Sept. 8.—Friends of Henry Becker and his wife are investigating the possibility that their son, Leonard, believed killed in the World War, is still alive.

The parents were startled to receive a postcard from Canada, signed with their son's name, reading, "Only a few miles from home."

The body supposed to be Leonard's was returned from overseas and now lies in the Marine cemetery. The American Legion post here is named in his honor.

FEMIA SLAYER SUSPECT RELEASED UNDER BAIL

Held in the county jail 10 days as a suspect in the murder of Rocco Femia, 32, of 5113 Lytle street, on August 26, Dominic Battalia of Clairton was ordered released under $5,000 bail today by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen in Common Pleas Court, following a hearing on habeas corpus proceedings instituted by the man's attorney. Six other suspects in the case still are in jail.

Vet Found Dead

HOWARD MERRYMAN

Gassed veteran of World War, Howard E. Merryman, 37, of 506 East Lacock street, was found dead today in a truck in Mendota street. Morgue report was that Merryman, who was recently a patient in Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall, died of natural causes.

NEW CADILLAC SERIES HERE

Rumors of the coming of a new high-class car in the General Motors line were confirmed this morning when a new series of Cadillac cars were placed on display in the showrooms of McAlister Brothers, local Cadillac and LaSalle distributors.

The new cars included in the special style salon easily take their place among the finest American automobile creations and Mr. McAlister declared this morning that even the most expensive foreign cars, with specially built bodies, fall short of the quality standard Cadillac has set up for their newest creations.

Bodies mounted on the greatly improved Cadillac chassis are uncommonly distinctive and smart and are furnished with complete and comfortable equipment, together with extra niceties only expected in custom-built motor cars.

The McAlister showrooms, it was announced this morning, will be open every evening during the style salon in order to give as many people as possible an opportunity to inspect what critics declared this morning to be the crowning achievement in Cadillac's quarter-century of motor car building.

3 DIE, 15 HURT IN CAR CRASH

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 8.—Coroner Max Lowe today opened an investigation of the disaster that befell patrons of the Dade race track near here late yesterday.

Fifteen of the 46 persons returning to Evansville from the track were probably fatally injured and may die, the result of the interurban car running through an open switch and crashing headon into three boxcars.

Three persons, including motorman Chester Brown, were killed instantly.

PITTSBURGHER PRESIDES AT METHODIST MEETING

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 8.—(INS.)—Dr. J. C. Broomfield of Pittsburgh, for the third time, has been re-elected presiding officer of the annual conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, which opened its ninety-fourth session here today. A. J. Green of Pittsburgh is secretary, and Charles M. Smith, New Brighton, treasurer.

FIVE INJURED HERE IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Five persons are suffering from injuries, two in local hospitals today, as the result of automobile accidents. The condition of Grace Campbell, 20, of 1242 California avenue, who was struck by an automobile driven near her home by J. H. Brown, 32, of 1901 Davis avenue, was reported as serious at Presbyterian Hospital.

Rev. Richard Gray of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, was said to be recovering in Pittsburgh Hospital from hurts received in Washington boulevard, near Leech Farm road, when he was hurled from a machine driven by Matthew Schultz, 5945 Bennett street, when the car struck a wall. Schultz suffered minor cuts.

An unidentified girl suffered a severe laceration of the leg and her two companions, John C. Makary, of 339 Mountain street, and Frank Westman, of 223 Renny street, narrowly escaped serious injury when a machine driven by the former backed over the hillside at 2800 Arlington avenue and overturned.

Struck by an automobile in Metropolitan street, near Liverpool street, last night, Mary Brotoko, 11, of 1607 Metropolitan street, is in the Presbyterian Hospital with an injury to her left shoulder. James Wilson, 46, of 1307 Beaver avenue, driver, was arrested.

Rids you of pain at once and heals

CORNS

No waiting—one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads the pain is gone. After the corn is healed it never comes back. If new shoes irritate the spot again, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight. Old methods of paring corns, or using caustic acids, are dangerous.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are safe, antiseptic, protective, healing. They stop the cause of corns—rubbing and pressing of shoes. At all druggists' and shoe dealers'. Cost but a trifle.

Dress Styles for Moments of Business or Leisure

AUTUMN expressions of the tailored mode are now on view in great variety in the Jonasson collection. The new lightweight wools, just a trifle heavier than silk, are being widely acclaimed. Some of the notables are Wool Georgette, Rep, Jersey and Fantomeen.

For the person who likes the dressed-up feeling of silks and satins there is much of interest developed of Crepe Exquisite (tweed patterned silk), Novelty Silk Crepes, Satins and Georgettes. New trimmings, new lines, and new colors provide a refreshing pageant that covers the tailored mode from every angle.

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

Strange Illness Overcomes Millie, and Sally Calls The Family Physician

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family, which consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for MR. PEEVEY downtown afternoons. In the flat below the Jerome's flat lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman, who wants her to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her. Sally is heartsick and jealous. Beau gets $110 from Ted Sloan by means of two bad checks and Ted threatens to turn him over to the police. Sally borrows the money from Mr. Peevey with which to pay Ted. But when she turns it over to Beau he does not pay him, but uses the money to elope with his fiancee, MABEL WILMOT. Beau and Mabel start borrowing from Sally almost the first day they are married, although both of them are working. One of Mr. Jerome's checks comes, and Mrs. Jerome promises Millie half of it, a hundred dollars, for new fall clothes. The other hundred she promises to give Beau and Mabel for a wedding present, but they manage to coax the whole check from her. Millie learns of it one night when she and Sally return home in John Nye's car, which he has lent to Millie during his absence from town. Millie flies into a tantrum and collapses on the floor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"HE WAS going out of town, and they probably wanted to be alone," Sally began soothingly, but Mrs. Jerome went right on:

"No such thing! She was just too lazy to get a bite of food ready for the three of us! Mr. Nye wanted to buy some things from the delicatessen, but Millie said she wanted to go out, and go out they did! She certainly winds him around her little finger."

The doorbell rang, and she turned heavily and lumbered away to let the doctor in.

As he came quickly and quietly into the lamplit room Millie's eyelids, which had been closed for several moments, fluttered open and she gave him a drowsy glance.

"Pain—here," she mumbled thickly, and laid her hand on her side, just at the line of the hips. "Like two sharp knives—" Then she dropped off into her stupor once more.

With a jerk of his head, Dr. Ambleside ordered both Mrs. Jerome and Sally out of the room.

They stood just outside in the hall, looking at each other but never saying a word, for the next few minutes. Within they could hear the doctor's low voice every now and then, and presently Millie answered him.

Then the door opened and he came out.

"She's better," he said, setting his little black bag down on the floor beside him. "She says the pain has gone, and she's not sure just where it was. She says it was all over her body. I'll be here first thing in the morning, and if she has another attack tonight, call me up. Don't hesitate!"

Then as quickly and quietly as he had come, he was gone.

Mrs. Jerome gave Sally a disgusted look. "Now, isn't that just like a fool doctor?" she exploded, when the door had closed behind him. "Never telling a person what's the matter! She might have gall stones, or appendicitis, or a dozen other things, and we'd never know it!" She opened the bedroom door and went in.

Millie was lying against the pillows, but her face was turned towards them now, and there was a tiny smile on her lips.

Looking at her, Sally knew that no matter what she did that was selfish and cruel and thoughtless, she would always love her—and love her as generously as she always had.

"Why, if anything happened to her I'd die," she said to herself. "And if any girl is going to have John Nye, I'm glad that girl is Millie."

She leaned across the bed and kissed her. Millie smiled wearily up at her once more. Then she turned her face to the wall and went to sleep instantly, as sick people often do.

In the morning, when Sally left for the office, she was better, although she still had a fever.

"Better not give her anything to eat until the doctor gets here," were Sally's parting words to her mother. "You know what they say—'Starve a fever.'"

"Good food never hurt anybody," answered Mrs. Jerome, firmly. "But I'm not going near her unless she calls me. She's still cross about my giving that $200 to poor Beau, and I'm not going in there and let her hector me about it all this livelong day!"

"You're late!" Mr. Peevey greeted Sally when she walked in that day. "You're 12 minutes late!" He frowned down at his huge silver watch.

"I know it, and I'm sorry, but my sister's been sick in bed all morning," the girl answered, tossing her hat up on the hooks above the mirror. "And I had a little extra work to do."

Mr. Peevey shoved his glasses up on his forehead and glared at her thoughtfully. "That must be quite a family of yours," he said at the end of several minutes. "Are they all invalids?"

"Not quite," Sally grinned at him, showing a flash of white teeth and an adorable dimple. "Look at me! I could lick Dempsey, I'm so husky."

Mr. Peevey gave his inimitable grunt. "Well, hurry up with my lunch," said he. "And I'll let you punish your typewriter, instead. We're getting behind with our letters lately."

It was towards the end of the unseasonable hot afternoon that he began to talk to her again about her own affairs.

"Well, I see our neighbor across the hall is on a little vacation," he said in his tart way, and nodded toward John Nye's office.

The door of it stood open, and within Sally could see Millie's assistant sitting idly at her desk, turning the pages of a magazine.

"Yes," said Sally, with a little catch in her voice. For every time she looked into that office she seemed to see John Nye as she had seen him that first day standing beside the window, hands in pockets, whistling "High—high—high—up on the hill." How long ago that seemed!

"I thought maybe he and your sister had got married when they were both gone today," remarked Mr. Peevey. "Sure that isn't what's happened?"

Sally flushed. "I told you my sister was home, sick in bed, Mr. Peevey," she answered, drawing herself up in the most dignified way.

"Oh, that's right—that's right. My mistake!" apologized Mr. Peevey, who remembered perfectly what she had said.

He was always trying to catch people in lies. He said they were all liars—especially women.

He never had caught Sally in a falsehood yet. But he had not given up hope.

"There's Nye, now—oh, no, it isn't!" he said, peering out into the hall in his near-sighted way. "I thought it was at first."

Turning sharply, Sally saw a large, familiar figure on the threshold of John Nye's office—Millie's Mr. Davidson.

He was asking in a loud voice for "Miss Millie Jerome." His voice drifted into where Sally stood beside Mr. Peevey's desk.

"I'll go and tell him that Millie's ill, if you don't mind. He's a friend of hers," she said and went out into the hall.

CHAPTER XXIX.

"DID you want to see Millie?" asked Sally, walking straight up to Davidson and shaking hands with him in her brisk, business-like way.

"Yes, but I'd rather see you," Davidson answered, holding her hand in both of his. "Do you work up here?" His cold, gray eyes lifted and looked beyond her into Mr. Peevey's funny, old-fashioned office, with its electric stove, its roll-top desk and red calico chair cushions.

Sally nodded and drew her hand away from his. Her face flushed.

PITTSBURGHER TO JOIN AIR DERBY

A Pittsburgher will be among the approximately 26 fliers who will take off at 3 o'clock on the morning of September 19 from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, for Spokane, Wash., in the annual national air derby.

He is Robert E. Dake of 1355 Cordova road, an architect, president of the Lindsay Studios and a captain in the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth Observation Squadron, stationed at Rodgers Field.

In the derby, which is a preliminary to the national air races to be held at Spokane, Capt. Dake will pilot an Eberhart biplane which is being constructed for him at Buffalo, N. Y. The plane is practically completed and the Pittsburgh pilot expects to bring it to Rodgers Field before taking off for New York.

Capt. Dake, who makes his home with his mother, Mrs. E. J. Dake, flew the first commercial airplane in Pittsburgh from Schenley Oval in 1919. He has been a resident of Pittsburgh for the last 14 years and was graduated from the Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1920. He was a chief instructor at Kelly Field, Texas, for about 20 months.

Watch Coolidge Spurn Farm and Then See Who's Smart—Will

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 8.—The good people of Dakota offered to give Calvin a farm if he would live on it. I wouldn't advise you to give those people too much credit for generosity. There is not a farmer in any state in the West that wouldn't be glad to give him a farm if he will paint it, fix up the fences, and keep up the series of mortgages that are on it.

Will Rogers.

And if you think Coolidge ain't smart, you just watch him not take it.

Yours,
Congressman-at-large,
ROGERS.

P. S.—That wasn't a philanthropist that made him that offer. That was some comedian.

Strange Illness Overcomes Millie, and Sally Calls The Family Physician

but her eyes met his straight and full. Sally's eyes had no flirtatious, sidelong glances. Set bewitchingly wide apart and fringed with long, silky lashes, they had the frankness of a child's eyes.

"Millie's at home today. She was awfully sick last night," she said. "And Mr. Nye's out of town. I'll tell Millie you were here. Goodby."

She was turning to go back to Mr. Peevey's office when a sudden thought struck her and she came back to where Davidson stood watching her.

"Millie said something to me last night about your coming to work for Mr. Nye," she said. "Do you mind my asking if that was what you came for?"

It was a daring question, but Davidson answered it with a jerk of his head.

"The bond business hasn't been so good lately, and I thought I'd try selling lots instead," he said shortly, with a smile that did not light up his gray eyes. "How would you like to meet me after work today, and we'll go and buy Millie some roses?"

Sally shook her head at him and laughed. "I imagine you can buy roses without any of my help," she smiled. "You look as if you'd bought plenty of them in your time. Besides, I've got to hurry home today."

That night when she got home Millie was sitting up in bed eating chocolate ice cream in a big bowl. Beside her sat Mrs. Jerome with another bowl of it in her lap.

"Ice cream!" exclaimed Sally, coming to a stop in the doorway. "Did the doctor say Millie could have ice cream?" It seemed to her that chocolate ice cream was a pretty heavy diet for an invalid.

Mrs. Jerome looked guilty.

"Well, he said she could have liquid food," she said. "And ice cream is liquid—after it's melted. We were so hot, and we just telephoned the drug store man to send a quart of it up to us. Millie says she's just burning up."

Sally saw at a glance that Millie was feverish. Her eyes had a hard glitter and her cheeks were flushed to the temples.

"You give me that stuff!" cried Sally, and leaning across the bed she took the bowl out of her sister's small, clutching hands. "Mother, you know that she shouldn't have a thing but clear soup or milk. . . . That's what the doctor meant by a liquid diet."

"Well, there wasn't any milk in the house, or any soup either," replied her mother with a pathetic quiver in her voice. "I suppose I could have gone traipsing out in the heat for some—but the drug store is so nice about delivering things, and I thought the ice cream wouldn't hurt Millie a bit—"

The sound of her voice followed Sally out to the kitchen, where she threw the remaining ice cream into the sink and turned a stream of hot water upon it.

She opened the ice box to see what there was for supper. A bowl of mashed potatoes stood there. An uncooked sirloin steak was wrapped in waxed paper on the top shelf, and there was a big dish of salad greens beside it.

"We'll have potato balls and salad and tea for supper—that will be plenty for Mother and me," Sally said to herself. "Millie doesn't need anything tonight. And in the morning I'll use half of that steak to make her a bowl of soup. The other half can be broiled for tomorrow night's supper."

She knew that it was going to take a good deal of careful planning and figuring to get through the week with the tiny sum of money that lay folded tight in the bottom of her purse. . . . Seven dollars. Not quite seven dollars.

She went back to Millie's room, where Mrs. Jerome was finishing her ice cream in an aggrieved silence. She sniffed and looked out of the window when Sally came and stood beside Millie's bed.

"Dear," said Sally, quietly. "I hate to talk to you about money just now—but I had to give the doctor five dollars last night, and I wonder if you have any money left from your salary."

Millie raised her eyebrows. "I suppose it will all go on doctor bills," she grumbled. "And it was just nonsense to call Ambleside for me. I didn't need him at all."

She shot a look of fury at her mother. "Why don't you go and call Beau and Mabel up and ask them to give you back part of that two hundred?" she drawled, her blue eyes smouldering. "Then you could pay the doctor without calling on me for the little bit of money I've got—"

"I've tried to get them all day," quavered Mrs. Jerome, half rising from her chair. "But Beau wasn't at the bank and Mabel wasn't at Borsall's. I don't know where they can be."

"Probably out spending the money!" Millie came back at her indignantly. "Why don't you try to get them at their boarding house?"

As she spoke there came a loud drumming on the front door.

The three women looked at one another. . . . That was Beau's knock!

"Talk about the angels and they're sure to appear," quoted Mrs. Jerome. "There are Beau and Mabel now." She turned to go to let them in.

"You get some of that money from them! Do you hear?" Millie shouted as she vanished.

"Hush!" Sally said pleadingly. "Don't get yourself excited, dear. Do lie down and take things easy. You look so hot, Millie. Don't you think I ought to have the doctor again?"

But Millie shook her head and slumped down in bed. "Just let me sleep. I'm all right," she said crossly, and Sally left her.

In the living room Beau and Mabel and Mrs. Jerome were all crowded at the front window looking down into the street.

Mabel turned at the sound of Sally's step on the carpet and seized her by her arms, dancing her around the room. "We've bought a car!" she squealed. "A car!—A roadster! Take a look-see!—Beau and Mabel have got a car of their own at last!"

She seemed to be beside herself with joy as she pranced around the cozy little room, waving her arms and kicking out with her slim silk-clad legs.

Mrs. Jerome looked at her with great disfavor. "I don't see what you're yelling about!" she said grimly. "It strikes me as a great piece of tom-foolishness! To buy a car when you don't own a single stick of furniture, and haven't nickel laid away in the bank for a rainy day!"

She went out to her own room and banged the door shut behind her.

IF YOU TWO ONLY KNEW HOW FUNNY YOU WERE WITH ALL THIS ABOUT LOVE!
BUT MARGY, NOISY AND I HAVEN'T SAID ANYTHING TO YOU ABOUT LOVE!
YOU HAVEN'T SAID ANYTHING BUT YOU BOTH HAVE BEEN DOING A LOT OF PANTOMIME!

"Well, my dear, it has ACtually got to the POINT where I could SNAP my COOKies every time I beHOLD the COUNtenances of these perVERted PIPsqueaks ARab and NOIsy, because I mean they are without DOUBT two of the most obNOXious youths I've ever KNOWN. Here they have been practicably HURLing TENder little SYMbols of their LOVE at me for WEEKS and yet not a WORD do I get OUT of them on what it's all aBOUT—can you BEAR it? I mean I, I were one of these old-FASHioned girls I would have DADdy asking them if their inTENtions were HON'rable or something, which I HONestly think would be SIMply SCREAMing because can you PICture their exPRESsion if DADdy should sort of SUDdenly deSCEND on them with some such reMARK? I mean they would PRACticably be ready to ROLL over and BUTter themselves with disMAY! Well, ANYway, you actually should have SEEN them when I casurally inFORMED them the other day how awfully FUNny they were at this point about trying MADly to imPRESS me with their PASsionate reGARD! I mean they were HONestly all hot and BOTHered because when I mentioned LOVE, Arab said they hadn't said a WORD about it and when I said, no, but they had both been doing a lot of PANtomime he sort of colLAPSED into NOIsy's ARMS with a luGUBrious GROAN—can you BEAR it, my dear?"

MRS. BAKER MAKES EXIT FROM TH E WORLD AND THE STORY CLOSES.

MARY drew back from Dicky's grasp with a frightened cry.

"Try to poison you?" she faltered. "What do you mean?"

"Why, I saw you," Dicky babbled. "You came stealing down that stairway from your room to your Auntie's and then out into the kitchenette, where I was watching. You took that pitcher of fruit juice out of the icebox and dropped something into it. You slammed the door in my face and bolted it—and——"

Hugh Grantland's voice interrupted him. "How long ago was this?"

"Not five minutes," he answered.

"Then Lee Chow was in time," Hugh said.

"What the devil does all this mean?" Dicky began. Lillian whirled on him.

"It means just this, my friend," she said. "You've put yourself beyond the pale of all self-respecting folks by this last performance."

"I know," Dicky groaned, sinking into a chair and putting his head in his hands. "It is unforgivable. I must have been mad."

"Let us hope so," Lillian said implacably. "We just rescued Mary from the 'capering cockroach' tonight. She has been at the cabaret since before midnight, so, of course, it is Mrs. Baker who tried to poison you and lay the blame on Madge."

"But why?" Dicky said.

"If she did," Lillian retorted grimly, "she'd have the best excuse in the world. But I think I'll have the answer in a minute or two. Ah, Katherine," as the little nurse in a hastily donned uniform appeared at the door, "I thought Hugh would summon you."

"Maj. Grantland said that I was to stay with Mary," she said. "Maj. Grantland wishes you three to come up stairs to the fourth floor."

Hugh Grantland met us at the top of the stairs.

"I would have spared you this if I could," he whispered, and then he led the way back to the fourth floor room where the woman we had known as Mrs. Baker had lived her lonely, evil-plotting existence.

But there was no stooped, gray-haired, spectacled, lame woman to be seen in that room now. Lee Chow stood watchfully just inside the door, and beneath a light was drawn up a tall, graceful figure with a face which still showed remnants of the wondrous beauty which had been hers.

"Good-evening, my very dear friends," she said. "It is quite a touching reunion, is it not? We're almost all here."

"Grace Draper!" Lillian Underwood ejaculated.

The strange woman turned her eyes on me.

"I think we're finally quits, little one," she said, and all the venom of the years of her strange, half-crazed enmity to me was in her voice. "Always before I've failed, thanks to the devoted gentleman at your side, who is only waiting for Dicky to croak or get tired of you to make you his own."

"Let her say what she pleases," said Lee Chow.

Grace Draper tossed him a mocking smile. "Thank you, oh, sapient Chink!" she gibed. "It took one of your race finally to block me. But, as I was saying, Madgie, dear, this is the time I hoist the flag of victory. No matter if you live with your dear spouse till your diamond wedding, you'll never forget that he believed you capable of plotting to murder him by poison."

She took a step forward, her eyes widened now with something more horrible than the madness I believed to be swaying her. Her hands went out toward Dicky, her eyes fixed themselves upon him.

"Adieu, Dicky!" she said, and her voice pealed through the room. "No, au revoir! You'll never be happy in your wife's brand of heaven. You'd better plan to come down to hell with me."

The last words ended in a twisted, gasping cry and she crashed forward and down into Dicky's arms. Hugh Grantland turned me toward the door and walked with me down the stairs. "What is it?" I whispered.

She took poison before she opened the door to my summons. She told Lee Chow what it was that she had taken and he assured me that she was as good as dead."

"I shan't leave you until this is over," Lillian assured me. "Thanks to Hugh's influence, we shall be able to keep you all out of it. He will say the truth, that he was on her trail as an escaped criminal—she was that, you know—and that she took poison when she saw the game was up. Look out, Mary!"

The girl was stumbling toward us.

"Oh, Auntie Madge!" she wailed. "What have I done? That woman is dead."

We got her to bed, but by the next morning she was seriously ill.

One afternoon after Mary's convalescence, Dicky came into the living room where I was sitting alone.

"I must know what you are going to do," he said abruptly. "I deserve nothing, less than nothing, I know. But—if you could only forgive——"

"Please, Dicky," I said, "I cannot bear to think of that time, much less to talk about it. If I did as I wished I would pick up my boy and run away where no one could ever find me. But I am going to go on in outward amity for Junior's sake. Are you?"

"God help me, yes," Dicky said. "I want to do whatever you wish."

But when he had gone I echoed his words. "God help us, indeed. We are deep in the quicksands. Will we ever get out of them?"

More Revelations of a Wife

Carrots and Tomatoes

This dish is all the way from New Zealand. Wash, pare and soak in cold water four large carrots. Then, cut them in strips, boil in fast boiling salted water, drain and cool. Fry the carrots in butter in a steel frying pan and when they begin to cook add a cupful of tomato puree. Season with salt, pepper, a little sugar, and cook gently until the carrots are tender. Then thicken with a little brown roux. Serve on fried toast sippets.

What's the Answer?

1. Who was the "good gray poet"?
2. What three Mexican generals are actively campaigning for the Mexican Presidential election to be held next year?
3. Why are nearly all plants green?
4. Why is yawning catching?
5. What is a grass widow?
6. What makes food mold?
7. Who is the United States Ambassador to France?
8. What does "Habeas Corpus" mean?
9. What is the boll-weevil?
10. What is a hall-mark?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. In Babylon there existed beside the decimal system of notation another system, the sexagesimal, which was counted in sixties. Because it was more convenient, they reckoned time in sixties, and the habit has come down to us since then, so that we still have sixty minutes in the hour.
2. The chemical from which moth balls are made is one of the substances which can evaporate directly from the solid state, without having to pass through a liquid one, so when moth balls get smaller they evaporate.
3. It is said that our word "Yankee" comes from "Yengees," the word which the Indians used in their attempt to say "English."
4. Doldrums is a sailor's term for the tropical zones of calms and variable winds.
5. General Allenby captured Jerusalem in December, 1917.
6. The Ear of Dionysius was a famous cavern near Neapolis, in which the slightest whisper was audible at a great distance.
7. The waves in the ocean are caused by the wind. It blows over the water and raises ripples on it, which becomes waves.
8. In electricity, the stream of electrons moves continually in one direction over a wire in direct current. In alternating current it moves first in one direction, then in the other. In the kind of alternating current generally used, the direction of the electron stream is reversed sixty times a second.
9. The English Opium-Eater was Thomas De Quincey, author of the famous "Confessions."
10. Fiddler's Green is the Elysium of sailors; a land flowing with rum and lime-juice; a land of perpetual music, mirth, dancing, drinking, and tobacco.

Motherhood Made Easier

Doctor's Discovery Relieves Much Unnecessary Suffering

THOUSANDS of women, for over three generations, have praised Mother's Friend for its wonderful help during expectancy and at child-birth.

"I will tell all my friends about Mother's Friend," writes Mrs. Ben Abraham, Princeton, Ill. "It is a wonderful help all through the period."

Mother's Friend relieves the tension on muscles and tissues as month follows month. Finally, it makes child-birth a joy!

You owe it to yourself to give Mother's Friend a trial. Start tonight—the sooner the better and write for free booklet on "Things to' Know Before Baby Comes" (sent in plain envelope). • Mother's Friend is sold by all drug stores. Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 23, Atlanta, Ga.

What is this "YELLOW MASK"?

Will you make this simple test to discard it?

Look at your teeth. Have they a yellowish tinge—appear stained? That is "Yellow Mask."

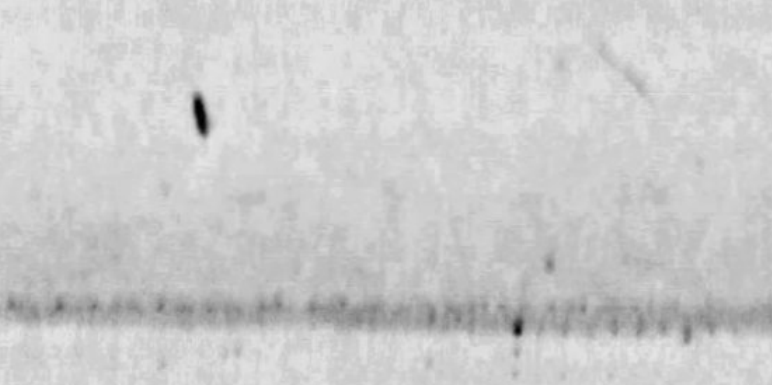
So unsuccessful have you been in your attempts to remove it that, like others, you have come to believe that yellowish hue is in the enamel—irremovable!

But the truth is you have teeth white as glistening ivory. That ugly, yellowish hue hides in a glassy mask that envelopes the teeth. This mask is known as Calculus. A "liquid cement" in your saliva forms it. Acts like a glue—first sticky, then hard. Ordinary dentifrices usually gloss right over it.

But now dental science can give you those lovely, pearly teeth—often in a few brushings! For it has finally succeeded in incorporating in a tasty, pleasant tooth paste the one substance that positively removes this mask—"Tri-Calcium Phosphate." This magic substance is what your dentist uses to clean teeth. And you know what beauty miracles he works with it!

The name of this new and finer tooth paste is ORPHOS. It cannot harm the softest enamel. Dentists everywhere are recommending it—especially for teeth difficult to whiten. Buy a tube from your druggist or mail coupon below for a 20-Time Tube FREE. Convince yourself that teeth loveliness can now be yours too.

LOOK FOR THIS! Note the "brush cling" when you use ORPHOS—also the utter absence of that nauseating foam.



The Tri-Calcium Phosphate Does It!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

ON LOVE—AND OTHER TRIFLES

Alas, no girl knows the thrill of being "kissed unexpectedly" these days.

The two qualities essential to every friendship are loyalty and perfect understanding. Add TENDERNESS, and you have love.

* * *

Before marriage a lover says, "Darling, what can I DO to make you happy?" After marriage he says, "Well, NOW, what is it you want?"

HELEN ROWLAND

The first sign of love, in a man, is his willingness to quarrel with you. As long as he is flatteringly agreeable and polite, he may not be serious—but where there's strife, there's hope!

* * *

In love, says a psychologist, all women are looking for somebody to LEAN on. But dear me, the busy business girl who earns more money than her husband and can strap a trunk better than her brother must have to lean over a long way to reach her "sturdy oak."

* * *

When a man has to begin "explaining" things and "promising" things in order to keep the peace, the naked truth blushes and starts putting on a lot of frills.

* * *

When a man shows a desire to nail a woman to a pedestal and leave her there while he trots off for a little excursion along the downward path, it's a sign he loves her. "You stay there till-I-come-back," he says in effect. Boys will be boys—but girls must be good champions.

* * *

Ah, yes, Clarissa, all men keep the breakfast waiting, just on principle, if for nothing else—or perhaps to show their authority.

Oh, who'd have a heart for love or laughter,
If we counted the cost and reckoned the score
And always thought of "the morning after"
In the midst of the glorious "night before"?

ELINOR GLYN tells the TRUTH about

A Lady

A MAN wrote to me the other day to ask, since I had given the definition of a "gentleman," what was the definition of "a lady." He gave an instance of a person in his town who proclaimed herself "a lady" on every occasion, but by her actions, conversation and appearance was not at all what he imagined I would depict as a model.

ELINOR GLYN

To begin with, anyone who has to tell others that she is a lady proclaims herself not to be one at once. For the brand of gentility is so strong that it "jumps to the eyes." A lame man has no need to tell people he is a cripple—they can see it. A lady has no need to advertise that she is one—everyone can see it. It is the shams who do all the shouting. A lady is a person whose subconscious reactions are refined, honorable and courteous. You can act anything for reasons of self-preservation, advancement, ambition or greed, but if the thing is not real, the moment anything unbalances you so that you are off your guard and your actions are no longer controlled by will, the truth of your nature and your breeding will emerge—so that those who are not "ladies" under these circumstances will show rudeness, coarseness, meanness, vulgarity.

A lady is generally produced by hundreds of years of ancestors tutored in certain ideals of behavior and points of view, but she can equally well demonstrate her claim to the title by having a fine character, with a strong will, which from her earliest memories has kept her faults in check and schooled her own actions into her ideal of gentility. It is all in our own hands. Its outward mark lies in consideration for others, tranquility, poise, beautiful manners, great self-respect, a modulated voice, modesty and a sense of the fitness of things. And above all, restraint! Noisy, boastful, self-indulgent vulgarians with no sense of values cannot be "ladies" even if they should have been born the daughters of millionaires—or kings!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Friday, September 9.

This is one of the threatening days in planetary government, according to astrology, which finds adverse aspects dominant.

While this configuration prevails it is well to keep quiet and to avoid all sorts of risks.

Under this sway it is supposed to be easy to make mad investments and to turn attention to losing business interests.

While the seers prophesy for the coming months sound business, they warn against speculation and counsel thrift.

Great waste of public funds is to be revealed in more than one state and there will be much public resentment regarding taxes, if the stars are rightly read.

Serious contests between labor and capital will take place, but they will be quiet conflicts of brains.

While there may be a few strikes astrologers foretell new methods of settling difficulties in various lines of industry.

Again co-operation is subject to much encouragement and likely to be more popular than ever before.

With the rapid disappearance of old traditions and old policies in the world, there will be a final sweep of famous persons from the arena of life.

Women who have mastered the secrets of beauty now will turn attention to artistic development, it is foretold.

A period of tremendous intellectual evolution is already begun, it is said, and it will make rapid progress.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a disturbed year, it is foretold, and they should be careful in all business affairs.

Children born on this day may be stubborn, determined and hard to direct. Many mechanical geniuses are born under this sign.

Milady Beautiful

By LOIS LEEDS

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

DEAR MISS LEEDS—I have become disheartened over my complexion. My nose is very red and shiny and under this shiny layer of skin are blackheads. When I powder, my skin seems to be cut into squares. Would impaired digestion and decayed teeth cause this trouble? I am a girl 17 years old, 5 feet 4½ inches tall and I weigh 124 pounds. To overcome my indigestion I have been cutting down my diet and I have lost 10 pounds by so doing; is this harmful?

MARY W.

Answer—The decaying teeth are probably at the root of your beauty problem since they cause indigestion which, in turn, causes the red nose and poor condition of your complexion. You also need to apply the correct external treatments to soften and refine the skin. First of all have the teeth attended to, however. The weight you have given is ideal for your age and height; do not lose any more pounds. Be careful to eat some fresh fruit, raw vegetables and cooked vegetables every day. Drink about five glassfuls of water daily be[illegible] meals. Exercise out-of-[illegible]very day. At bedtime re[illegible]r make-up with cold [illegible] then give your face a good washing with pure Castile soap and warm water, using a complexion brush to work up a thick lather. Rinse in warm water, press out the ripe blackheads and rinse again in cold water. After drying the skin put on a little of the following acne salve and leave it on overnight. One-quarter dram ichthyol, ½ dram zinc oxide, 1 dram starch, 1½ drams petrolatum. Use this salve three times a week. Next morning wash your face in cold water, dry and pat on a soothing lotion before you apply powder. Equal parts of glycerin, rosewater and witch hazel make a suitable lotion.

LOIS LEEDS.

Large, Outstanding Ears.

Dear Miss Leeds—I am troubled with large, unsightly ears. Is there any way to correct this trouble?

D. G. B.

Answer—Ears cannot very well be made any smaller, but if they stand out too far from your head they may be made to lie flatter. A plastic surgeon may be able to help you by performing a simple operation behind the ear so that they may be brought closer to your head. Parents should notice and correct outstanding ears in childhood when they may be trained easily.

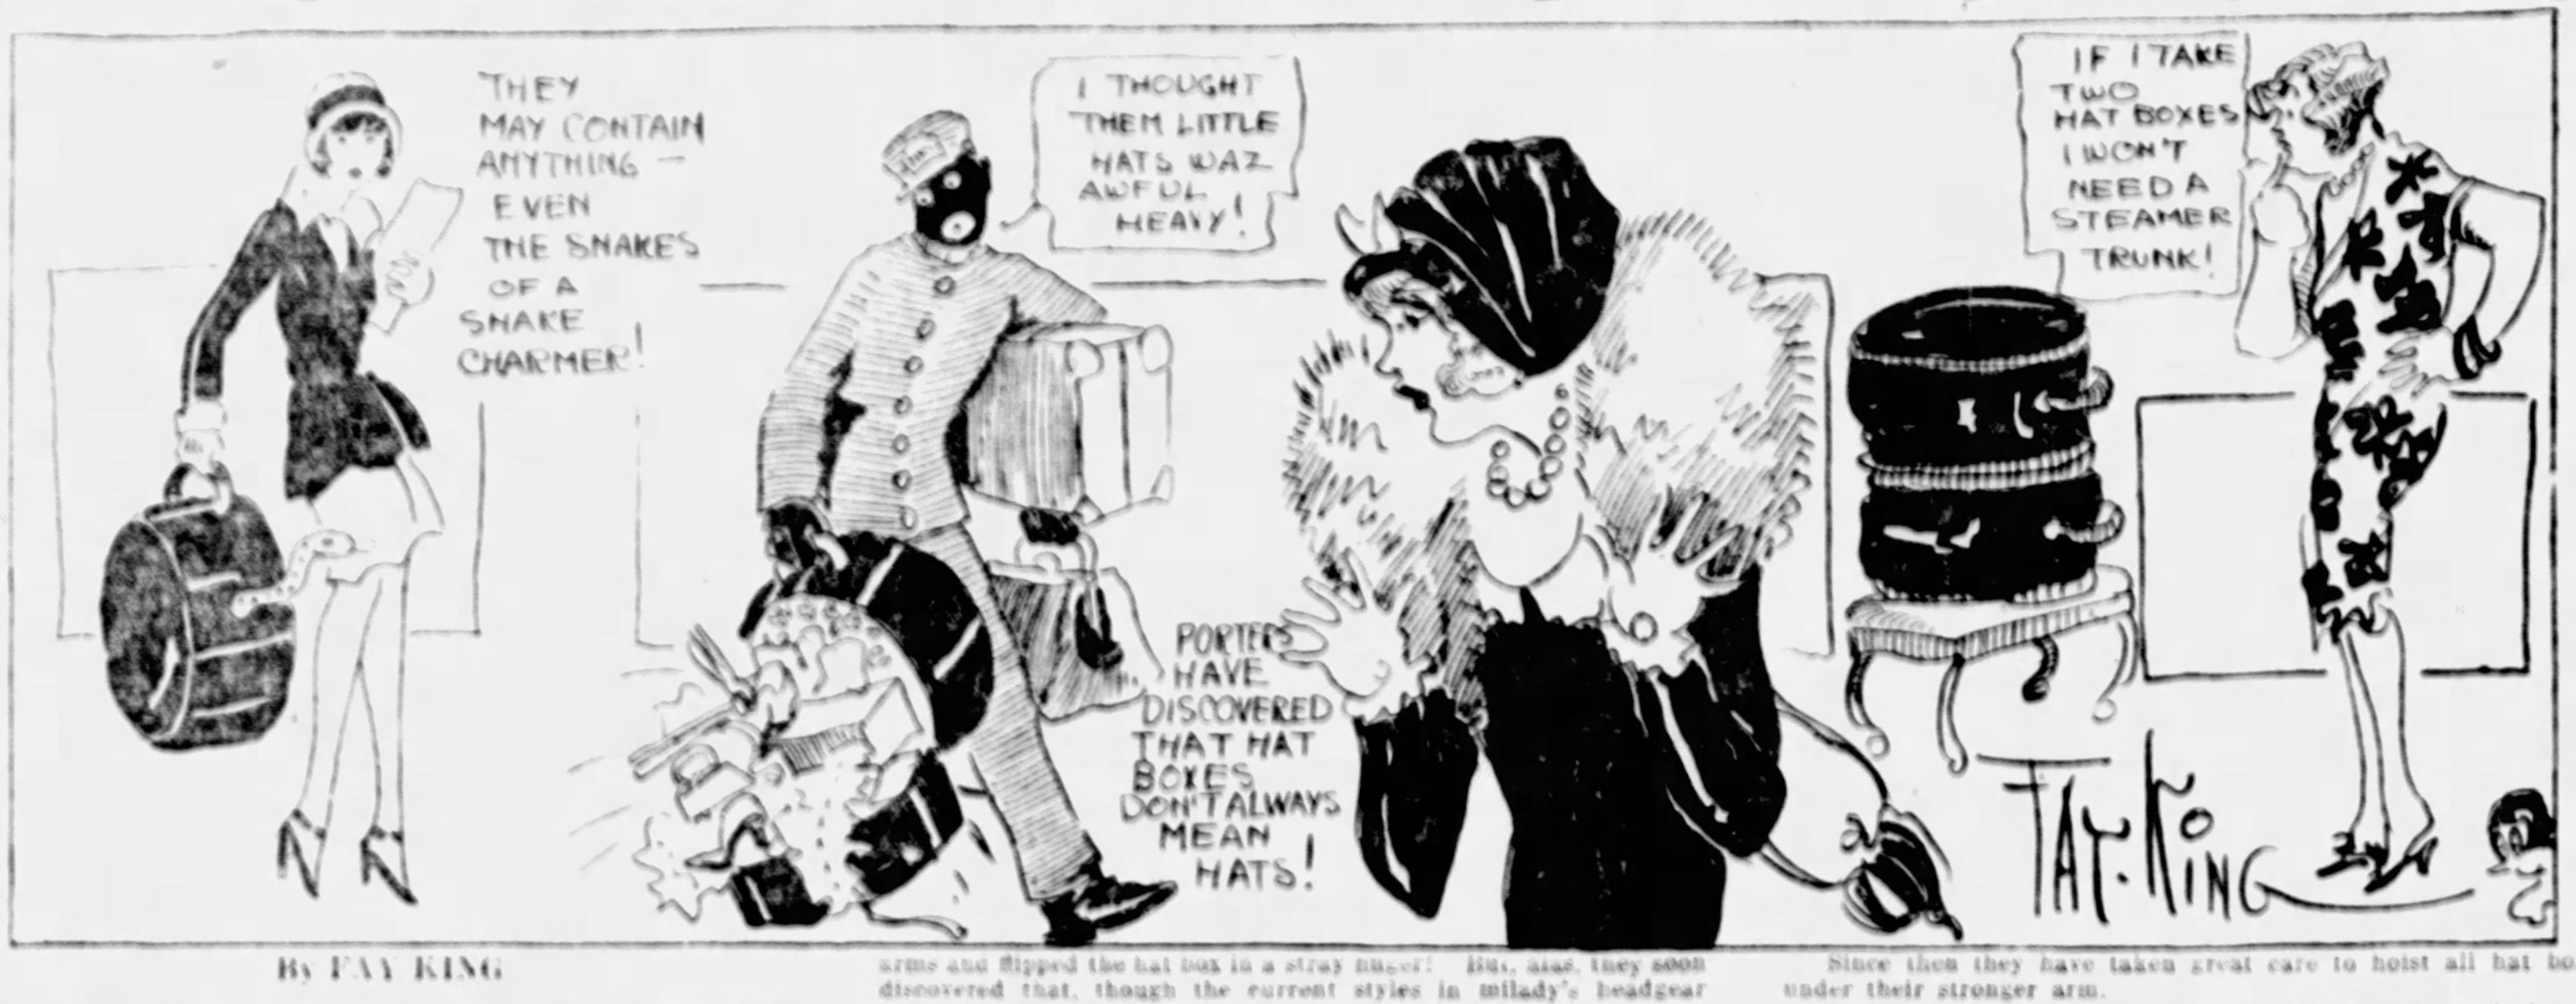
Milady's Hat-Box Secret Exposed by Fay King



THEY MAY CONTAIN ANYTHING — EVEN THE SNAKES OF A SNAKE CHARMER!
I THOUGHT THEM LITTLE HATS WAZ AWFUL HEAVY!
PORTERS HAVE DISCOVERED THAT HAT BOXES DON'T ALWAYS MEAN HATS!
IF I TAKE TWO HAT BOXES I WON'T NEED A STEAMER TRUNK!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

WHEN you overhear a lady say that she can "keep it under her hat," don't be deceived that she is referring to a secret or a bit of scandal!

She means it literally—though she may be eyeing an electric stove or a flatiron when she makes that remark!

She is probably going to make a trip and she is accumulating the things she wishes to pack into her hat box!

Was a time when they hoisted suitcases and grips under their arms and flipped the hat box in a stray finger! But, alas, they soon discovered that, though the current styles in milady's headgear seemed to be only a strip of felt and no feathers, the headgear in the hat box seemed to weigh enough to be trimmed with lead!

Then, luckily, one hat box flew open and spread the contents on the stone floor of the station. It made a thud that brought the bomb squad rushing to the scene!

The head porter had the presence of mind to blow his whistle and bring all the red caps running so they could profit by reviewing all that the hat box contained!

Since then they have taken great care to hoist all hat boxes under their stronger arm.

It seems that the hat box is taking the place of wardrobe and steamer trunks. In fact, milady's wardrobe is of so little consequence and weight these days that besides what she wears she had ample room in her hat box for her raincoat, folding umbrella, her arctic shoes and a pet pup or two.

So when you see a shy young creature sitting helpless beside her hat box, don't rush to her assistance unless you are a Sandow or a Samson.

Folks are writing us these days!

Gentlemen:—

A word of appreciation for your Lucky Strike cigarettes.

On May 29th last, I was operated upon for gastric ulcer and appendicitis. The day after I wanted a smoke real badly and asked my doctor. He advised strongly against it stating that even a slight cough would "rip me open" and cause additional pain, and if you've had the experience you know that to be so. However, I had a package of "Luckies" in my coat pocket and persuaded my nurse to get them. She did and I smoked eight that day. To make it short I smoked all the two weeks at the hospital with nary a cough or throat irritation or the least discomfort, and by the way, smoking was prohibited at the hospital but nurse kept my door closed and window open so I enjoyed my smokes to the full extent.

I am just a school teacher in a small town and not setting a good example to my pupils because I smoke, I suppose, but there is certainly "pep" in Lucky Strikes.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. McPherson

Picturization of Gaston Leroux Stage Play to Introduce Rival To Bull Montana, Film Gorilla

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 8.

BULL MONTANA who boasts that he is the official monkey, gorilla or what have you, in the movies, has a rival. George Kotsonaros, champion wrestler and also an erstwhile sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, will play an African gorilla in "Baloo" about to be filmed by the Fox Company. And the Fox Company makes no secret that "Baloo" is somewhat of an experiment in that it is a mystery story with a Sherlock Holmes angle, based on Gaston Leroux's well-known stage play.

This type of motion picture plot is always more or less difficult to screen. Yet Edmund Lowe, who played a French scientist interested in the theory of evolution, is so carried away by the Leroux play that he has cut short his vacation to return to Hollywood to discuss possibilities with Richard Rosson, the director.

Edmund Lowe and his wife, Lilyan Tashman, by the by, have gone in somewhat strongly this past year for society. I might say they have been accepted by the polo playing crowd of Santa Barbara, Del Monte and other California resorts. They were vacationing at Del Monte when word came that "Baloo" had been chosen as Mr. Lowe's next starring vehicle. June Collyer draws the leading feminine role. Yes, she is a newcomer, at least one who is yet to make her name in the movies.

Musical Shows Remain; Veterans to Attend Play as Guests

Announcement comes from the Alvin that Clark and McCullough will be held over another week in "The Ramblers." This extension, which is for one week only, begins next Monday evening. Seats are on sale.

On the Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week is a presentation of song, dance and music with Count Berni Vici and his Symphonic Girls, featuring Louise Mele. The screen feature will be "Smile, Brother, Smile," with Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall.

The headline attraction of vaudeville in the Harris next week will be an elaborate act called "Cuckoo," in which 16 people take part and which exemplifies every phase of vaudeville. On the screen will be Buck Jones in "Chain Lightning."

The seat sale for the second and last week of George White's new musical comedy, "Manhattan Mary," starring Ed Wynn and featuring Elizabeth Hines, will open today in the box office of the Nixon.

A theater party has been arranged for disabled veterans from The Marine Hospital at the Tuesday matinee performance of "The Show-off," next week's offering of the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt.

"Let's Go" will introduce in the Gayety next week "Eve of Today," "The Slave Mart" and "Gate of Roses." Bebe Almond and the comics, Eddie Hall, Johnny O'Donnell and John K. Rader, are principals. The show announces 32 chorus girls.

Among the featured vaudeville acts in the Sheridan Square Theater the first half of next week will be the O'Dunn and Day Revue. The screen feature will be May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel in "Slightly Used."

Waring's Pennsylvanians have been booked as the stage attraction in the Grand next week. Fred and Tom Waring and their 16 artists will bring new musical novelties, songs and stage settings. "Chang" will be on the screen.

A hilarious comedy drama of youth and love, "Slightly Used," with May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, will be shown in the Olympic next week. On the Vitaphone Weber and Fields will offer an original dialogue.

MUSIC AND CABARET KLEMAN INN FEATURES

Kleman Inn, East End, is taxing its facilities to supply the wants of the nightly gatherings of merry-makers. Dinners are served daily, Sundays and holidays, at 5 o'clock. An orchestra supplies music of the popular variety and 9:30 sees the beginning of the cabaret entertainment.

WEBSTER HALL PLANS COLLEGE NIGHT DANCE

The first collegiate night dance in Webster Hall Hotel will be held Friday night in the Georgian room and in the Spanish garden. Dewey Bergman and his Webster Hall Orchestra, who opened the fall dancing season in the hotel on Labor Day, are to play dance music, which will be broadcast over KDKA from the hotel.

The moonlight dancing, which was so popular last season, will again prevail in the Georgian room. Those who prefer to dance in the open air may do so in the Spanish garden, adjacent to the Georgian room.

Scenes Shot -:- Has Spy Role -:- Goes to Ranch -:- Juvenile Lead

RALPH FORBES is a member of the company now engaged in filming "Rose Marie," for which exterior scenes were shot at one of California's beautiful lakes.

JETTA GOUDAL plays the part of a spy in "The Forbidden Woman," a photoplay now being made in the DeMille studios in Hollywood. Jetta you will notice, has all the mysterious look of a woman of such type.

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN is working on a ranch. She's employed as an actress, however, and is engaged in playing in the photoplay "Wyoming," in which she will be associated with William Fairbanks.

RICHARD ARLEN and Mary Brian have the juvenile leads in "Side Show," first starring vehicle for a new comedy team, Chester Conklin and W. C. Fields, who are awaiting the completion of the story.

PITT GRIDDERS BEGIN HARD GRIND

CAMP HAMILTON, Windber, Pa., Sept. 8.—It may have been fun the first couple of days but it's real work from now on at Camp Hamilton, where another good Pitt football team is assuredly in the process of construction.

The tackling dummy was brought out for the first time yesterday, and when the dummy appears, it means hours of vicious tackling in the hot sun. And then, Coach Jock Sutherland is about convinced that his men men are ready for scrimmage and the rough work will start tomorrow afternoon.

The Panther squad is whipping into shape quickly. The conditioning work prescribed by Sutherland and his staff has trimmed off surplus flesh, and the food prepared by Chef Alex Williams has supplanted the avoirdupois with tough tissue.

Today Sutherland will have his squad work on the charging sled and the tackling dummy. Plays which have been given to the players will be polished off in preparation for the scrimmages tomorrow and Saturday.

SOCCER

by TOM BIRKS

WITH the International league all ready to go, the loop will swing into action Sunday with a couple of games. The sponsors of the league are still hoping that a sixth club will fall into line.

Just why a number of clubs and players decide to rough it up in exhibition games is beyond the writer. What anyone expects to get out of it is a matter of opinion, but the thing does not look good with the leagues swinging into action on Saturday.

There is a possibility of one of the star and youngest backs in the district getting a try out with one of the best professional clubs down east in the near future. The boy in question is just a diamond in the rough. At least two of the leading critics in the district feel he would make the grade.

The Scottish Clan League organized last evening and will open its season September 21. The clan organization will be connected with the American, District and International leagues, with Harry Fairfield as the guiding spirit.

World To "See" Title Fight By Radio

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(AP.)—Tex Rickard announced today that "the most extensive world-wide broadcast ever attempted" has been arranged for the Tunney-Dempsey fight here September 22.

The National Broadcasting Company has been granted the exclusive right to broadcast the fight to the outside world, Rickard said. Contracts were signed some time ago, the promoter added, but announcement was withheld pending the working out of details here.

Under the agreement with the Illinois Boxing Commission by which the fight was brought to Chicago, permission to broadcast the event was granted to some Chicago stations, but the National Broadcasting Company is to control the chain broadcast.

"Interest in the fight is keen in Europe, Central and South America and Australia," Rickard said. "The new short wave system will be used to send Graham McNamee's ringside description to foreign countries. Of course the great difference in time will be an important factor, as it will probably be between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning in Europe, and when we cross the international date line in the Pacific, McNamee will be talking into the next day."

Rickard said that M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, had reported the following stations as having arranged for the fight, with the list still incomplete:

WEAF and WJZ, New York; WEEI and WEZ, Boston; WBZA, Springfield, Mass.; WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; WJAR, Providence, R. I.; WHAM, Rochester, N. Y.; WTAG, Worcester, Mass.; WCSH, Portland, Me.; WFI, Philadelphia; WBAL, Baltimore; WRC, Washington; WGY, Schenectady, N. GREENSBURG HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDER UNDER KNIFE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—John Shaffer, a leading candidate for halfback on the Greensburg High School eleven this season, is a patient in the Westmoreland Hospital here, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday. Shaffer was a member of the South Greensburg Junior High School eleven last season and this year, his first in high school, he was making a strong bid for a regular berth in the backfield. He expects to rejoin the squad late in the season.

Comorosky To Relieve Barnhart in Left Field Against Phillies Tomorrow

Eager to give Outfielder Clyde Barnhart an opportunity to rest his injured leg, Manager Donie Bush of the Pittsburgh Pirates plans to send Adam Comorosky, his new outfielder, recently recalled from Wichita Falls, to leftfield in the opening game of a four-game series with the Philadelphia Quakers at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon.

Barnhart has been troubled with an injured leg for some time. Several months ago Pooch contracted a charley-horse which has responded slowly to treatment. Should Manager Bush go through with his plans to use Comorosky instead of Barnhart, the youngster will bat second.

Vic Aldridge, veteran righthander of the Pirates, has been chosen to face the Phils in the first game of the series which opens at Forbes Field to morrow afternoon, while Fred Ulrich, likewise a righthander, is expected to ascend the mound for the Quakers.

Lloyd Waner, who was out of the lineup in the second game of the Labor Day program with the Reds at Forbes Field, because of an injrued finger on his throwing hand, will be back in centerfield tomorrow, Mnaager Bush announced this afternoon.

The open date on the Pirate schedule today was welcomed by the National League leaders as it affords them a chance to rest up before tackling the Eastern clubs for the last time this season.

As the Giants are not scheduled today, there is no chance of the Pirates losing first place, despite the fact that their hold on the top rung is only a half game.

While the Pirates are tackling the Phillies in four games, starting tomorrow, the Giants will have their hands full with the Cubs in a similar series. The Cubs have not abandoned their hopes for the pennant and are expected to make things quite interesting for McGraw's pennant contenders.

BUCS ENJOY DAY OF REST

Davis Cup Play Is On

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

As far as the home field is concerned, the Pirates have reached the point where the West has ended and the East begins. Yesterday's game with the Reds marked the conclusion of the year's competition here with the clubs of the sunset division of the National League, and from now on all the battling at Forbes Field will be against the teams of the seaboard.

The Cubs, the Reds and the Cardinals have been seen here for the last time this year, and the 18 games that remain on the schedule for the Buccaneers' own lot will be against the four Eastern outfits. Three contests are to be played with Philadelphia, six with Boston, five with Brooklyn and four with New York in the order named, and then the Corsairs will go West to finish the season on the road with four games in Chicago and three in Cincinnati. From this it will be seen that of the remaining 25 events on Pittsburgh's slate only eight are booked with first division teams against 17 with the supposedly weaker outfits of the second flight.

Though the loss of the Western home finale to the Reds yesterday whittled the Rovers' margin of pennant leadership to a mere half game over the idle Giants, the outlook for a fattening of that meager advantage during the approaching days is rather encouraging, in view of the fact that while the Bucs are crossing bats with the Phillies for three games and the Braves for six, the Giants will be playing four games in Chicago and seven in St. Louis.

True, the Phils and Braves have made quite a lot of trouble for the locals, but the greater part of that trouble has been experienced away from home.

Besides, the records as a whole show that the Bushmen, who are now to play 18 games with the Eastern clubs, have done far better against these teams in their meetings with them at Forbes Field than they have done against the Western nines here. In the 33 games here against Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, the Freebooters won 19 games and lost 14. That's a percentage of only .576. In 30 games that have been played here against the four Eastern clubs, on the other hand, the Picaroons have won 19 and lost 11, which spells the much higher percentage of .633. If they can keep up that gain in the home stand against the East starting tomorrow there will be plenty of ground for hope. So keep rooting.

As one means of measuring the relative chances of the four clubs in the sultry race for the National League gonfalon, the games yet to be played by those teams are appended:

Pittsburgh—Three with Philadelphia, six with Boston, five with Brooklyn, four with New York, four with Chicago and three with Cincinnati. Total, 25.

New York—Four with Chicago, seven with St. Louis, five with Cincinnati, four with Pittsburgh, four with Philadelphia and two with Brooklyn. Total, 26.

St. Louis—Three with Chicago, six with Brooklyn, seven with New York, five with Philadelphia, five with Boston and three with Cincinnati. Total, 29.

Chicago—Three with St. Louis, four with New York, three with Brooklyn, five with Boston, three with Philadelphia and four with Pittsburgh. Total, 22.

Naturally, you would surmise that pitching in the major leagues is much more difficult than in the minors. There are better batters to be faced, and there is no question that a hurler must have far better control, for whereas in the sticks a clever hurler can fool the flailsmen more easily, as many of them will strike at bad balls, in the big show you've got to keep the ball over the plate and still keep your opponents from hitting safely.

That's where better control is necessary. The big leaguers will not strike at bad ones. Nor does control mean merely putting the ball over the plate. It means the ability to keep it high or low, or inside or outside, according to the strong points and weaknesses of the opposing batsmen to put it where it will not be called a ball, but where the batsman will not be able to meet it fairly.

Putting the ball squarely over the plate is not what control means in the big leagues. On the contrary, that is "putting it in the groove" and inviting disaster. Jock Menefee, now of Monessen, who was for many years one of the smartest pitchers in the National League, once said a mouthful about the big league pitching art by remarking: "When a real pitcher

THE SWIVEL KICK

Explaining the theory of the swivel kick, Miss Saxon says:

"If a football player, with his strength, were to adopt my swivel kick, with its unbounded force, he should be able to greatly lengthen the distance he gets on his punts and drop and place kicks. Applied science, pivoting and proper timing, which may be acquired through studious practice, are all the essentials necessary to master it."

Who can tell but that Carnegie may win some of its big games this fall through the tip of the fetching little dancer?

TRY IT IN YOUR OWN BACK YARD

Speaking of high kickers, how do these two appeal to you? Picture shows Marie Saxon, actress and dancer, demonstrating something entirely new in the booting line to Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's premier pigskin punisher, as Coach Walter P. Steffen of the Skibos halted practice in the Tech bowl yesterday for the exhibition. Miss Saxon developed the kick herself on the stage and doesn't see why it cannot be successfully applied in football. Notice how far in the direction of the sky the little blonde stepper is outkicking the gridiron star, and she is doing it from a standing position, whereas Harpster started from several paces back and to his left and got a running start. Coach Steffen and Capt. Purl Anderson and the other players all admitted Miss Saxon had shown them something novel and interesting in the way of kicking form that might be utilized to advantage if the ever-vigilant rules committee does not restrict its use at its next meeting, and bade the dancer an appreciative farewell as she left the field for a stage rehearsal. Miss Saxon calls her stunt the swivel kick.

TAD'S TIDBITS

At Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, Paulino Uzcudun and Tom Heeney meet in a return match, which is set at 15 rounds. This pair met some months ago at the Garden and Upsidedown was given the decision over Heeney. It was one of the most unpopular decisions handed out in months, and not only the fans but the boxing writers at the ringside howled about it.

Some of the writers declared that Heeney would have stopped the Spaniard in five more rounds. Paulino went on his way just the same and of late has been clicking regularly. There is no doubt about it, the woodchopper from the land of sherry and castanets has made a hit, and some say that if we had 25-round or finish fights he'd be champion of the world.

Well, here is the chance for Tom Heeney, the Irishman from the Land of the Kangaroo. If he beats Upsidedown he's made. It will be a popular win and he will step right into "important money."

Charley Harvey, who looks after Heeney, is certain that Tom will cop. Heeney can have no excuses. He is right in top form, has edged the Spaniard once more and has everything set before him for a spread.

Professor, cut the cards!

What Was the Greatest Ball Team?

John B. Sheridan, veteran baseball scribe of St. Louis, steps out with some chatter regarding the greatest ball team. John ought to have a few ideas of his own, as he's been watching them since Old Dog Tray was a pup. He writes:

"Read recently where some one, I believe it was Wilbert Robinson, picked the Yankees of 1927 as the greatest ball team of all time. McGraw was quoted as saying that the Orioles of 1894-1898 were the greatest team of all time. Irving Vaughan spoke of the Cubs of 1907-1909, the Athletics of 1913, the White Sox, 1919. Fair enough. I'd add the Boston Nationals of 1898, the Brooklyn Nationals, 1900-1902; the Giants of 1905.

"All in all, I believe that the Cubs of 1907-09 were the greatest ball team ever. Three great World Series pitchers, two good ordinary pitchers, two great catchers, three great outfielders, at least three great infielders, and lots of reserve. Then the Cubs had sense, weight, balance, mental as well as physical. Frank Chance, manager, had a lot of horse sense, useful in a ball game. Chance won three pennants from McGraw and Clarke, and I believe two World Series. Remember, too, that Chance had Pat Moran as assistant. How good a manager was Pat Moran? Yea, lots of talent in that old Cub machine. About four good pinch-hitters. Chance was about the best pinch-hitter I ever saw, except, perhaps, Anson. Schulte, Tinker, Steinfeldt, Sheckard, all could come through in the pinch.

"The truly greatest teams I have ever seen were, I believe:

"1. Chance's Cubs; 2. Carrigan's Red Sox, 1912-16; 3. Mack's Athletics, 1910-13; 4. Hanlon's Superbas, 1900; 5. Selee's Bostons, 1898. Which means, by gosh, that I have not seen a truly great ball team since 1916.

"Time I was seeing one."

Wall Street Makes Pirates Favorites

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP.)—Interest in the National League pennant race in New York has reached a point where followers who back their opinions with money have given the field a final survey. Pittsburgh has been established as the favorite on Wall street, probably because of the fact that it has a schedule advantage in meeting more second division teams than any of its three first-division competitors.

Against the contenders odds have been established as follows:

Pittsburgh, 9 to 5; New York, 11 to 5; St. Louis, 5 to 2; Chicago, 3½ to 1.

Odds of 2 to 1 have been set that Babe Ruth does not surpass his record home-run year, 1921, when he hit for the circuit 59 times; that Lou Gehrig does not surpass the 1921 mark there are odds of 13 to 5. Even money prevails that neither slugger passes the record mark.

The first wager on the Dempsey-Tunney fight was made at odds of 7 to 5 on Tunney.

DUKES BOAST SIX TEAMS

Mass athletics, long in vogue at Notre Dame, were introduced at Duquesne yesterday by Coach Layden, when he put six full grid elevens through various drills. Signal and skull drill was on the program in the morning, and scrimmage was in order in the afternoon. The linemen are receiving special attention today.

REDS' WIN CUTS LEAD TO HALF GAME

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The league-leading Pirates meandered around Pittsburgh today after the fashion of a fellow who is all caught up on his work for a spell. This afternoon is open on the Buccos' card, and while the off day is deeply appreciated the bushwhackers carried a real peeve as a result of the happenings of yesterday in the Oakland Orchard. Moreover, the idle Giants crept to within one-half a game of the top.

The Reds' victory in their last appearance of the season in Pittsburgh was begrudged by every man on the squad. The box score shows that each team made eight hits, but the scorebooks show that eight sizzling smashes with basehits tickets were converted into putouts by Messrs. Dressen, Ford, Allen and Pipp. The climax came when Ethan Allen, named after a Revolutionary War hero, braved the concrete wall of right field as he took a three-bagger off Joe Harris by a remarkable one-hand catch. Allen had no real excuse for making a capture other than the actions of a courageous player. The circus catch threw the Pirates into defeat; they could have survived the other bad breaks had this ball got away.

BUCKS WOBBLE AFIELD

On the other hand, the Oaklanders gave one of the "dopiest" exhibitions of the season on defense. Haste should be taken, however, to absolve Joe Harris from any blame on the error charged to the veteran. Joe had turned in a thrilling catch of a throw by Wright and had actually made the putout at the bag when Rube Bressler, who hit the ball, struck Joe with such force that the first-sacker was temporarily stopped. In the excitement, the ball fell out of Joe's hand, and Umpire Quigley would not allow the putout under the momentary hold rule.

But there was other loose play that cannot be condoned. Earl Smith made a hectic throw to second that proved costly, while Clyde Barnhart had a bad day in left field. To further upset matters, Bunker Hill, working like one who may be overdone, gave his worst exhibition in many moons. Carmen was not solved for a plentitude of hits, but his control was off and he was generally ineffective.

Chuck Dressen dropped two doubles into Barnhart's territory that smeared the Buccos for the day. One double was a real blow, although Barnhart appeared to have trouble in getting to the drive. The other hit was a fluke fly to short left that came with Barnhart playing a deep field, probably too deep. A cluster of tallies was made on these hits.

WRIGHT AND HARRIS STAR

Glenn Wright and Joe Harris, with prodigious smashes, tried to put the Pirates in the game near the close, and the Waner boys also were lively athletes during the afternoon. Wright whacked a homer into the right field stands, while Harris tripled in the ninth with one out. Joe scored on Smith's long fly, but Red Lucas, who started and finished for the Rhinelanders, took care of Pinch-hitter Brickell. Lloyd Waner's bad finger was so much improved that he went back to center field.

The clash between the Cubs and Cards is the only contest on the National League card for today. All the Eastern teams are traveling westward and there will be a grand opening in this section of the circuit tomorrow. The Phillies will be the foes of the Pirates.

Lloyd Waner Bids Fair To Set Two New Hitting Marks

By Associated Press.

Lloyd Waner, member of the Pirate baseball firm of Waner and Waner, bids fair to smash two records in his first year in the big league.

Baseball statisticians today recorded that the scintillating Pirate outfielder has banged 158 singles out of a total of 179 hits. John Tobin of the Boston Red Sox holds the modern record for one-base hits, 179, made in 1921. The old record, 199, was established 30 years ago by Wee Willie Keeler, Baltimore Oriole star.

Lloyd is striving to collect 200 hits this season, thus becoming the only player in present day baseball to attain that mark in his first year in the major leagues.

NEW BUC CATCHER

RALSTON HEMSLEY

The young Pirate pictured above blew into Forbes Field yesterday from Frederick, Md., where he starred behind the bat and in other ways for the Frederick club of the Blue Ridge League. Carleton Molesworth of the official Pirate family saw Hemsley in action and liked his style. The lad will be farmed out next year, it is presumed, but Moley thinks he is headed for a major league berth. Donie Bush, Oil Smith, Johnny Gooch and other veterans liked the actions of the lad as he went through his sprouts yesterday.

BIG AND LITTLE BILLS IN UNITED STAND

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—(AP.)—Seven years ago Big Bill Tilden, then 27 years old and American tennis champion for the first time, joined his California rival, 25-year-old Little Bill Johnston, in a tennis crusade that brought the classic Davis cup back to the United States from Australia.

Chiefly through the prowess of these two aces, the greatest combination in American tennis history, the famous trophy has remained on the home shelf ever since. Today, in what may be their last united stand, Big Bill and Little Bill joined forces to meet the threat of France in the opening matches of the 1927 challenge round.

Not only were Johnston and Tilden assigned to share the burden in the four singles matches, two today and two more Saturday, but there were strong indications that they would be named also as the American doubles entry in tomorrow's only match. If so, previous plans to pair Tilden and Francis Hunter, Wimbledon and national doubles champions, would be overthrown and the entire defense put in the hands of the two Bills for the first time since 1920.

JOHNSTON MEETS LACOSTE

Johnston was paired with Rene LaCoste, present holder of the American singles title, for today's opening match, scheduled at 1:15 eastern standard time, while Tilden was drawn against Henri Cochet, who conquered Big Bill in the American singles last year and again at Wimbledon this year. These pairings will be reversed in Saturday's closing matches, with Tilden meeting LaCoste in the opener and Johnston finishing with Cochet.

Sentiment and their brilliant past performances were in the Americans' favor for the series, but it seemed to the majority of critics that the two Bills faced the severest tests of their international careers in an attempt to make it eight straight for Uncle Sam in Davis Cup play. Tilden, now 34, and Johnston, nearly 33, have passed the day when they sat supreme on the tennis heights. France's challenge to American supremacy, successful along every front within the past year except the Davis Cup, has become increasingly powerful.

TILDEN SEEKS REVENGE

Tilden has been balked particularly at every major turn by his foremost two French rivals since last year's challenge round. He lost the final match of that series to LaCoste, then was put out of the national singles by Cochet the following week at Forest Hills. Again, at St. Cloud, this summer, LaCoste checked Tilden in the finals of the French hard court championship while Cochet turned back the American at Wimbledon.

In an avenging mood, as a result of these setbacks, Tilden was declared by close observers to have reached the best form he has known in several years for the test here. Johnston's famous forehand drives always have been poison for the French stars.

Only one of them, Jean Borotra, has ever beaten Little Bill and the Basque is relegated this year to a doubles assignment only, with Jacques Brugnon as his partner.

CARDS, PHILLIES SWAP HURLERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 8.—(INS.)—Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, has announced the trade of Pitcher Bob McGraw for Tony Kaufmann, hurler for the Philadelphia Nationals.

The deal was negotiated through the waiver route and involved no money. An unnamed minor league pitcher will also be turned over to Philadelphia, Breadon announced.

The deal again makes Kaufmann a stable mate of Grover Alexander, with whom he worked for many years on the pitching staff of the Chicago Cubs.

White Sox, respectively, all have recommended Fenton. He has plenty of guts. He broke in three years ago, a product of the sand lots."

"FRISCO and Oakland," the informative Hap continues, "are having big years. Last week they had a Ping Bodie day. He is doing a big comeback. The fans gave him $1,500 and other presents. He is hitting as well as ever and playing a swell first base.

"I received a long letter from Mike Donlin the other day. He is at the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn. He expects to come out to the Hollywood foothills soon. The poor fellow has cancer of the stomach. He reports he is picking up some weight, however.

"THE Hollywood Boxing Club plays to the most colorful assemblage you can imagine. Some of the fans include Morton Kaer, Red Grange, George Wilson, Glenn Warner, Knute Rockne and other football lights; Oldfield, Jim Jeffries, Willie Ritchie, Tommy Ryan, Jack Root and until recently Ad Wolgast. Well-known actors like Dick Ferris, Richard Carle, Tom Lewis, Charley Murray, Raymond Hitchcock and others attend. The other night I saw in front of the Hollywood bowl Bud Taylor, Fidel LaBarba, Ace Hudkins, Sammy Baker, Jimmy McLarnin, Mushy Callahan, Newsboy Brown, Jackie Fields, Leo Lomski, Ernie Owens and a few tankers.

"MARK KELLY and Harry Grayson, your good friends on the papers out here, send their regards to you and Chilly Doyle. I wish you'd say hello to the ball club for me. Kelly, Grayson and all of us are pulling hook, line and sinker for the Pirates. You can count on me as your Western representative from now on."

"GOOD AS EVER"

SO HE SAYS

puts a ball over the plate it is a wild pitch."

But even aside from this matter of control, and that of being required to face better hitters, it would appear to one on the outside that pitching in the main tent must necessarily be a much tougher proposition than doing the same job in the minors.

HOWEVER, there is at least one pitcher with experience on both sides of baseball's dividing line who holds that it is easier to pitch in the fast set than in the brush belt. He is John Miljus of the Pirates, native Pittsburgher, who graduated from the sand lots of Lawrenceville to the minors, rising later to the Brooklyn National League club, and, because of some arm trouble that developed after he had served Uncle Sam overseas in the World War, being sent back to the minors by the Robins.

Pittsburgh bought him last July 9 from Seattle in the Pacific Coast League for $17,500 and Pitcher Andy House, after Miljus had shown signs of doing a big comeback. Since joining the Bucs, Miljus has won four games and lost three, and has taken part in 13 games in all.

"IT has been my experience that it is easier to pitch in the big league than in the minors," said Miljus. "For one thing the fielding behind you is much faster and the support you get from the team is a great deal stronger. Many batted balls that would go for base hits in the minors are turned into outs by the fast fielders up here. Another thing is that the ball parks as a rule are larger in the big leagues than in the minors, and fly balls that would clear the fence for home runs in many of the minor league parks are easily caught by the outfielders in the majors. All around, it has been my experience that it is easier to pitch in the big show."

Low Scoring Marks Duels

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

CARL F. KAUFFMANN, national public links king, played in a manner befitting one of such high station at Schenley Park today when he gained a lead of 2 up over Pat McDonough, defending champion, in the first 18 holes of their 36-hole semi-final match in the annual city title tournament. In the other semi-final duel, Robert Graham, medalist, shot the best golf of the day in gaining an edge of six up on J. F. Lally.

The Kauffmann-McDonough match, involving two of the most prominent figures in local public linksdom, attracted the biggest gallery, and both Carl and Pat rewarded their admirers by scoring brilliantly. Their medal scores were: Kauffmann, 77; McDonough, 74.

Lally today found Bob Graham in the same low scoring mood that resulted in his annexing the medal, and, try as he might, he could not match Sir Robert's superb 70. The best that Lally could do was a 79 and he found it far from good enough. Graham's card follows:

Out .....5 4 4 6 4 3 3 4 4—37
In ......3 3 3 4 3 4 5 4 4—33—70

36-HOLE TEST PLEASING

The increasing of the semi-final test from 18 to 36 holes, put to the test today for the first time in local city championships, won the approval of players, fans and officials. It is almost certain that the semi-final rounds in city title tourneys hereafter will be over the longer route. The change applies only to the championship flight.

WOMEN TO PLAY

Women of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania will compete tomorrow in a one-day tournament at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Today a number of them are practicing at Fox Chapel in preparation for the district women's championship which is to be played over the Aspinwall course next week. Entries for the big event close with Miss Anna Woods tomorrow.

MIXED FOURSOMES PLAY

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hochberg captured the mixed foursomes tournament at the Alcoma Country Club yesterday afternoon when they turned in a net 77. Play, as usual, was at alternate strokes. Mrs. A. P. Roth and Dr. W. H. K. McDiarmid, the latter one of the longest drivers in the district, had the low gross, a 93, and placed second with a net 79, having a 14 handicap. Mr. and Mrs. Hochberg had a gross 106 and a handicap of 29.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Patton ranked third with 102-17-85, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Seemann, fourth, with 103-17-86.

Charles Scott was awarded the best-dressed golfer prize and Tom Nichols was given the honor of the best dressed batchelor, in two special events conducted for the men by the women.

A banquet and dance followed in the evening.

Daughter Beats Mother

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 8.—(AP.)—Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, in the first round of match play in the championship tournament of the Women's West Virginia State Golf Association here yesterday, defeated her mother, Mrs. Edward Stifel, 3 and 2.

Forbes

Britain on the Decline, Says Forbes, After Visit.

By B. C. FORBES

BRITAIN is on the downgrade. That is the conviction begotten by a tour through England and Scotland, and by much intimate mingling with the common folks.

To Britain belonged the last century. To the United States will belong this century.

THE reasons for Britain's decline are fundamental, the causes inescapable.

Before the World War Britain's wage earners were, as a class, poorly paid. The majority of families were finding the struggle for existence very trying. Indeed, the present-day generation of factory and other industrial toilers suggests a stunted race; it is unusual to see six-footers among "factory hands" as they are often called.

The war caused wages to rise sharply. Since then attempts to enforce sharp reductions have been fiercely fought. The outcome has been the intense bitterness so frequently expressed violently by Labor's members of Parliament, by the strikes in the coal and other industries, by the ineffective general strike, etc. In some instances Labor has won, in some instances it has lost its fight for a larger share of the "kitty."

The net result, however, both in industry and agriculture has been to make operations, as a rule, less profitable than formerly.

BRITAIN'S national overhead, meaning its cost of government plus its interest on war debts, has become crushing. Industry and business carry probably the heaviest share of the load, but you get bitter complaints from all classes concerning the severity of the taxes levied upon them. The municipal taxes, at least in many cities, have increased inordinately, until even the renter of the humblest of abodes cries out loudly. Those considerably higher in the financial scale stagger under these same municipal taxes and also painfully onerous income tax exactions.

One of the saddest sights, as you travel through the United Kingdom, is the wholesale destruction of beautiful woods, most of them regarded as sacred in pre-war times. Titled and other landlords all over the country find themselves compelled to ruin wooded scenery in order to raise money by marketing the lumber, an exhibition seldom or never resorted to in the old days.

THE attitude of Britain's wage earners towards their work and towards their employers rarely compares favorably with that widely prevalent in the United States. Initiative, enterprise, ambition, loyalty, pleasure—perfectly naturally—are now pursued on a more general scale since the workers gained a new conception of their importance in the scheme of things by the part they played in the nation's struggle for self-preservation. Everywhere the attitude of workers now suggests the proud declaration of Scotland's national poet, "A man's a man for a' that." There is distinctly less bowing of the knee to "the gentry."

THEN, of course, Britain is less happily circumstanced than America in the vitally important matter of mass production. In most directions things are still done there on a relatively small scale. Also, Britain is far behind this country in respect to labor-saving machinery and devices. Many industries claim that they are too poor to find the money necessary to scrap the old and install the new.

Farms are being deserted as never before by the more progressive young men, including farmers' sons—the son of the largest farmer in my native section sailed a few weeks ago to an oil job in the Far East, not thinking it worth while to stay at home and follow in his father's footsteps.

Other impressions will follow.

OUTPUT OF COKE FALLS OFF

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 8.—The Courier says: Beehive coke production for some considerable time past having been brought well within the limits of demand from consumers, the activity at the ovens shows comparatively little change from week to week. Such fluctuations as have taken place have been within so narrow a range that they have not been occasioned by any developments in the trade. In fact, there has been an almost complete absence of developments in the ordinary sense of that term, hence no necessity for large increases or decreases in the weekly tonnages.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, September 3, was 62,290 tons, divided between the two districts in the following proportions: Connellsville, 31,550, an increase of 239 tons; Lower Connellsville, 30,740, a decrease of 1,129 tons, or a net decrease of 890 tons, as compared with a net increase of 300 tons during the preceding week.

The market remains quotable as follows:

COTTON MARKET

NEWS AND VIEWS

Wild Rise in Cotton.

A wild rise in cotton followed the bond suspension today when the government's crop report estimated a decline of about [illegible] bales as compared with the last previous estimate. Trade buyers rushed into the market on the buying side and shorts scrambled riotously to cover heavy commitments entered recently in the hope that the boll weevil damage would prove less serious than some of the experts have contended right along. The May contract tempered at the limit of advance permitted under the trading rules, 24.92 cents a pound, as compared with the final price this morning at 22.92. The condition of the cotton crop September 1 was [illegible] per cent, against 69.5 per cent on August 1 last and [illegible] per cent on September 1, 1926. The indicated production is 12,692,000 bales, against 13,492,000 a month ago and 17,977,374 in 1926. Indicated yield per acre September 1 was 148.1 pounds of lint cotton, against 154.5 pounds August 1 and 181.9 pounds in 1926.

Hardware More Active.

Hardware jobbers are preparing for a most active fall season. They pin their hopes on these factors: The improved agricultural situation, light stocks of retail stores and the fact that retailers carried over practically no fall stock from the 1926 season, says Hardware Age. Business on fall merchandise is already showing life, particularly in western markets. Current demand for staple goods is better than normal for this season, but daily totals vary in most markets. The average appears to be about equal to last year's record. Collections are running fair. Price changes are few.

Loss for Virginia Chemical.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corporation and subsidiaries report for year ended June 30, 1927, net loss of $219,[illegible] after depreciation, etc. The previous report was for 11 months ended June 30, 1926, and showed net income of $1,141,740, equal, after prior preferred and participating preferred dividends and prior preference stock sinking fund, to [illegible] cents a share on the common stock. President Wilson stated the company during past year acquired 15,[illegible] shares of its 7 per cent prior preference stock at an average cost of $[illegible] a share. The minority in the Steel City Chemical Company has been acquired, giving the Virginia Company a complete ownership.

—I—

Money in Circulation.

Per capita circulation of money in the United States September 1 was $[illegible], compared with $[illegible] August 1 and $42.02 September 1, last year, Treasury announces. Total money in circulation September 1 was $[illegible], compared with $[illegible] August 1 and $[illegible] September 1, last year. Stock of money in the Treasury September 1 was $[illegible], of which $[illegible] was gold coin and bullion.

Seminole Output Decreases.

Production of crude oil in the Seminole area for 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Wednesday totaled [illegible] barrels from [illegible] wells as compared with [illegible] barrels Tuesday and a peak of [illegible] barrels made July 30.

—I—

Kelsey-Hayes Earned $1.26.

Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Corporation and subsidiaries report for six months ended June 30 net profit of $[illegible] after all expenses, but before Federal and Canadian income taxes, equal, after allowing for preferred dividend, to $1.26 a share on the common stock. Net sales for the period amounted to $[illegible].

—I—

Philadelphia at 3½ Per Cent.

The Federal Reserve Board has approved a reduction of the rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent in the Philadelphia district, effective today. With the Philadelphia change all 12 Federal Reserve districts except Los Angeles and New Orleans will be on the lower rate.

—I—

Predict Tonnage Gain.

A complete reversal has taken place in the estimates of unfilled tonnage to be shown by the United States Steel Corporation next Saturday, an increase of about [illegible] tons being expected now, as against previous reports that no gain whatever would be shown. The report Saturday will show the amount of unfilled business on the books of the corporation as of August 31.

—I—

Discontinue Weevil Reports.

The special boll weevil reports issued by the Department of Agriculture have been discontinued. The reports will be used by the crop reporting board in compiling cotton estimates. Officials stated the reports were not sufficiently guarded from premature publication and therefore endangered stability of the cotton market. The reporting board hereafter will take over the weevil report to prevent its information from becoming public prematurely to the official time of release.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENTS CONFUSED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP.)—Soaring cotton prices, all the options making an extreme rise of 200 points permitted under the rules of trading, and confused fluctuations of stock prices were the outstanding incidents in today's financial markets. Although a great deal of selling was in progress at times, being a combination of realizing and offerings by the professional element, the enthusiasm exhibited for certain stocks was unabated and a number reached their best prices for 1927.

Immediate reflection of the government cotton report was seen in an advance of 3 points or so in several of the Southern and Southwestern railroad shares. Belated strength of railway equipments, which had been lagging behind the market, responded to the familiar practice of the constructive element of taking up new favorites when some of the old leaders showed signs of faltering.

Oils, food, minor motor and accessory shares reflected keen buying at intervals, some of the early losses running as high as 4½ points in International Harvester, were being retrieved in mid-afternoon.

Included in the list of stocks which achieved new peaks for the year, or longer, were United States Steel, at 151¾, American Smelting, 178¾, Consolidated Gas, 119¾, Postum, 124¾, and Pennsylvania, 67. National Tea got up 5½ points, and 4-point advances were registered by American Car and Foundry, Mullins Body, Union Carbide, Atlantic Refining, Pittsburgh Coal, Wabash, Chesapeake and Ohio, and a few others rose 3 to 3½.

The closing was strong. General Motors slipped down around the 230 level again in the late afternoon without impeding the rise in some other motor and accessory shares, notably Jordan and Mullins Body. American Can, Hudson Motors and Sears Roebuck also tapered off on profit taking. Houston Oil, which had a sensational bulge of 20 points late yesterday, shot up about 16 more, touching 156 as the shorts scrambled to get stock. Total sales approximated 2,600,000 shares.

Call money was renewed at 3½.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The raw sugar market was firm early today and while no sales were reported it developed that late yesterday about 100,000 bags of Cubas and 15,000 bags of Philippines were sold to local refiners at an advance of 1/16c, or on the basis of 4.03c for Cuban duty paid.

Reflecting the strength in the spot market raw sugar futures opened at advances of 1 to 3 points on covering and continued buying for Cuban and outside account. Following the call further gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded, but the upturn attracted considerable realizing or liquidation and partial reactions followed with prices at midday 3 points higher on September and 1 point higher on later deliveries.

In refined sugar prices were unchanged at 5.[illegible]c for fine granulated, with withdrawals on old contracts continued of liberal proportions, but new business was light, with the trade evidently supplied for the time being at least and not inclined to buy much beyond nearby requirements.

Natural Gas

Natural gas sales in the United States are approximately 2½ times manufactured gas sales.

Natural gas produces about twice the number of heat units produced by manufactured gas.

Natural gas consumption in the United States has doubled in 10 years.

Natural gas is the most valuable and convenient of all fuels and its distribution one of the most profitable of public utility services.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Several high-grade [illegible] issues came into prominence in today's bond market in reflection of the current ease in money rates. Some profit taking was in evidence in the industrial division but [illegible] were small and not at all [illegible]. The upward trend of [illegible] freight loadings and the belief that the remaining months of 1927 will show a marked improvement in business was [illegible] to attract attention to the [illegible] group.

Missouri Pacific [illegible] were conspicuous among [illegible] bonds, the [illegible] and general [illegible] changing hands briskly at fractionally better prices. Demand also was [illegible] for [illegible] refunding [illegible], Chesapeake [illegible] [illegible] Union Pacific [illegible] and a few others, all of which showed slight improvement in price.

Italian obligations again gave a good account of themselves, but other foreign bonds were inactive and rather mixed in tone.

United States government securities were steady although the volume of business was small.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—There was a pronounced increase in the volume of business and the number of securities traded on the curb market during the day, but price movements while covering a wide range in many issues were irregular, a reactionary tendency appearing especially in some of the high-priced stocks.

Royal Baking which Wednesday reached a new peak at 339 was without nearby demand and dropped to 330, following the statement by directors of the company that no unusual action was under consideration and denying any intention of arranging for a readjustment of the capitalization of the company.

In some issues in which advances had recently been made because of heavily increased earnings there was evidence that statements recently published had been discounted. American Gas and Electric responded to its favorable report with an advance of a point to 109¼, but quickly reacted over a point on profit-taking sales. Johns-Manville was again in supply, but after yielding over 3 points recovered most of its loss.

Auburn Auto started with a loss of 3 points following the announcement of the acquisition of other companies, but quickly retrieved that decline. Celanese first preferred after advancing a point dropped 3 points. Melville Shoe moved in the same way, making a new high record on an advance of about 3 points, but lost part of this gain on profit-taking. Firestone Tire and Deere & Co. each declined 3 points. General Baking A reflected the apparent strengthening of its dividend position and rose over a point, making a new high for the year.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list).

STOCKS

Trading On Broader Scale Here

Miscellaneous manufacturing issues occupied the center of the stage in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with the usually active fuel shares relegated to second position in trading interest. The volume of business was not large, but prices were steady to firm and there was no inclination to drop offerings below the sales levels prevailing on the close yesterday.

Standard Sanitary scored the widest gain in the initial dealings. This issue, which has been in rather steady demand for several days, opened with an overnight gain of a full point with several odd lots changing hands at the initial figure, 93. This price compares with the close of 90 at the end of last week and places the stock within a few points of its record high for the year. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt had a wide spread between the bid and offer, 90⅞ bid and 93 asked, and the first transactions were recorded at 91½, an advance of ½ over Tuesday's final price. Several odd lots of American Window Glass Machine common came out at 35, unchanged from the selling price of the past two or three weeks.

As the session progressed the market assumed broader proportions than on any previous day this month. While most of the trading was of the odd lot variety, the number of different securities appearing on the board was larger than the average for some time back, and prices generally firm. The upswing in Standard Sanitary continued into the late session with the price rising steadily. Harbison-Walker made a gain of 1½ points on a small lot sale and fractional advances were recorded in several other manufacturing issues.

Fuels failed to develop any speed but quotations were firm. Arkansas Gas and Lone Star were both handled at figures approximating yesterday's close. In the bank section, a 10-share lot of Peoples Savings and Trust changed hands at 335 as against the last previous sale a 325.

WANTED—MEN! WORK DURING EVENING OR SPARE TIME.

A bonus for your summer work. You can earn at least $40 in your spare time every week.

Whether employed or unemployed, read carefully and investigate. You cannot afford to pass up the greatest opportunity in Pittsburgh today. Read these facts carefully. Remember you can earn at least $35 for your spare time work during the evenings and we will show you how to do this EXTREMELY SIMPLE work and make you understand thoroughly before you start. WORK WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. NO SCHOOLING. NO INSTRUCTION COURSES. These positions can be filled during the spare hours (during the evening) of mechanics, tradesmen and business men. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. Full time positions can be arranged for those unemployed and those desiring permanent work. FINANCIAL COOPERATION GIVEN. This is not just "another ad," but a responsible, well-known Pittsburgh firm offering real, dignified employment. Positions (part time or permanent) are extremely simple, in pleasant surroundings and most congenial atmosphere. Do not confuse this ad with others of similar wording, for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. This is real. This is genuine. Every ambitious person in the city of Pittsburgh would be anxious to procure this employment if he only knew the facts. YOU WILL EARN THE MOMENT YOU START work and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start. Don't be misled and don't waste your time on "wild goose chases." This is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. Applicants must be white and over 25 years of age. Every one will be given utmost consideration. This is not a chance but a REAL OPPORTUNITY. This ad will appear until Friday only, and none will be considered after Friday evening.

Apply Friday evening, Sept. 9th, at 8:30 o'clock, ROOM 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG., Seventh ave. and Smithfield st.

NOTICE—Our business is becoming so heavy that we have decided to open a new department. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evening after business hours. Many of our employes, who are employed otherwise during the day time, have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. Make up your mind now to answer this ad promptly, for this opportunity will not last long. Knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY during the summer months. A BANK ACCOUNT AND VACATION. Shirkers, back passers and would-be smart alecks stay away. REMEMBER THE TIME TO APPLY is 8:30 O'CLOCK FRIDAY EVENING ONLY. Now, if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME during the summer months.

We will receive no application after 8:30 o'clock (daylight saving time) Friday evening, so make up your mind NOW to answer on time. REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT, EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT THE ABOVE TIME.

A LAST OPPORTUNITY

This ad is for the individual who THINKS and then ACTS. All positions are genuine and we expect to FILL ALL VACANCIES with this ad, so be on time promptly.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

TRANSATLANTIC airplane service is not yet ripe for passengers. No mistakes are rectified after leaving the window.

And we know tourists well enough to know that they can enjoy no transportation line which hasn't got a complaint department.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The only fun in traveling is the squawking privilege. The indignant old ladies, who jump out of their seats and yank on the bellrope of the Oregon short line excursion train, would never fit in with the color scheme of an Atlantic monoplane.

When you are in an ocean buzzard you are allowed only one jump out of your seat. And if you yank on the bellrope you had better make certain that your chauffeur is waiting at the station with your parachute.

There is triple extract of joy in poking your best nicotine-stained finger under the conductor's only nose and yelling:

"When we get in I'm going to report you to the president of the line."

It doesn't mean anything, because the conductor writes your name and address on his cuffs just before sending them to the laundry.

But don't try that rough gag with the pilot of an Atlantic scooter. He's liable to send you back to the dining car, four clouds to the rear.

Another feature about the service is that you get to Europe in thirty hours. When a woman mugs her husband goodbye in New York she doesn't want him to reach Paris that quickly.

The ocean has grown into a large institution. It is three thousand miles wide at its cheapest point.

And when you are flying from A to Z, the rest of the alphabet is no good to you if you stub your chin on an M.

The only safe kind of a trip to make is one which enables you to go back home for your toothbrush.

The Erie ain't bad. There are better roads than the Erie. But at least the Eriè don't strap you in.

The ocean loopers nail you to your seat with a thing they call a safety belt. And when a sea gull starts diving after fish it's time for the jockey to jump.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "THE KEY TO A WOMAN'S HEART."

So long as WOMEN have HEARTS, men will be Able to TOUCH them.
Not ALL men, of course.
But ONE, if he
But FINDS the KEY,
Will be able to Enter therein.
And the KEY most times
Is the SAME—sympathy.
Some men FIND, when they Give SYMPATHY, the Heart of the WOMAN swings
Open like a DOOR.
OTHER men find it is Better to ask the WOMAN for SYMPATHY.
So they make her feel
TENDER, compassionate,
Motherly, and again
She opens her HEART
And takes them in.
Some women's HEARTS are TENDER places, kept warm
By DREAMS.
Others are like a SAFETY
VAULT with many Private BOXES.
A WISE WOMAN gives no
Man the COMBINATION
To the safe. But
EACH man his PLACE.

Everything Important Is Done In This Brain

HELEN WILLS, THINKING

The two latest and lovelist pictures of California's young tennis genius, Helen Wills, will interest many girls and more boys.

They are all invited to notice the fact that in this world, everything worth while depends on THINKING. Miss Wills with her eyes cast down shows first that she possesses the machinery for thinking.

Second, it shows the concentration of mind upon which her success is based.

Miss Helen Wills' hair is not bobbed, but the arrangement is about as good. A little Psyche knot low down, showing the outline of the well developed head.

The strong chin, shown in profile, shows strength of character.

There are no ACCIDENTS in real success. For when you read that Helen Wills beat all the girls in the great British tennis tournament at Wimbledon, champions from all over the world, you may be sure that she did it with her brain.

Also please observe that brain does not interfere with beauty.

In the second photograph of Miss Wills, she is dreaming perhaps as she turns her eyes up about something more romantic than tennis, shows that physical strength, the power of will and concentration, can keep company with beautiful, soft emotional eyes, and a mouth exquisitely developed.

THE SAME HELEN DREAMING.

These pictures of Helen Wills recall and deserve to have printed with them Shakespeare's famous sonnet about "Sylvia."

Here are Shakespeare's lines:

Who is Silvia? what is she?
That all our swains commend her?
Holy, fair, and wise is she:
The heaven such grace did lend her,
That she might admired be.

Is she kind as she is fair?
For beauty lives with kindness:
Love doth to her eyes repair,
To help him of his blindness;
And, being help'd, inhabits there.

Then to Silvia let us sing,
That Silvia is excelling;
She excels each mortal thing
Upon the dull earth dwelling:
To her let us garlands bring.

When you look at these pictures you see that Helen Wills' mind is one in which FIGHTING and THINKING are combined, fighting of the right kind, of course.

Unfair To Blondes

Rev. F. B. Loos, of Liberty, Mo., a strangely named town for his calling, has married 4,500 couples and he says:

"The brunette is serious and seems to take a marriage ceremony in earnest, but the dumbest bride, who always seems to wonder what it is all about, is the blonde."

A queer paradox has often arisen in connection with blondes. People have been in the habit of calling them dumb, but they seem to be smart enough to capture desirable husbands.

As a matter of fact, a wife is what she turns out to be.

Garrett P Serviss Says:

America's Tonic

SOME time ago I discussed briefly a report of tests of school children which revealed that students of immediate foreign descent made, in some respects, a better showing than those from old American blood. A reader in Arizona remarks that this doesn't surprise him. "They came," he says, referring to the bright students new to our land, "of parents, or grandparents, who had the courage and the hardihood to break all home ties and local persuasion, brave the tempests of the wide ocean, spend their last small coin and wrestle with the difficulties of language and social customs in order that their children might be blessed with greater opportunities. Is it great wonder that these children should inherit some of the thrift, ambition and true estimate of values of their parents?"

No, of course it is no wonder. The wonder, if there be any, is how the emigrants caught, in the midst of the depressing circumstances of their native home, the powerful inspiration that sent them to America in the face of so many obstacles. But another passage in my Arizona correspondent's letter seems plainly to reveal the source of that inspiration through an echo still resounding in the hearts and minds of the new citizens:

"I was at dedicatory services in Phoenix this morning. The preacher was foreign-born. We got a patriotic treat. Another prominent congregation on the same street, similarly equipped with a foreign-born preacher, got a like treat. There was a joke song on our records a few years ago in which the first verses complained because everything was being absorbed by the 'Armenians and the Greeks;' then the last verse revealed the fact that they were the only ones who knew our national anthem."

It was the unconscious "propaganda" of American ideals, floating over the world, as effortless and as unrestrainable as summer thistle downs, that awoke, in far lands, the irrepressible urge bringing the fathers and grandfathers across the sea. The original inspiration becomes a tonic when the children and grandchildren have acquired the new view of the world and of human relations that American life presents. The opportunity is open before them to reach a plane of living that their parents had only dreamed of—and hardly that amidst their native surroundings. It is not surprising, then, that they make good records in the schools. It is not surprising that they preach patriotism, and get the National Anthem by heart. Those to whom privileges are new, value them most.

Tales That Are Told

The Two Sides

The late Ernest Ball, composer of "Mother Machree," had a mordant wit.

Once at a Los Angeles garden party a divorce trial was being discussed, and Mr. Ball said of the lady in the case:

"I knew Minnie well. She was one of those wives who frankly admit that there are two sides to every question—her own and her mother's."

Mandy's Error

IN THE course of the trial the Judge turned to the Negro woman on the stand and asked, "How old are you?"

"I'se 73, Jedge."

"Are you sure?"

"Yass, suh."

"Mandy, you don't look 73."

"I'se sure, Jedge."

After a few moments the trial was interrupted by Mandy. "Jedge, suh, I was wrong when I said my age was 73; that's my waist measure."

And Then—!

OFFICER! A man just stole my car! Did you see which way he went?"

"Was it a Blooie sedan?"

"No; a Junkett sport roadster."

"Oh, a Junkett! Let's see now, yellow with purple spots?"

"Yes, yes."

"With a couple of extra tires?"

"Yes, and it had the top down."

"And it had a motometer on the radiator cap?"

"That's it! Which way did he go?"

"Did it have a spotlight in the windshield?"

"Yes! How long ago did you see it?"

"I didn't see it at all; I was just curious."

Your Goal

ARE you discouraged because you are still far from the goal you set for yourself?

Do you feel like giving up and classing yourself a failure?

Are you asking yourself what is the use of further effort?

Perhaps you set your goal too high.

Perhaps you did not use good judgment in establishing it.

Again, you may have thought you could gain your place without much effort and because you found it otherwise you are now looking for an excuse to give up.

It might be well for you to set your objective a short way ahead, not as your ultimate aim, but as a stepping stone to your goal.

When you have reached this objective, set another ahead.

You may be so constituted that a long undertaking overpowers you, while little aspirations give you courage to struggle on.

It is easy to set goals and then hope for chance to help you.

But that is merely a form of daydreaming, harmful and deterrent so far as getting anywhere is concerned.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

His Folly

IT WAS his folly, so men said, that kept him at his humble task, day in, day out, while swift years sped; a loftier lot he did not ask. Nor did he look to distant lands to glimpse the loveliness of earth; instead, he found beneath his hands enough of beauty and worth. It was his folly not to seek the friendship of the great and wise; he gave his service to the weak, gained gladness from their grateful eyes. The worldly-minded could have told of many ways to aid his case, to bring him men's esteem and gold, to set him in a higher place. It was folly, though, to meet with patience what the years had sent, and so his folly made life sweet and kept him ever well-content.

New York Day by Day

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—There are few spots so near New York's heart beat so restful as that little church a few short steps from Fifth avenue on Twenty-eighth street known far and wide as "The Little Church Around the Corner." Its real name is the Church of the Transfiguration.

There is something exceedingly touching in its simplicity—the modest edifice and the churchyard nearly always bright with flowers. It is the shrine at which many theatrical players worship, for it was the church from which a beloved actor was buried when other churches looked askance at the profession.

Weddings are so frequent there that nearly always the sidewalk out front is strewn with rice and old shoes. It has stained glass memorial windows erected to James Montague, Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson and Richard Mansfield. Another famous church for theatrical folk is "The Actor's Church" on West Forty-eighth street.

Many actors came from extremely religious homes. Al Jolson is the son of a Jewish cantor. Bobbie Clarke, the comedian, was once a choir boy in Ohio. Also there are many devoted religionists on the stage. Fred Stone is a notable example. Also William Hodge.

A song and dance team in vaudeville gives 10 per cent of their salaries to the church. And few men facing death faced it so bravely as Charles Frohman, who, standing on the deck of the sinking Lusitania, said: "Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life?"

It has been estimated more than 50 per cent of the people of the stage are regular churchgoers. These are not recruited entirely from the so-called legitimate stage and vaudeville, but include many who belong to burlesque.

Few sermons stressed so powerfully the doctrine of religious tolerance as Augustus Thomas's "As a Man Thinks." And it is only one of innumerable successful plays with a religious theme. The truth is there is as much godliness—indeed if not more—on the stage as in any other profession.

* * *

So heavy is the demand at the "Little Church" for marriage ceremonies that appointments must be made far in advance. In June this year 250 couples plighted their troth there. No charge is made for actual ceremonies, but all "gifts" are turned over to the church fund. These gifts range from $1 to $200.

Incidentally a critic rises to yelp that a recent statement that few chorus men progress beyond a chorus has an illustrious exception in Martin Brown, who has written five fairly successful plays.

It is said the wealthiest man catering to the amusement public is John Ringling, whose fortune is estimated at more than $50,000,000. Mr. Ringling has been in every village, town or city in America boasting more than 1,000 population. Most of his time these days is spent in Sarasota, Fla., although he comes to New York frequently to prowl around art galleries. His collection of paintings and art objects is one of the finest in the world.

Women who begin in girlhood to become professional swimmers often acquire what is known as "fish mouth," a receding of the chin due to the manner of holding their mouths for breathing purposes while in the water. Plastic surgeons have operated on two recently to adjust the malformation.

* * *

There is no indication of a night club revival this winter. The slump that hit Broadway several months ago has made speculators in this brand of gaiety particularly wary. Only a handful of clubs that closed with the old hooey "until after the hot weather" are planning to reopen. The suckers have turned to new diversions. It wasn't so much being a sucker—it was being laughed at that really hurt. It got so the New Yorker who went to a night club felt a good deal as he would feel sitting in a Broadway rubber-neck wagon.

Recently I seem to have unintentionally handed Flushing, L. I., a back-handed compliment. In contrasting it to New York I said it had the sleepy manner of the old South. To me that is a rare charm for a city of 75,000 souls. But some Flushing folk have protested. So a low bow and an apology. I really think it is a delightful city.

Discouraged

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When I am discouraged, when my toe aches or my eyes bother me or something happens to make me feel sorry for myself, I like to think of Mr. S. M. Leisure who lives in a little town near me.

Mr. Leisure was 70 years old the other day and he was out mowing the lawn. This is quite remarkable when taken in connection with the fact that since he was 13 years old he has been without arms.

"No matter what happened," he said, "I was always able to paddle my own canoe. Why cry over losing two arms or two legs! The joy of living is just as sweet."

I hear and read of many people who are having rough sledding. They have housemaid's knee or dandruff or some other trouble that makes them think there is no use going on.

I have had several letters from people seriously contemplating suicide because events were all conspiring against them.

It would do them all good to go out and see this gentleman. They ought to build a circus ring and charge admission. Then somebody would probably go and see him. It wouldn't need any preaching nor anybody to point the moral. Just looking at him would be enough.

To me he is equivalent to a good spanking. I want to brace up and tighten my belt, wipe my nose, pull down my vest and try again.

If this man with no arms for almost 60 years is still cheerful and hopeful, goes out and mows the lawn and otherwise paddles his own canoe, why shouldn't I?

There are lots of brave people in the world, and it takes more courage and "intestinal stamina" to go on and keep your chin up and look pleasant than it does to go out in the garden and eat worms or select a nice telephone pole and hang yourself. Anybody can quit, and self-pity is the easiest bog to slip into.

But me for the man with the indomitable spirit, the man who refuses to be licked and the man who takes with a grin whatever Fate sends him, and buckles in and makes the most of what he has left.

These are the people who are the backbone of the country, and the people who win wars, the people who present an unbroken front against the assaults of pessimism.

What this world wants is cheering up and bucking up. It doesn't need anybody to teach them how to weep, nor anybody to make them feel sorry for the human lot.

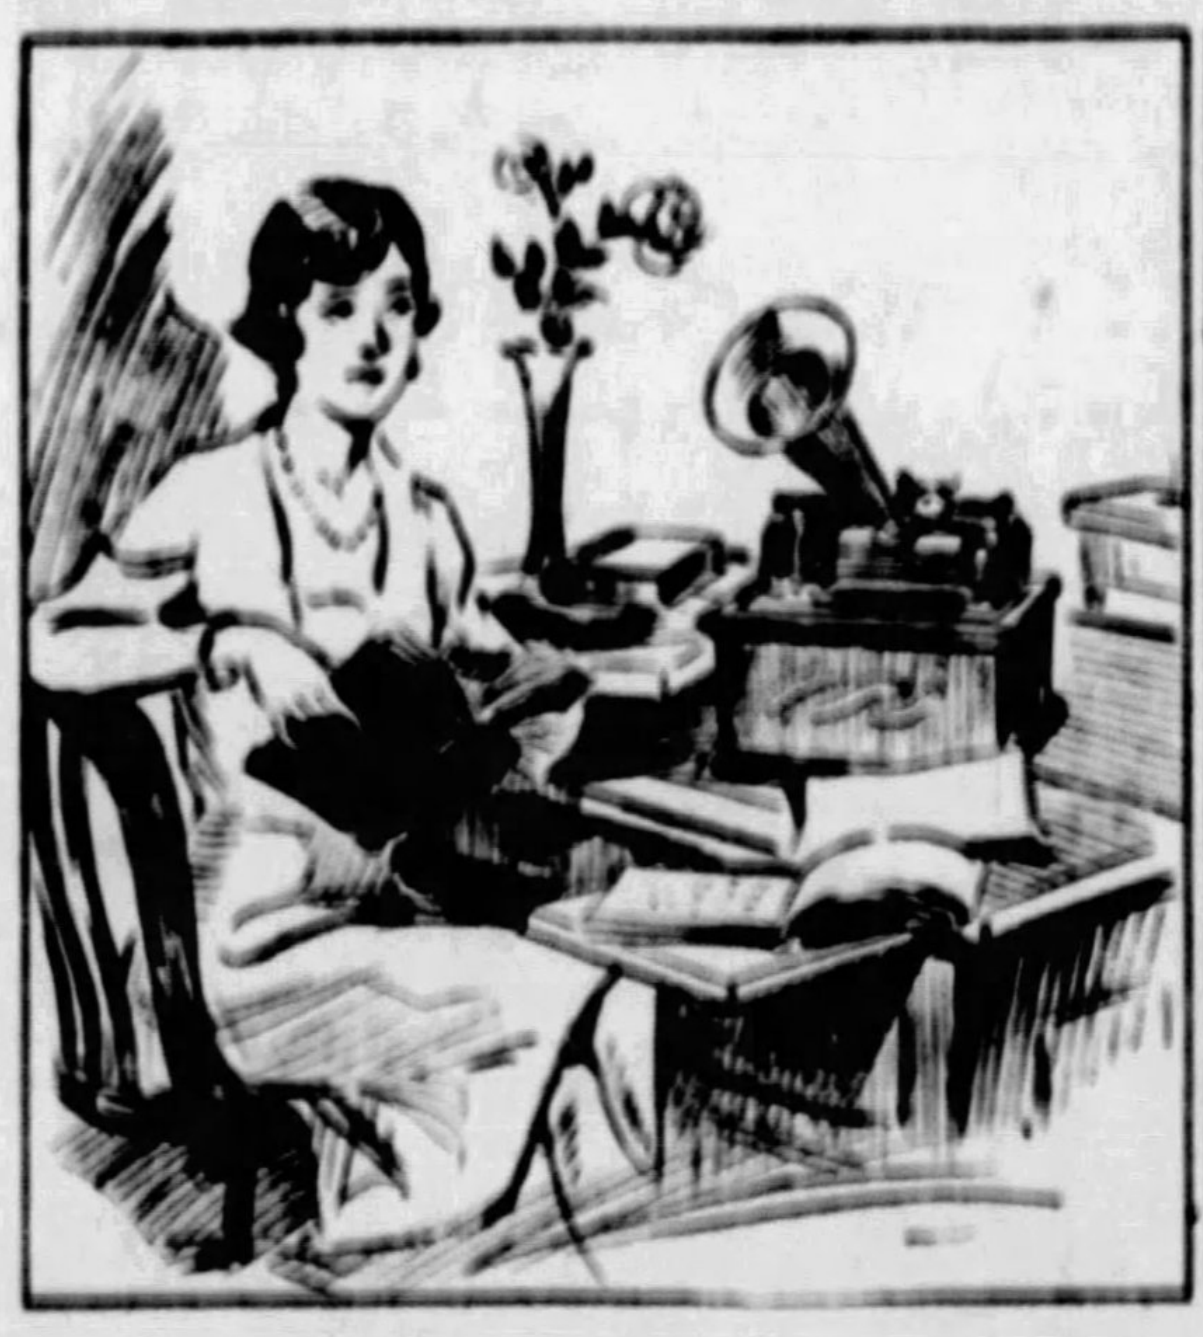
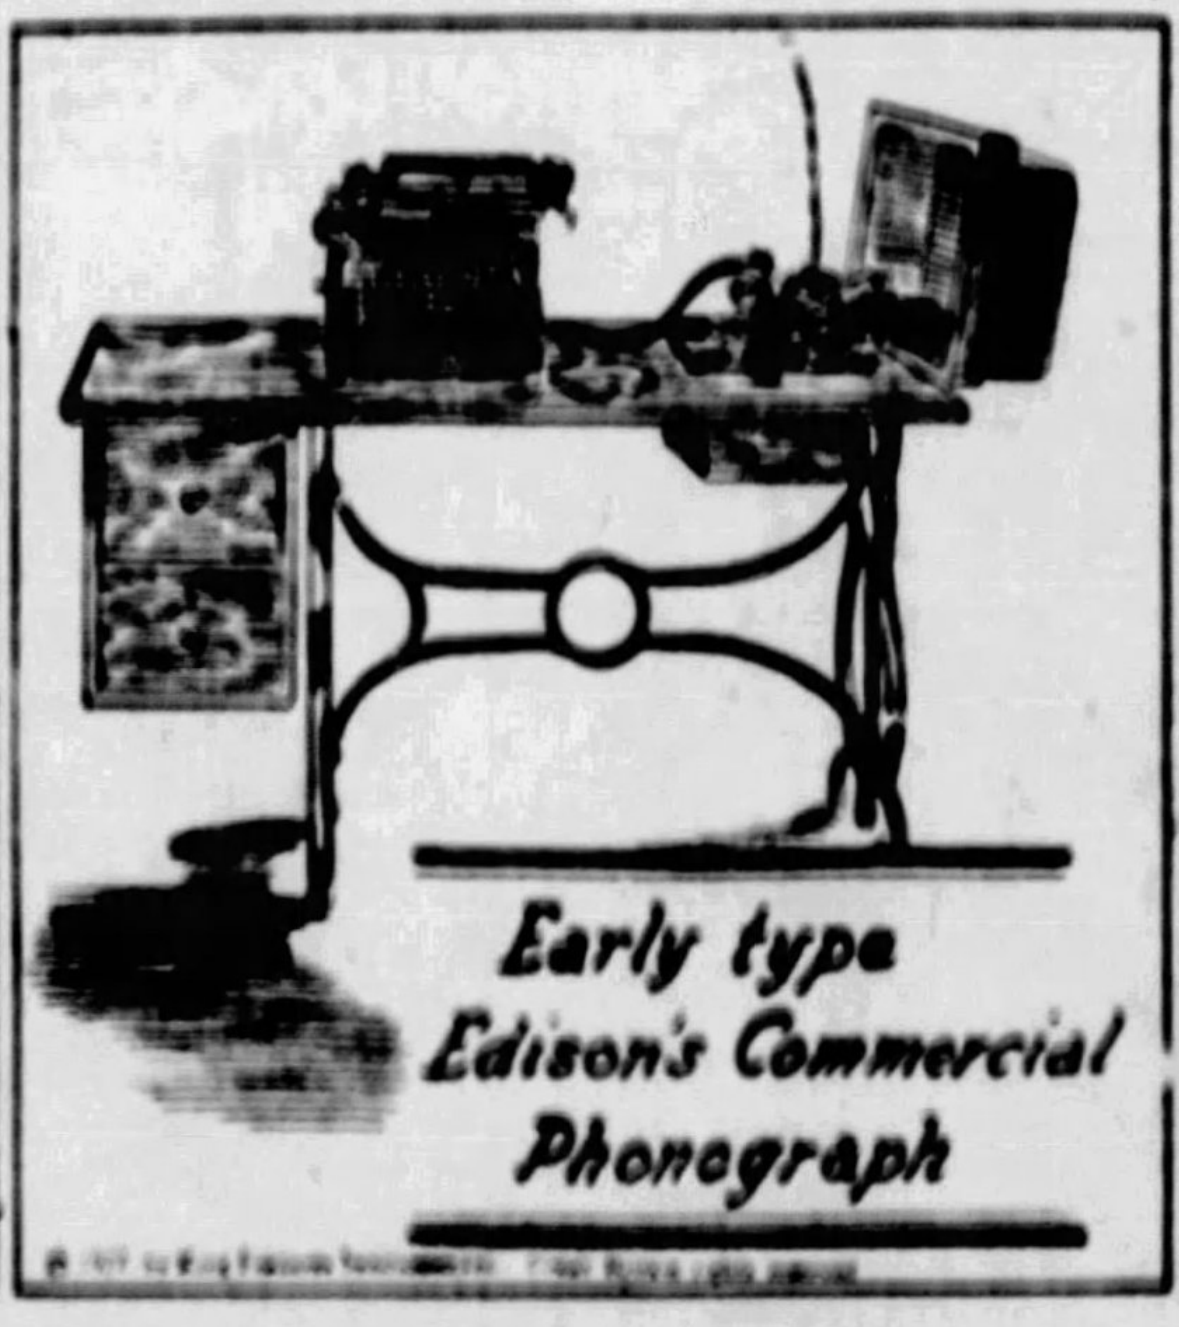
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

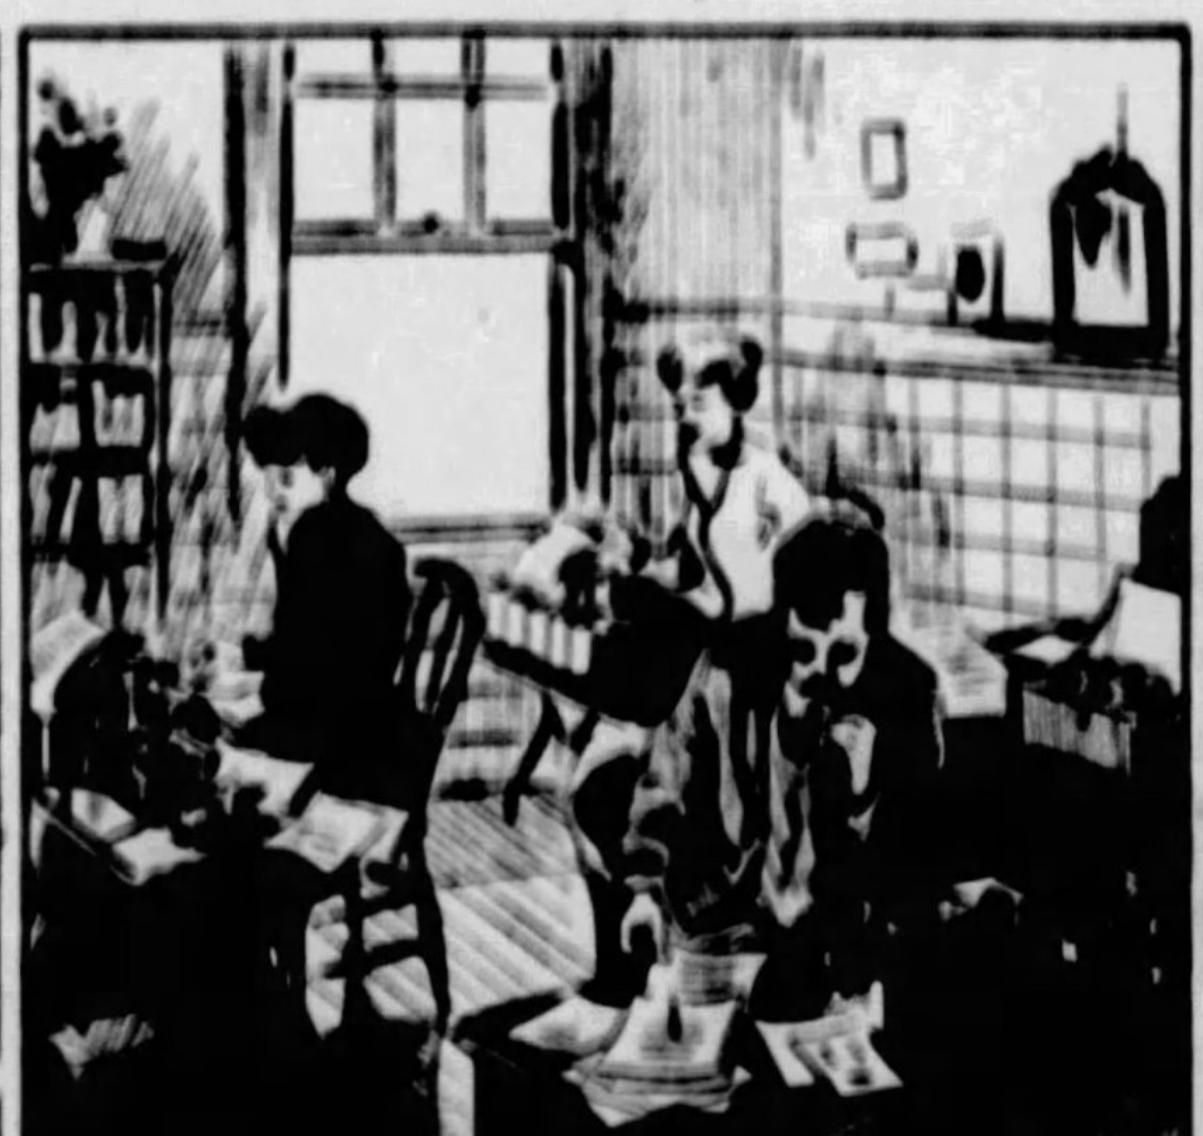


IN 1878 EDISON predicted that the phonograph would be used for "the preservation of languages by exact reproduction of pronouncing," and "preserving the explanations made by a teacher." He was right. For many years the phonograph has been used in language teaching.

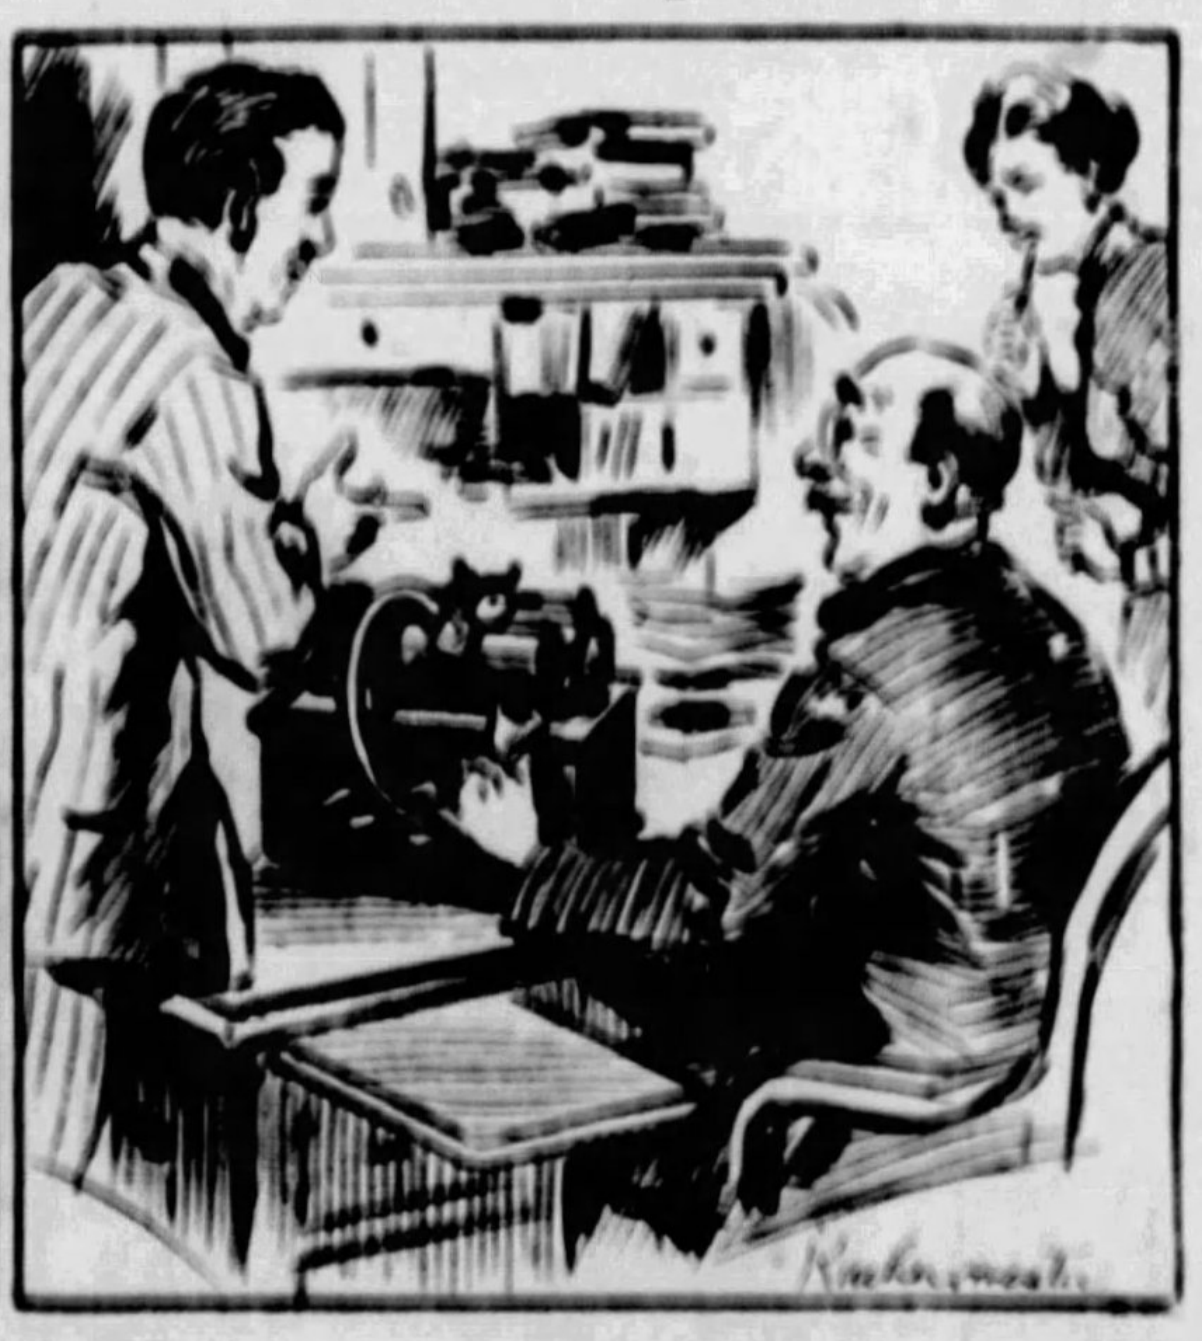


Early type Edison's Commercial Phonograph

ORIGINALLY, Edison thought that the principal use for the phonograph would be in "letter writing and all kinds of dictation without the aid of a stenographer." Here we see a drawing of Edison's commercial phonograph of 1897, the forerunner of the modern dictating machine.



EARLY attempts to popularize the phonograph for commercial purposes failed principally because the instruments were not well understood and did not possess the refinements necessary for office use. However, some firms were induced to try them, as shown above. Time, 1900.



FOR many years the chief objections to machine dictation came from secretaries who thought that if the "bosses" bought dictating machines there would soon be a drastic cut in salaries. Like many another unfounded fear this has disappeared. (Continued Tomorrow.)
